RUSSIANS MINGLE JOY AND RESENTMENT

Great Outburst of Enthusiasm Among Multitudes at the Capital.

ANTI-GOVERNMENT DEMONSTRATIONS

Conflicts Occur Between the Reds and Royalists at St. Petersburg.

GEN. TREPOFF GIVES WARNING

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 31.—All Russia today celebrated enthusiastically the emperor's gift of freedom, which the greater part of the people received with deepest joy, though in St. Petersburg, Moscow and other cities Socialists and Revolutionaries organized anti-government demonstrations and red flag parades which the patriotic manifestations led to a number of conflicts between the "reds and whites," as the anti-government and royalist factions are respectively termed. On the whole, the day passed more quietly in Russia than had been expected, though collisions between the people and the troops are reported from the Poltava, Kazan and Kishineff.

In each of the two capitals, St. Petersburg and Moscow, the day was one such as the Russians never before have seen. The Slavic people, who, during the long war just closed and the anxious period preceding the announcement of the new era of constitutionalism seemed self-restrained and apathetic, gave themselves up fully to the exuberance of the moment and spent the entire day in parades and assemblies, which for the first time in the history of Russia were freely permitted.

Joyous Crowds Given Full Rein.

Under the orders of Count Witte and Gen. Trepoff, the troops generally were withdrawn from the streets of the cities, and the fullest rein given the people to let out their enthusiasm in demonstrations which, so long as they were not destructive, were not interfered with.

It was a significant omen that, after a fortnight of gloomy and depressing weather, symbolic of the days of the strike, the sun shone out brightly today in St. Petersburg and brought a radiant Indian summer day. The scenes in St. Petersburg reminded the observer of events in an American university town after a great football victory, but a thousand times magnified. From early morning the streets of the capital were filled with a mass of demonstrators, who paraded up and down the long and broad Nevsky Prospect and tramped time and again the route between the two principal centers of demonstration, the Kazan cathedral and the university, and, constantly augmenting, reached a grand total of fully 200,000 persons.

Socialists Are Dissatisfied.

Down the Nevsky Prospect late in the afternoon Socialist agitators, consisting of both students and workmen, and members of revolutionary organizations, jumped into the forefront of affairs in St. Petersburg and converted the celebration into a great revolutionary demonstration.

There were long processions in which hundreds of red flags were carried and to which everyone was compelled to doff the hat. A great majority of the paraders flaunted on the lapels of their coats rosettes and streamers of crimson ribbon, and Socialist orators delivered fiery orations from the balconies of their university and the portico of the cathedral, or wherever they could gather audiences. They declared the concessions of the emperor's manifesto were insufficient and that they must have the freedom of all political prisoners, the formation of a national militia and the banishment of Gen. Trepoff and all the troops under his command 20 miles from the capital.

Early in the day the "Marseillaise" supplanted the national anthem as the popular marching song. The Royalists attempted to take the lead against the Socialists and revolutionists by organizing counter parades in which they carried the red, white and blue banners of Russia and chanted the national anthem, but they were driven off the Nevsky Prospect by the overwhelming numbers of the "Reds" every time they appeared.

Merchants Feared Pillage.

In the early part of the day great crowds of spectators filled the broad sidewalks and remained until the demonstrations assumed so turbulent a character that the well-intentioned classes fled to their homes and the merchants hastily boarded the windows of their stores and shops and barred their doors, fearing an outbreak which might result in pillage and destruction. Such an outbreak, however, did not occur and the day closed without serious collisions.

The major portion of the citizens, tired

FINLAND RETURNED TO CONSTITUTIONAL REGIME

Manifesto Abolishes Arbitrary Conditions—Rejoicing in Russian Cities.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

HELSINGFORS, FINLAND, Oct. 31.—The proclamation of civil liberty in Russia was followed today by the announcement of the return to a constitutional regime in Finland and the abolition of the arbitrary conditions under which Finland has been governed since the accession as governor general of Count Bobrikoff, who, in June of last year was killed by Eugen Schaumann. Prince John Obolensky, the governor general, announced to a deputation sent by the meeting that he had been instructed from St. Petersburg that the diet be immediately called in extraordinary session to legislate for Finland.

Before the news of the manifesto was received here the workmen's committee had declared in favor of a general strike which commenced today. The entire train service east of Helsingfors ceased after midnight and a general industrial strike began this morning.

WARSAW, Oct. 31.—The imperial manifesto made a deep impression on the people here. They embraced in the restaurants and there was universal rejoicing, in which the army officers joined. The military patrols have been withdrawn.

KIEFF, Oct. 31.—The publication of the imperial manifesto created tremendous enthusiasm here. The streets were thronged with people marching in procession. Red flags were everywhere displayed and crowds congregated at various points and knelt and sang the de Profundis in memory of those who have fallen in the struggle for freedom.

SOSOSNOVICE, Oct. 31.—The manifesto caused the greatest joy here. Crowds everywhere in the streets and squares are demonstrating their satisfaction. The railway men are especially proud. They claim the railroad strike decided the fate of the country.

MOSCOW, Oct. 31.—There were public rejoicings here today over the emperor's manifesto and the strikers resumed work. The crowd formed a procession in which there were 10,000 persons, and paraded through the streets, singing patriotic songs. They met a force of policemen escorting a body of political prisoners whom the crowd wanted released. A conflict ensued, in which two persons were killed and some injured.

AUSTRIANS TO FOLLOW SUIT.

Social Democratic Party Resolves to Emulate the Russians by Resort to Strike.

VIENNA, Oct. 31.—The congress of the Austrian Social-Democratic party today unanimously resolved to emulate the "glorious victory" of the Russian proletariat and demanded the immediate convocation of the reichsrath for the sole purpose of substituting for the present "parliament of privileges" a system of national representation, based on equal and direct manhood suffrage.

The resolution declares that all attempts at procrastination would be opposed by extreme measures, even by resort to a general strike if necessary. An orderly demonstration of 6,000 persons was held in the ringstrasse this evening to support the demands.

Trepoff Has Resigned.

PARIS, Nov. 1.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Eclair says that Gen. Trepoff has resigned.

RUSSIAN SOLDIERS STILL SHOOTING RIOTERS

Police of Odessa, Indignant Over Czar's Manifesto, Join Disorderly Element.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

ODESSA, Oct. 31.—Something approaching panic prevails in this city tonight. There is much indiscriminate shooting and bands of roughs are prowling in various quarters looking for opportunity to pillage. It is openly stated the police and military are indignant at the changed order of things resulting from the emperor's manifesto and are abetting the disorderly elements in order to give excuse for violence.

With darkness came a serious outbreak, when the roughs attacked the Jewish retail shops in Dalintzkai street. It is reported that they were accompanied by 50 policemen disguised as workmen. The Cossacks in aiding the shopkeepers used their whips and the flats of their swords freely, while the shopkeepers [illegible] and rifles on the crowd. It is reported that several persons were killed or wounded.

There were collisions also in other quarters, and it is stated that in every case shots were fired by disguised policemen, compelling the Cossacks to use their knouts, resulting in numbers of persons being badly injured. The students at a mass meeting tonight decided to arm for self-defense.

LODZ, Oct. 31.—The situation here tonight is extremely serious. The general strike is still in progress. Several collisions occurred between the mobs and the troops. The infantry fired on the mobs, killing two persons and wounding three. An hour later two persons were killed and eight wounded. A collision took place in the suburb of Baluty, where three persons were killed and eight wounded. The military governor has ordered the troops to mercilessly quell all disorders.

WARSAW, Oct. 31.—The employes of the Vienna railroad have decided to remain on strike until the question of the use of the Polish language is settled and until the government proclaims amnesty for political prisoners and self-government for Russian Poland.

PETROKOFF, Oct. 31.—It is reported that a company of Reservists refused to obey an order to fire on the demonstrators here today, but that the officers emptied their revolvers and that several workmen were wounded.

PABIANICE, Oct. 31.—Infantry fired on a procession of workmen here this afternoon, killing eight and wounding 24.

KAZAN, Oct. 31.—The attack of a detachment of Cossacks on a number of prominent members of the professions during a celebration here today led to an encounter in which the troops used their rifles and killed many persons.

BIGELOW TO TRADE TAXES FOR PROMISE OF VOTES

Will Exonerate Laundrymen from Paying Thousands of Dollars in Water Rents—Two Years' Assessments Due the City.

Without the authority of councils, although that is required by law, Director Bigelow proposes today to have stricken from the tax books of the city thousands of dollars in water taxes assessed against the members of the Steam Laundrymen's association of the city, although the taxes have been certified as unpaid by the city treasurer to the delinquent tax collector and have been advertised as delinquent.

Director Bigelow announced yesterday, after a committee of laundrymen, escorted by Councilman C. W. Helmold, had called upon him, that taxes amounting to at least $2,000 a year for the past two years would be wiped from the tax books and marked "exonerated." This was agreed to after threats were made that unless its demands were granted the votes and influence of the organization would be thrown against the Citizens party ticket next Tuesday. Thomas L. Pfarr, Jr., who owns a steam laundry in the East End and is an officer of the organization known as the Laundrymen's exchange, was one of the committee that called upon Director Bigelow yesterday afternoon. A. C. Canfield, president of the organization, was another member of the committee.

Demand Settlement Before Election.

"We have 45 firms in our organization and control 4,000 or 5,000 votes," said Pfarr. "We are going to have this matter settled before election."

Mr. Pfarr was counting the customers as well as the employes of the laundrymen.

"How are you going to have it settled before election when councils will not meet until after the election and exoneration of taxes cannot be granted except by authority of councils?"

"Mr. Bigelow will fix that," was the reply.

Then the committee, led by Councilman Helmold, marched into Director Bigelow's office, where they remained only a few minutes and came out, their faces wreathed in smiles.

"He told us to come back tomorrow and the whole thing would be fixed," said Mr. Pfarr.

The other members of the committee said the same thing.

"They got all they asked for," said Councilman Helmold, confirming the statements of the laundrymen.

Director Bigelow himself confirmed the statement of the laundrymen that the taxes would be reduced by exonerations and that today the laundrymen would pay the amount they claimed should have been assessed against them, instead of the assessment fixed by William Sprague, superintendent of the bureau of water assessors. The committee called upon Superintendent Sprague before seeing Director Bigelow, but he refused to reduce the assessment, claiming it was perfectly just.

"The difference amounts to only $2,000 for last year," said Director Bigelow.

The water taxes assessed for 1904 and 1905 are both delinquent, making a total loss to the city of $4,000, even according to the minimum estimate of Director Bigelow.

Reduces Taxes to Get Votes.

The law requires when an assessment on property or for the consumption of water is too high that councils can grant an exoneration, and this has been the method generally pursued. Resolutions are passed by councils, and not until then is the city treasurer or the delinquent tax collector authorized to make any concessions to the taxpayer. In this case Director Bigelow is making an exception, because the time prior to the election on next Tuesday is short, and, according to the statements of the laundrymen, the matter "must be settled before the election."

The alacrity of the administration in granting such favors shows the desperate efforts made to get votes. The tax levied by the city ordinance on the laundrymen is $50 per year for each washing machine. The ordinance also provides a tax upon engines which are used in laundries, for horses, wagons, etc., but the laundrymen claim that they should be exempt from taxation except for their washing machines.

The water assessor refused to grant this concession, which will reduce the amount of taxes from 30 to 50 per cent, and for nearly two years until yesterday the laundrymen tried in vain to induce Director Bigelow to reduce their assessments. Director Bigelow often declared the tax on laundries was too low, claiming they should be assessed by meter rates, according to the amount of water consumed, which would have made their taxes higher than they are now.

SALVATION ARMY ENTERS OHIO CAMPAIGN

Declares for Herrick and Urges His Re-Election—Plurality Figures Rising.

Special Telegram From
L. W. STRAYER, Staff Correspondent.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 31.—The Salvation Army has enlisted in the gubernatorial campaign in this state and will fight for Herrick. A letter has been sent from national headquarters to every Salvation Army post in the state urging the soldiers to line up for Herrick. The name of Wilbur M. Gale, adjutant, is signed to this letter.

It reminds the Salvationists that Gov. Herrick donated a $28,000 property and $10,000 in cash to the colonization work in Ohio and that he was the host of Gen. Booth on the occasion of that officer's visit to Cleveland. The letter expresses the hope that all the friends of the Salvation Army will exert their personal influence in behalf of Mr. Herrick's candidacy for the governorship.

The effort on the part of the Salvation Army in behalf of the Republican candidate is but another of the odd features of this campaign. But few if any previous instances can be cited where the

BURGLARS BATTLE WITH PLUCKY PREACHER

Aroused by Blowing of Safe, He Puts Six to Flight—Two Are Reported Shot.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

GRAYSON, KY., Oct. 31.—The bank of Willard, in this county, was broken into about 2 o'clock this morning. Citizens of the village were awakened by a terrific explosion and among them the Rev. James Willoughby. He hurried to the bank building and saw two men wearing masks standing in front of the building and four others running out.

The preacher at once opened fire, shooting in the air, and the robbers ran in the darkness. The safe of the bank was blown open and the front of the building badly damager. Several thousand dollars was exposed to view but none of it had been taken.

A report late tonight says that the robbers were surrounded in the woods near Willard by a second posse and that in a pitched battle two of the robbers were mortally shot. One of them gave his name as C. E. Smith of Plum street, Cincinnati, Ohio, and the other as J. W. Wood of Vincennes, Indiana.

Mental Examination of Candidates for State Police to Be Held Saturday.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—Capt. John C. Groome, superintendent of state constabulary, has fixed next Saturday for the mental examination of candidates for the state's police force. The examinations will be held simultaneously in Philadelphia, Harrisburg and Pittsburgh at 10 a. m.

Capt. Groome says that he is able to enforce a high physical standard and believes that in the final selection of the corps a high standard of mental and moral qualifications will also be achieved.

STRUCK BY STREET CAR AND RUN OVER BY HEARSE

While driving steers through Frankstown avenue yesterday afternoon, Fred Newman of 1017 Beecher street was struck by a Frankstown avenue car, knocked down and then run over by the hearse of a passing funeral. He suffered a bad scalp wound and had two ribs fractured on his right side. The patrol wagon took him to Dr. J. J. Mullen's emergency hospital, where his injuries were dressed, and he was taken home.

POSTMASTER GENERAL'S OFFICE WAS ON FIRE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Some excitement was caused at the postoffice department today by a small blaze which occurred in an ante-room of Postmaster General Cortelyou's office as the result of the crossing of electric wires. ETHEL DURRELL IS YET ALIVE, SISKIND IS CERTAIN Attorney for Morris Nathan Declares Boston Mystery Unsolved.

OUTLINE OF DEFENSE

PRISONER TAKEN TO BOSTON

Morris Nathan was taken back to his Boston home last night to face the charge of being implicated in the celebrated suit case mystery. Henry Siskind, his attorney, accompanied him and will immediately take steps to prove that Ethel Durrell, the alleged victim of the tragedy, is still alive.

Six letters, some addressed to Nathan and found yesterday when the detectives searched his effects at 509 Ross street, and some addressed to other members of the company, and obtained under duress, contained, it is said, incriminating evidence against the young man. This discovery of these is the pivot on which the defense will turn. It causes the Boston athorities to be placed on the defensive for the time being, and resulted in his attorney resolving to make the astonishing effort of proving Ethel Durrell a living, breathing woman.

Letters Written By Girl's Mother.

The letters were written by Mrs. Geary, Ethel Durrell's mother, after the girl had disappeared and were addressed to Nathan. Others received by young women in the "Shepherd King" company are alleged to have been written by Miss Durrell while she was in a Boston sanitarium. All the letters are being guarded with the utmost secrecy and no hint as to their contents could be obtained from the officers, except that they contained damaging evidence against Nathan. Attorney Siskind stated that they enabled him to clearly outline the defense of his client.

Silas P. Smith of the Massachusetts district police, Inspector James E. McGarr of the Boston force, and Attorney Siskind of the law firm of Dana B. Gove & Sons, arrived from Boston early yesterday morning. The attorney hastened to the Central police station and advised Nathan against returning without the usual process of requisition papers.

Nathan's Room Is Search.

The Boston detectives learned little from Nathan and set to work examining other members of the theatrical company. After a conference of several hours, during which Superintendent Thomas A. McQuaide of the local detective bureau was consulted, Nathan's boarding house in Ross street was ordered to be searched, and Smith, with Detective George W. Cole, examined Nathan's trunk, securing three or four letters which were written to the young man by Mrs. Geary after her daughter had disappeared. An examination of several members of the company resulted in the other letters, written by the girl herself, being unearthed.

Smith and McGarr were jubilant over their discovery and announced they would return to Boston with their prisoner on the first train. Attorney Siskind interposed and entreated on account of Nathan's impaired physical condition. Dr. H. C. Briggs was called and made an examination of the man, who was lying whimpering on his cot in the woman's ward of the prison.

Nathan in Bad Condition.

"Nathan is suffering an extreme nervous shock and I would not advise him to take such a long journey before 48 hours, at least," was the physician's verdict.

"Doctor, I want to go home," cried the patient. "I want to go back to Boston. Can't you fix it up for me, doctor?"

The physician and the attorney were obdurate. The detectives became uneasy. They went to the long-distance telephone and called up their chief in Boston. In his cell Nathan counted the bars that stood between him and liberty and pleaded to be allowed to go home.

It was a peculiar three-cornered struggle between justice, sympathy and necessity.

"Give me those letters and you can take your man without requisition," declared Siskind.

The detectives hesitated. Nathan was visited again. Then the attorney and the detectives held a long conference. It ended when the lawyer was given permission to make sworn copies of the letters.

Nathan Waived Requisition.

Nathan formally waived requisition and arrangements were made to return to Boston on the Pittsburgh limited over the Pennsylvania railroad at 10 p. m.

Smith took the prisoner and Attorney Siskind followed to look after his client's welfare and to begin steps in his defense as soon as Boston is reached this afternoon. Inspector McCarr was left in Pittsburgh and will continue the investigation here. He will examine practically all of the members of the "Shepherd King" company in his search for evidence.

"Who says Ethel Durrell is not alive?" asked Attorney Siskind, as he boarded his train at the Union station in departing for Boston.

"Do you believe she is alive?" he was asked.

"I am going to Boston to prove it," he said.

"That will be the line of your defense of Nathan?"

ATTORNEY SISKIND'S WILD RIDE ACROSS NEW YORK IN AN AUTO

Race With Boston Detectives to Pittsburgh Central Station to Insure Silence of Morris Nathan, Suit Case Mystery Suspect.

Morris Nathan's silence yesterday resulted from a clever ruse adopted by Attorney Siskind. Silas P. Smith and James E. McGarr, the Boston detectives, left the Hub city at 10 o'clock on Monday morning, selecting one of the slowest trains to New York. As soon as the lawyer heard this he decided to beat their time, and took one of the five-hour limited expresses on the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad and reached New York with only a few minutes in which to catch the last Pennsylvania ferryboat to connect with the same train on which the sleuths were traveling to Pittsburgh.

The lawyer brushed past the cabbies at the Grand Central station and hailed an automobile, asked the chauffer to make all possible haste to Twenty-third street and North river. The dash was made across town in record time, to the consternation of pedestrians and the lone passenger in the machine. He whizzed into the ferryslip just as the big boat was pulling out and jumped aboard without his baggage. Reaching Jersey City he boarded the train and passed the detectives as they were comfortably seated in their drawing room.

When the train arrived at the Pittsburgh Union station yesterday morning the detectives walked out leisurely and went into the station restaurant, where they ordered breakfast. Attorney Siskind hurried past them and called a cab to ride at breakneck speed to the Central police station. He lost no time in going to his client's cell, and told the young man to say not a word to the detectives.

Two hours later Smith and McGarr, fresh from breakfast and the barber shop, sauntered into the police station, conversed with Superintendent Thomas A. McQuaide about Boston, the weather, Halloween and politics, and finally led up to the matter of the suit case mystery. Then they went upstairs and started to quiz Nathan. They were dumbfounded when they found the prisoner had been thoroughly instructed by his attorney, and had nothing to say except that he was willing to return to Boston, and would give all the assistance in his power toward unraveling the mystery.

The lawyer's ruse led an official of the Pittsburgh department of public safety to remark:

"The Boston detectives are too slow to catch a fast train."

first, but I do say that this identification of Ethel Durrell is the flimsiest possible. The truth of the matter is that the Boston police have been jumping over themselves to find some sort of a tangible clue, but as a matter of fact they have been trailing behind the private investigation which was made by Boston newspapers.

"It was a valuable clue in finding Nathan and getting his story, because it will begin the process of elimination. You know there are a score of girls missing in Boston, as in every large city. Other girls were of the same age and size and complexion as Miss Durrell, and who says that they did not wear the same sort of cheap rings?

The police are not going to rush into the matter blindly, and they are going to make comparisons in descriptions of other missing girls while they are pursuing their hue and cry after my client.

Nothing to Show She Died.

"If it is admitted that there is evidence to show that Miss Durrell submitted to an operation, it must be remembered that nothing has been produced thus far to show that she died. She was in good health before. Why should she not be living?"

Attorney Siskind talked with the emphasis that indicated resolution. He is going back to Boston to make a battle for the immediate freedom of young Nathan.

When the detectives were acquainted with the lawyer's determination, they gave hints of being satisfied that Attorney Siskind's efforts could not materially hurt their case. Inspector McGarr, who talks in metaphor about the whole matter, turned over the hundredth pages in his notebook at the police station, flung in several pothooks with his pencil and said:

"Good for Siskind! I'm going to remain right here in Pittsburgh and continue my job. They don't think the girl dead? Ugh! I'll give you a Scotchman's answer—why am I here? Nevertheless the investigation will go on. Some day the person who committed this unspeakable crime will pay the penalty."

Physician Has Been Found.

Just before leaving his office at Boston police headquarters last night, Chief Inspector W. B. Watts stated that the doctor who dismembered the body of Susanna Geary, had been located. He did not expect, however, that any arrest would be made for a day or two, intimating that the police were awaiting something more definite from Morris Nathan. Chief Watts said:

"The doctor has been located. We know where he is and can probably put our hands on him when we want him. There is no need of seeking any further clues, as far as this one man is concerned, because we know where he is."

The theory of the police regarding the whole affair, in which the most serious charge in connection with it can only be manslaughter, is that Miss Geary went to a woman and submitted to an operation. The operation was not a success, but before the girl died a male physician was called in and he attempted to save the girl's life by a second operation for peritonitis. Miss Geary died, the doctor then dismembered the body and distributed portions of it in two suit cases, which were subsequently found.

Only a Charge of Manslaughter.

The charge against the woman can only be one of manslaughter, while, according to Superintendent Pierce of the Boston police, it will be difficult to bring any charge against Nathan, unless he should be accused of concealing a crime.

That both a woman and a man were with Miss Geary during her last hours or days is believed to be shown by the physician's certificate, which was sent to the manager of "The Shepherd King" company, giving an excuse for her absence. The certificate was written by a woman, while the address on the envelope was in a man's handwriting.

Mrs. Geary, the mother of the unfortunate girl, accompanied by her daughter, Evelyn, had a long conference with the Cambridge police officials yesterday morning, during which she denied she knew of her daughter's trouble and expressed her belief in Nathan's innocence.

With the exception of a few minor details, the police regard the suit case mystery as practically solved.

"Fighting Bob" Evans's Great Fleet Assembles at Annapolis to Greet the Prince.

ANNAPOLIS, MD., Oct. 31.—The beginning of the gala week of the visit of Prince Louis of Battenberg and his fleet to these waters was marked this morning by the official visiting between Admiral Robley D. Evans, commanding officer of the North Atlantic fleet, the battleship division of which arrived here last night; and Admiral Sands, superintendent of the naval academy, and between Admiral Evans and Gov. Warfield of Maryland.

The cruiser division, under Admiral Brownson, and the British fleet, are expected tomorrow morning. When Prince Louis arrives the superintendent and governor will both receive the visit of the prince, who comes as a rear admiral in the British navy. Both will return the call promptly, the governor being accompanied by Mr. John D. Douw, mayor of Annapolis, who will extend the freedom of the city.

MORRIS NATHAN GOES TO BOSTON

FRIENDS BID HIM GODSPEED

On the stage of the Nixon theater last night, David, the Shepherd warrior, stood in defiance of King Saul. A mighty shout went up from the multitude and the flourish of trumpets and the sweet cadences of women's voices rang beyond the walls of the building. Through open windows of the theater and the Central police station the sounds were carried to the ears of Morris Nathan, who rose from his cot and walked out into the corridor in charge of Officer Silas F. Smith to return to his old home in Boston.

There was a flash of crimson light from the stage, and again the young man heard the ring of familiar voices in an exultant chorus in which his sweetheart had often joined. He recognized it instantly above the clatter of Hallowe'en maskers who raised a din in the street below. It brought tears to his eyes as he turned to see the glittering light from the stage and recall the memories that crowded to his brain.

The prisoner walked down the stairway to a cab which the officer and his attorney had waiting. The door was closed as he climbed in and the driver turned quickly toward Cherry alley. Then the cabman was called to halt. Flatless and coatless, two men dashed out of the theater and shook hands with Nathan. It was his old friends, Stage Manager Brown and the stage carpenter. They bade him God-speed and the driver made haste to the Union station.

The Pittsburgh limited, which was scheduled to leave at 10:25 o'clock, was late, and the prisoner was kept standing for some time upon the platform. In a few minutes his identity became known and scores of curious people crowded about him, or stood awkwardly at the fence and peered at him between the bars.

Some of the bolder ones offered to shake hands, but Nathan used every effort to ignore their sympathy. On every hand were heard exclamations that he must be innocent and that he looked like a mere child. He had no overcoat and complained of being cold from the damp draughts that swept through the trainshed. Finally he was taken into the drawing room of a sleeping car to remain until his car was attached to the train at 11 o'clock, when it departed for the east. He is scheduled to reach Boston at 3:19 o'clock this afternoon.

CAN HE REACH A HAVEN?

out by the long celebration of the first day of Russian liberty, went early to bed and at midnight the Newsky Prospect was deserted, except for crowds of roughs, armed with clubs, who paraded the avenue singing the national anthem as well as revolutionary songs and who had frequent collisions with each other, during which shots were fired.

The most serious encounter during the day took place near the barracks of the Seminoff regiment, where a crowd of demonstrants in attempting to march to the Technological institute, was stopped by troops. Shots were fired on both sides with the result that one man was killed and 10 wounded. A prominent lawyer and a professor were wounded in a collision at the Polytechnic school. Another fatality resulted from the demand made by the crowds that hats be doffed before the red flags. An officer who refused to obey the demand was set upon and beaten with the staffs of flags, when he drew his revolver and fired a number of shots, killing one person. In an affray at the Putiloff works between strikers and non-strikers, several men were badly beaten. Ten or 12 men were wounded in the conflicts on the Newsky Prospect.

Would Kill Gen. Trepoff.

A feature of the day was the intense enmity displayed by the orators against Gen. Trepoff, the agitators universally demanding his removal and at a great meeting in the university tonight one orator openly called for a volunteer to kill him. Count Witte, however, does not seem inclined to throw him overboard, at least for the present, and has also refused the proposals for the removal of the troops as sheer folly.

The forthcoming amnesty for political prisoners announced by Count Witte served to defeat a number of attempts made by agitators to stir the crowds up to attack the St. Petersburg institution in which political prisoners are detained, but which is strongly guarded by troops.

Want a Democratic Republic.

During the afternoon Count Witte announced to a friend that he was not without hope that universal suffrage would be introduced before the elections for the state douma took place. This announcement when it spreads among the Liberals will enroll many of the latter among the friends of the new government against the Socialists, who announce that they will be satisfied with nothing less than a democratic republic on the basis of state socialism.

After a conference in which all the generals commanding troops in St. Petersburg participated, Gen. Trepoff issued the following announcement, which is being placarded throughout the city:

"The day of October 31, unfortunately, did not pass off without violent encounters between the different factions of the population, as well as with the police and troops. Recognizing the responsibility imposed in me I again request the population to maintain order, and give warning that all attempts to disturb order will be suppressed with the most peremptory and categorical measures."

Rejoicings are reported from most of the provincial towns. At Poltava, Cossacks and infantry charged a peaceable demonstration and there were many victims. A similar incident occurred at Kishineff, where the troops fired on the people and the police used their whips. At Lorpat a demonstration was dispersed by volleys from the troops, and at Poltava and Bielostok crowds attempted to break into jails with the result that several persons were killed or wounded.

Passing of Pobiedonostseff.

The dawn of the constitutional era marks also the passing of Constantine Petrovitch Pobiedonostseff, the aged chief procurator of the holy synod and the servant and advisor of three emperors, who all during his long life has been the strongest defender of the autocracy. He was unwilling to remain in office under a parliamentary government and tonight presented his resignation which was accepted by the emperor, who, at the same time, nominated him to the senate, the resting place of retired statesmen. The following rescript addressed to M. Pobiedonostseff was published late tonight:

"Constantine Petrovitch: Yielding to your desire, we have called you to the senate and also desire you to continue your activity as a member of the council of the empire, but liberate you from the functions of chief procurator of the holy synod and of member of the committee of ministers. Having been for more than a quarter of a century the nearest collaborator with my grandfather, my father and myself in the administration of the Orthodox church, you have acquired my esteem by your extraordinary capability and devotion to the throne. In divesting myself in your person of the services of a statesman whose zeal and firm convictions were ever highly appreciated by me, I find it my sincere duty to express to you my profound gratitude for your devoted services."

The first change in the ministry contemplated by Count Witte also was indicated tonight in the published announcement of the retirement of Lieut.-Gen. Glasoff, minister of education, who was nominated to the ministry from the army when the strong hand and iron discipline were thought necessary to keep the students in order. It was General Glasoff who recommended to the emperor the granting of autonomy to the universities and the conferring on them of the right of assembly.

GREAT CROWD DEFIES WEATHER

MORE EFFECT ON THE SHOWS

Weather was proved last evening to have very little effect upon a downtown Pittsburgh celebration of the great Pittsburgh festival, Halloween. It not only rained, but the air was chilly, and, moreover, the city was enveloped in an atmosphere of the most depressing character; but the worst that the weather could do was not sufficient to restrain seriously the merriment of the masqueraders nor the desire of all to see the crowds. For five hours thousands tramped through the mud.

Through every section of the city there were celebrations. Leaving aside the hundreds of parties at private homes and dinners at clubs, there were distinctive recognitions of the great day in the East End, McKeesport, Duquesne, Allegheny, lower Allegheny and the West End. In several outlying sections the weather had had effects.

The big show was, of course, in downtown Pittsburgh, and its center was the two blocks of Fifth avenue, from Smithfield to Market street. All the old features were there—the ear-splitting whistles, the nerve-shaking rattles, the confetti, the cowbells, and then there was a new torture—talcum powder. Just how nicely a young lady could be decorated through the sprinkling top of a box of talcum powder had never before occurred to a Halloween crowd here, but someone started the game last evening and there was a rush on the drug stores which resulted in a year's sale of talcum powder in one night.

Crowd Was a Huge Mob.

Probably every one in the Fifth avenue crush went home with his share of the purchases. Faces, hair and clothes were all besprinkled, and anyone so indiscreet as to open his mouth to laugh stood equal chances of having it filled with talcum powder or confetti. Veils which turned away confetti were not proof against the powder.

There was no attempt to organize the downtown crowd. Everyone went whither he chose and then came back again, and there were few cases of bad temper or accidents. Girls dressed in boys' clothes were a common sight, and boys by the scores were masquerading as girls. Only the tell-tale hair gave the girls away, and the humor of the crowd, while most decidedly of the slap-stick variety, was not in many cases offensive, and those who ventured out were expecting just such treatment.

There was a notable absence of political stunts of any kind whatever. Advertisements generally seemed to be left out, and anything in the float line that came along was purely for amusement purposes.

The mob started in its work before the afternoon was over, and at midnight there were still remnants of the crowds in the streets. It reached its height about 10:30 o'clock, and from that time on homeward-bound cars began to carry heavy loads.

The same statement which has been in evidence for many years was heard time and time again from onlookers last evening: "Why does not some one possessed of public spirit, or some civil organization, awaken to the opportunity which the native celebration of this occasion would give for an occasion rivaling the great annual festivals of other cities?"

East End Did Well in Afternoon.

Rain did not materially affect the parade through East Liberty yesterday afternoon, which was conducted under the auspices of the East End Mardi Gras association. It is true the persistent downpour interfered with the war paint and masks of some of the paraders and spoiled costumes to such extent that the number of marchers was sadly reduced.

For two hours large crowds awaited the coming of the parade near its terminal, and the five brass bands which participated blew their instruments with as much vim as if they had not been full of rain water. Beginning at Penn avenue and Dallas street, the paraders marched to Larg, to Thomas, to Hamilton, to Homewood, to Finance, to Brushton, to Kelly, to Fifth, to Frankstown, to Penn, to Negley to Friendship, to Baum.

Following a squad of mounted police and a band came the Swift cadets of Allegheny, after them a line of decorated automobiles and carriages bearing the officers of the association. One enterprising merchant had a score of ponies in line, while many floats and innumerable decorated wagons brought up in the rear. Horns and cowbells were vigorously used by the spectators who lined the sidewalks over the entire route.

Big Doings in the West End

Although the crowds turned out to see the expected big evening parade in the East End, the turnout of masqueraders was a great disappointment and showed one spot in which the bad weather scored heavily. The big show downtown also hurt the local parade. There were only about 200 boys and young men in the masquerading line, but the promised bands were there, comprising the majority of the military bands of the city. The only semblance of order was in the squad of a dozen police, headed by Inspector Milton E. Bailey. The parade was dismissed at Penn and Highland avenues and no prizes were awarded.

In the West End the celebration was under the auspices of the West End Merchants' Protective association. The streets were lined with people all along the route and red fire gave a color setting to the scene the entire way. The floats were unusually pretty and considerable money had been expended by all the merchants to make them attractive. Young men with fantastic and grotesque costumes were everywhere and many amusing incidents kept the spectators laughing the entire time.

Many of the merchants distributed small favors along the line of march, and the small boys scrambling to get them

All in Indian Garb.

The parade was headed by mounted police and following them came the chief marshal, George F. Cromniller, his chief aid, W. Herzfall, and the following aids: A. Straub, C. E. Nantz, George Siebert, John L. Stranley, Charles Spencer and Charles Werling. The chief marshal was dressed as an Indian chief and his aids were the costume of Indian braves, all being mounted.

After the parade the marchers distributed nuts among the masqueraders and children.

The Merchants' Protective association is composed of the representative business men of the West End, the following being the officers: President, George F. Cromniller; vice president, John King; secretary, William Horsfall and treasurer, Frank Diebick.

Lower Allegheny's Mardi Gras last evening had been planned on an extensive scale, but was spoiled by the rain. Business men in the Manchester and Woods Run districts had organized an elaborate street demonstration of wagon floats, automobiles, horses and marchers. The interferences by the weather not only caused widespread disappointment, but entailed considerable expense.

In spite of the rain, which fell incessantly until 10 o'clock, Beaver avenue from one end to the other and Preble avenue were crowded with merrymakers dressed in all sorts of grotesque costumes. After waiting for a couple of hours for the rain to subside, the parade was called off and the crowds went home.

Owing to the inclement weather, the parade arranged by the Sixth Ward Mardi Gras association of Allegheny was postponed until tomorrow evening. The 75 prizes for wagons, floats, and costumes, which were to have been awarded, will be offered for competition tomorrow.

After the rain ceased at McKeesport last evening about 500 masqueraders with three bands formed in line and paraded the principal streets of that city, with about 8,000 people witnessing the fun from the sidewalks.

In Duquesne 200 masqueraders headed by a band paraded, and a crowd of about 2,000 witnessed it.

Not Much for Police.

The Halloween business at the Central police station last evening was not large. J. W. Steck of 3420 Bates street was arrested by Policeman Costello on a charge of interfering with an officer. Policeman Costello was pushing the masqueraders off the sidewalk in Fifth avenue and accidentally knocked down a woman. Steck rebuked the officer for doing so and Costello placed him under arrest. Steck refused to accompany the officer to the station house, and in the struggle Costello lost his helmet. At the station house Costello handled his prisoner roughly and Inspector Robinson interfered and told Costello to be more gentle in his manner. Steck later put up a forfeit for a hearing.

William Smith of Allegheny, was walking with a young girl, who was dressed in male clothes at Sixth avenue and Smithfield street. John Clark of the Twenty-ninth ward shoved the girl and Smith resented the attack. Clark struck Smith over the right eye, cutting it badly. Smith was taken to the Homeopathic hospital. Both were arrested for disorderly conduct.

Hattie Smith, aged 22, colored, of 1412 Colwell street, was walking about the streets dressed in male clothes. So much did she resemble a man that she had no trouble in getting drinks in the saloons. As a result she became intoxicated and at High street and Wylie avenue she collapsed and was taken to the station house in a patrol wagon. She was charged with drunkenness.

By 11 o'clock there had been 33 arrests, but not one was for a serious offense. The only destruction of property reported was the breaking of a showcase in front of Campbell's store in Fifth avenue. It contained jewelry, but the break was an accident and the police took the jewelry to Central station.

HALLOWEEN CELEBRATION CAUSES DEATH OF A BOY

Street Car Runs Into Decorated Cart, Throwing Out the Passengers—Thomas Wright Dies Four Hours Later from the Shock.

While returning from participation in the afternoon parade of the East End Halloween celebration yesterday afternoon, a pony cart containing three boys was struck by a street car, the boys thrown out and one of them was shocked and injured so severely that he died four hours later.

The accident happened in front of the Frankstown avenue police station at 4:30 o'clock, and was witnessed by several hundred people. The cart, driven by Thomas Wright, the 11-year-old son of Joseph Wright, of 418 Lincoln avenue, and carrying as passengers Gilbert Wise, aged 12, of 318 Lowell street, and St. Clair Booker, aged 13, of 327 Renfrew street, turned from the south side of Frankstown avenue to cross the tracks. A Frankstown avenue car, west bound, struck it, tipping it over and throwing the boys out.

Wise was picked up by the car fender and carried until the car stopped, and suffered only a cut on the nose and face and several bruises, while Booker was thrown clear of the tracks and escaped with scratches and bruises. Young Wright fell directly in front of the fender and his body was rolled along for 20 feet before the car could be stopped.

At the time it was thought all the boys were but slightly injured, as they all walked home, but later Wright, who has been suffering from heart trouble, grew worse, and died at 8 o'clock last night.

The car was running at a slow speed or all three of the boys would have been killed. The rails were very slippery, owing to the rain, which accounts for the car traveling so far after the motorman had applied the brakes.

BOMB IN A TENEMENT.

Brave Night Watchman Severs Fuse Just Before It Reaches the Infernal Machine.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Twenty-five families in a tenement on Leroy street were thrown into a panic tonight when a dynamite bomb with a fuse lighted and about to explode was found in a hallway on the second floor. A woman who was passing through the hall saw the fuse sputtering and thought that somebody had fired the building. She alarmed the janitor who roused all the tenants who fled in terror to the street.

John Skelly, a watchman, prevented an explosion by severing the fuse when it was within an inch of the bomb. A policeman carried the infernal machine to the station house, where it was immersed in a pail of water.

Death of Thomas Barr.

Thomas Barr, the oldest resident of Ben Avon, died last evening at the home of his son, Edward A. Barr, in that borough, aged 85 years. He retired from active work many years ago and for four years had been confined to his room by ill health. A daughter, Miss Mary Barr, died six weeks ago. Besides his son, with whom he lived, he is survived by one sister, Mrs. McConnell, of Williamsport. He was a member of the Reformed Presbyterian church.

SHOT BY FRIEND THROUGH DOOR

Harry Berkey Tries to Force Entrance Into House and Is Fatally Wounded.

TRAGEDY AT HARWICK MINES

Attempting to force an entrance into the house of Frank Kane, a miner, to get some beer, Harry Berkey, machine superintendent at the Harwick mines of the Allegheny Coal company, was shot in the abdomen by his friend Kane last night at 7:30 o'clock. Berkey is at the Allegheny General hospital and is dying. He was brought to Allegheny last night at 11:20 o'clock from Cheswick. He was accompanied by James Henry, a miner, who gave the details of the shooting.

Henry said Berkey and several other miners went to Kane's house to get beer, but Kane refused to admit them and ordered them away. Berkey refused to leave and insisted on being let into the house.

Henry and the others left the house, but Berkey would not go with them and kept pounding on the door. Henry and the others had walked about 20 yards from the house, when they heard three shots fired in quick succession and heard Berkey call out:

"I'm all in, boys. I'm shot through the stomach."

Henry, with the others, ran back to Kane's house, and found Berkey lying on his side by the door which had not yet been opened.

"Frank shot me through the door," Berkey said to Henry, who was trying to lift him up. "Run for a doctor."

Dr. W. P. McCulloch of Cheswick was called and found Berkey had been shot in the abdomen, about an inch above the navel and that his condition was very critical. He telephoned to Cheswick for a wagon and had Berkey sent to the West Penn station and from there he was brought down to the Allegheny General hospital. Berkey was shot by a 32-caliber bullet, which lodged in his back.

Kane had not been arrested at the time the train left Cheswick, and no effort had been made, Henry said, to apprehend him.

Kane and Berkey were apparently good friends, and last week took a hunting trip together at the home of Berkey's parents, near Dubois, Pa.

Berkey has a wife and four children in Davis, W. Va., and intended bringing them to the Harwick mines in a few weeks.

ARMY ENTERS CAMPAIGN

Army took a part in politics. It prides itself on its non-denominational and non-partisan character. This, however, is a campaign where many interests and organizations that have never before taken a part in politics have been drawn into the contest. The Salvation Army is strong in this state and it is believed that the efforts of the organization will help swell the Herrick majority.

Foraker Out of the Fight.

Senator Dick, state chairman, today received from Senator Foraker a letter expressing regret that he is unable to take any further active part in the campaign. Senator Foraker had hoped to fill two engagements this week, but he says in his letter that his physician absolutely forbids him to do so. He had improved in the past few days, but it is feared that if he goes on the stump it will cause him a serious relapse.

As election day approaches there is an inclination among prominent Republicans throughout the state to raise the figures on their estimates on the majority Gov. Herrick will have. Talk of 100,000 is now heard where a few weeks ago the most extravagant estimates did not run over 50,000. This increased confidence is due to the good reports that are coming into headquarters daily. And while the Democratic managers hold to their opinion that Pattison will be elected, they have little upon which to base their estimates except hope.

Senator Dick still refuses to indulge in figures until the poll of the state is complete. But it is believed that when he gives to the public his annual pre-election estimate it will be much larger than has been thought.

Betting Is All on Herrick.

A Republican high in the councils of the organization who has been very successful with his bets for a number of years past now has $15,000 up on the result. He has bet that Herrick will have 50,000 plurality and a small part of the money he was able to place at one to two. The greater part, however, was placed at even. This man was prepared to back a larger plurality if it had been necessary, but he was able to place all his money on 50,000.

The speakers' bureau at headquarters has finished its work and all of the stump orators have been assigned up to the end of the fight.

Litigation Over Bank Certificate Brings out New Facts in Enterprise Affairs.

EXAMINATION OF T. L. S. COOK

The petition of D. L. Patterson for a preliminary injunction to restrain the Enterprise National bank, Lemuel S. Cook and the Guarantee Title and Trust company from disposing of or encumbering certificate No. 14 of Duquesne National bank for 15 shares of its capital stock, was heard before Judge Kennedy yesterday, and is the first hearing in litigation growing out of the failure of the Enterprise National bank. Concluding arguments of counsel will be heard this morning. The case shows how collateral pledged with the bank for loans made its way into other banks, and the owner's testimony showing that T. Lee Clark, the dead cashier, went to him for a renewal of his power of attorney, together with Mr. Cook's story and that of the officials of the Guarantee Title and Trust Company, directly connects Mr. Clark with this transaction.

Patterson claims to have pledged the certificate in question with the Enterprise National bank as collateral for a loan; that it was feloniously taken from the bank, and is now in the custody of the Guarantee Title and Trust Company.

Judge Kennedy Is Doubtful.

Cook testified he obtained the certificate from T. Lee Clark, the cashier of the Enterprise bank, and during the arguments of counsel, Judge Kennedy said he was not sure that the sort of transfer revealed in the case was sanctioned by the supreme court, but if Clark or Cook had the stock transferred on the books of the Duquesne National bank to themselves, he would have no trouble in deciding the case. These remarks from the court were made while Attorney W. W. Wishart, representing the trust company, was citing decisions to show the transfer was a bona fide one and that similar ones had been held as valid.

Mr. Wishart contended that Cook's checks had been made out to cash and they were collected by the Enterprise bank, but Attorney Alexander Patterson, one of counsel for the plaintiff, disputed this, and the court said Mr. Wishart's assertion might be correct, but it was not so testified. Mr. Cook, the court said, testified he bought the stock from Clark and gave him his check for it. The checks were not offered in evidence. The court asked for briefs from the lawyers, telling them they could conclude their arguments this morning.

During the hearing there was more light shed on the affairs of the wrecked bank than in any proceeding instituted thus far. The attorneys for the trust company were anxious to get rid of the note they hold of Cook's for which the stock is held as collateral, and Mr. Wishart was not in favor of allowing things to remain in status quo for the present, for he said the institution he appeared for was unfortunately drawn into the matter and was not pleased with the mention of the company's name in the newspapers in connection with the affairs of the Enterprise bank. They were willing to sell the note or let Mr. Cook pay it, but the other side suggested it remain in the trust company until the title to the collateral is determined by the proceedings.

Stock Collateral Is Missing.

Charles C. Murray, a bank examiner assisting Receiver John B. Cunningham of the Enterprise bank, testified he found a note of D. L. Patterson among the bank papers, dated August 30, 1905, for $2,900, and notations that 15 shares of Duquesne National bank stock and 29 shares of Union Storage Company stock were pledged as collateral, but the bank stock was missing. The note, he said, was a demand note and payment had been asked of Mr. Patterson.

A. H. Patterson of the Duquesne National bank, no relation to the plaintiff, testified on October 25 or 26, a man he did not know, appeared at the bank with the certificate in question and asked that it be transferred to the Guarantee Title and Trust Company. Notice had been given 15 minutes prior to this by Mr. Patterson, he said, not to make the transfer. Later the witness said Cook appeared to see what was wrong and assured the bank his title was good enough, and that if any expense was attached, some one else would have to pay it.

Patterson, the plaintiff, identified the stock in question as his property, and said he pledged it with the Enterprise bank in '98 and it has been there since. He said Clark came to him in August last, about the 25th, and asked him to renew his power of attorney attached, if he did not want to pay off his loan. He made the new certificate, he said, and after the Enterprise bank was closed he was asked to pay the note. He called for the certificate, but it was missing, and notified the Duquesne bank not to allow his stock to be transferred.

A. L. Phillips, treasurer of the Guarantee company, said Mr. Cook presented a Duquesne stock certificate with three bonds of the Arkansas Water Company of the trust company with a note as collateral for a loan of $5,500. The note was taken, it was alleged, and the money placed to Cook's credit on an account he had with the bank, which was opened in August 24 by deposits of $10,000. The witness said Cook deposited $200 the next day and the loan made his deposits $15,700, which it was testified closed his deposits and the same was all checked out shortly thereafter.

Authority Was Too Old.

Alexander Dunbar, secretary of the trust company, testified when Cook first brought the stock to him he noticed the age of the power of attorney attached, and said a new power of attorney should be secured before the bank would make a loan on it. Cook, the witness said, appeared shortly afterward with the new paper. Cook came to the bank, the witness said, after Clark's suicide, and asked the amount of his loan, saying he guessed he would pay the same, but he did not do so. In a day or so he asked Dunbar if he would have it sold for him, and he witness said the company would do so if he put this request in a letter to the company. The witness said Cook did not write the letter, but said he would have the stock transferred to him on the Duquesne National bank's books.

Mr. Dunbar said he again told Cook he would have to write a letter to the company to sell the stock. No letter came, he said, and Mr. Phillips told the witness to have the transfer made to the trust company on the bank's books, but the transfer was refused. Cook was communicated with, the witness said, and he went to the bank with the same result.

Treasurer Phillips was recalled and corroborated Mr. Dunbar, saying he had ordered Dunbar to get the certificate transferred to the trust company after Cook had been in because there was no authority to transfer it to Cook, as he had requested, and the trust company had a power of attorney from Patterson for a transfer. Phillips said it did not occur to him that there was anything strange about the transaction.

Mr. Cook was called for cross-examination, as he is a defendant. He said he is vice president of the Kentucky Coal Yield Company of New York. He has been in Pittsburgh about three years and had known Clark for 18 months. He had some business with Clark and got the Duquesne bank certificate from him. He did not pledge it the day he got it. It was at his suggestion that the new power of attorney was secured.

Employed to Sell the Santa Fe.

The witness said he was interested in the Clark Coal Company and several real estate ventures. When asked if he had other interests with Clark he refused to answer until told by the court to do so. Then he said he was employed by Clark to sell the Sante Fe Central railroad. He said he had gone to New York on this work, but was not anxious to tell all he knew about it. He was a depositor in the wrecked bank and had borrowed from it, but was not a borrower when the bank closed. He had logned Clark money, but did not know how the account stands. He said Clark had paid him for his services by placing money to his credit in the Enterprise bank and he checked against it. He denied that his account was frequently overdrawn. Sometimes he mailed his deposits, he said, and other times went to the bank personally. Sometimes Clark made them for him.

Asked if most of the credits to the account were not those made by Clark, he said some were made by Clark as treasurer of the railroad company. He said he should have had several thousand dollars on deposit when the bank closed. He admitted having overdrawn his account once by arrangement with Clark. This was several months ago.

Court Approved Line of Questions.

Attorney Clark D. Beggs, who represented Mr. Cook, objected to this line of examination, but the court said it was leading up to the transfer of the Duquesne bank certificate, and the prior relations of Cook and Clark ought to be pretty well investigated.

Pressed by Mr. Patterson, Cook said the overdraft was arranged while he and Clark were in New York. He had given Clark some securities to cover it and had got them back. He had notified the company concerned not to transfer them. He would not give the title of the company.

Cook said he got the Duquesne bank certificate in August last. Clark, he said, was indebted to him, and he got it at the Enterprise bank from Clark. When he got it he put it in his pocket.

The witness was examined about what happened at the bank when he went after the Duquesne certificate. He said Clark wanted him to get him some money and they talked about what was due Cook. Clark got the Duquesne bank certificate from the vault and they talked about what it was worth, the witness said. Clark figured it was worth $280 a share, and at the same time the witness said he also handed Cook the three $1,000 Arkansas Water Company bonds, which Cook says were figured to him as being worth 75 per cent of par or $750.

Cook Negotiated the Loan.

Cook says he agreed to get Clark the money, $8,000, and told him he would give him a check the next day. Cook says he took these securities, and possibly two days later went to the trust company and negotiated the loan of $5,500. Clark, said the witness, was to send after the $8,000, which was done, the next day or so Cook making out two checks, one for $2,500, the other for $5,500, and the amount over $6,450, which Cook was paying for the securities was to be put on Cook's account at the Enterprise bank, it is alleged.

Cook had produced his bank book with the trust company and it showed the deposits mentioned. It was also alleged that $7,500 had been checked against this account before the loan was granted by the trust company, and when Attorney Patterson asked Cook how he knew he could give Clark a check for $8,000 before the loan was passed upon, Cook answered that he knew if he could not get the loan there he had other places to raise the money. He frequently loaned Clark money, he said, and was not at a loss to get it when necessary.

Cook volunteered the statement that Clark said he would get the dividends on the Duquesne stock and pay them to him. Mr. Patterson asked him if he did not know that he could not collect dividends unless the stock was transferred to him, to which Cook replied that he had done it, but he would not say he had done it in national banks. Cook said he never had a settlement with the Enterprise bank and could get no information as to the condition of his account. He said he did not have his pass book and that it ought to be in the bank.

He refused to tell who drew the one or two checks which he said made up his first deposit of $10,000, by which he opened the account with the Guarantee Title and Trust Company.

Account Didn't Last Long.

Mr. Dunbar was recalled and testified to the account Cook had with the Guarantee company. Judge Kennedy took the paper and found that the account had only run two days from the time it was opened until it was closed.

"In and out again," Mr. Patterson said, when the judge expressed his surprise.

A. J. Barron testified that when he served the preliminary injunction Cook said Patterson would have to pay for this as he had sold the stock. Cook denied this.

In arguing the case, Mr. Wishart, for the Guarantee company, said if any stealing had been done in the Enterprise bank, Clark had done it. It was plain Cook did not know the Duquesne bank certificate had been stolen and it was shown that the trust company knew nothing concerning it, other than it was offered for a loan. He claimed it was the universal practice to bring stock to banks for sale, accompanied by an irrevocable power of attorney and such were commonly accepted as legal transactions. The court was not aware that such was the practice and not convinced that the supreme court had ever so decided.

Mr. Patterson argued that the relations between Cook and Clark were such that Cook must have known the certificate did not belong to Clark. Before the arguments were finished, court adjourned until this morning.

Magistrate and Attorney Agree.

Clarence Nolan and J. E. Elpman, arrested by Policeman Edward Nikirk Monday night, were discharged yesterday by Magistrate Kirby. The men were on a crowded street car, and it is alleged that when Nolan got off the step to accommodate the conductor, Nikirk took his place. This angered Nolan and he referred to the policeman as a "deadhead." Thereupon Nikirk arrested both men. Attorney John Marron told the magistrate the arrest was unwarranted and the magistrate agreed with him.

Teachers Return Their Thanks.

Dr. James L. Hughes, chief inspector of the Toronto (Canada) schools, has written a letter to Supt. Samuel Andrews of the city schools, in which he expressed the appreciation of the Toronto teachers for the reception given them on their recent visit to Pittsburg.

THE ENTERPRISE IS SHORT $1,500,000

Comptroller Ridgely Censures the Dead Cashier in Statement Received from Washington.

CLARK INQUEST CONCLUDED

Receiver John B. Cunningham and officers of the defunct Enterprise National bank of Allegheny yesterday declined to make any comment on the message received from Comptroller of the Currency Ridgely that the shortage in the bank is not less than $1,500,000. W. T. Bradberry, vice president of the bank, also read the statement, but had nothing to say.

After the inquest into the death of Cashier T. Lee Clark the officers and directors of the Enterprise bank met in the office of Attorney T. P. Trimble in the Erick building. Mr. Bradberry said after the meeting that nothing was done, as the officers and directors of the bank had nothing new to present to the attorney and the latter had nothing for them.

Judge Oldham, the legal adviser of Mr. Ridgely, who had been here for over a week looking into the affairs of the failed bank, on his arrival in Washington yesterday morning presented his report to Mr. Ridgely. During the day the following statement was made by the comptroller:

Shortage Estimated at $1,500,000.

So far as the condition of the Enterprise National bank appears from the examination now being made, it is safe to say the shortage will be not less than $1,500,000. The funds of the bank have been abstracted by the deceased cashier, T. Lee Clark, but, owing to his fraudulent bookkeeping, it has not yet been ascertained what disposition he made of the bulk of the misappropriated funds.

Much of the collateral securing bills receivable has also been fraudulently abstracted by Cashier Clark, and the bulk of it has not been found.

Fraudulently issued certificates of deposit are being discovered, and until all the passbooks held by depositors are returned it will be impossible to state approximately the full amount of the loss. The receiver has the assistance of a number of the best experts connected with this office and no effort will be spared to ascertain where the funds of the bank have been placed, and all possible speed is being made to trace and discover them.

Attorney Frederick H. Kahle has been retained by a large number of depositors of the Enterprise bank and it is probable criminal proceedings will be entered soon. Attorney Kahle said he would not at present say who his clients are or what charges will be brought, but any criminal action brought will be in the United States district court. The county courts have no jurisdiction, he said.

John S. Wendt, attorney for Receiver Cunningham, yesterday stated W. H. Andrews has acknowledged his signature and will pay the $52,383 for which he has been sued. Eugene Mackey, attorney for Andrews, refuses to make any statement.

Meeting of the Depositors.

At the meeting of the depositors of the Enterprise bank, which will be held at 8 p. m., tomorrow in the Manchester Presbyterian church, Allegheny, Attorney John Marron will discuss the legal side of the bank failure. About 400 depositors are expected to attend the meeting. The Rev. D. A. Green, pastor of the church, will call the meeting to order. The Manchester church has $3,400 on deposit in the bank and members of the church have amounts ranging from $25 to $18,000 on deposit at the bank.

Coroner Joseph G. Armstrong yesterday concluded the inquest into the death of Cashier Clark. The verdict of the jury was that Clark came to his death from a gunshot wound inflicted by himself at his home, 545 Lincoln avenue, Bellevue, on Wednesday, October 18. The members of the jury were Eli Edmundson, Evan Lloyd, L. T. Unks, J. S. Edgar, John Steel and A. F. Wilhart. The coroner confined his investigation to the cause of Clark's death.

Many Witnesses Examined.

The witnesses examined by the coroner were Deputy Coroner George Ambos, who investigated the death of Clark and viewed the body; Mrs. Margaret Trimble, a sister of Mrs. Clark; W. M. Bannon, Clark's coachman; A. H. Trimble, Clark's brother-in-law; Drs. W. W. McCleary and John S. Donaldson who attended Clark after he shot himself; Wilson A. Snaw, Frederick Gwinner, Sr., president of the Enterprise bank; W. T. Bradberry, vice president of the Enterprise bank; James P. McKinney, Charles F. Steifel, A. F. Schwerd, David Morrison and William A. Seiling, all directors of the Enterprise bank, and Receiver Cunningham. All those connected with the bank testified they did not know the reason for Clark killing himself. Mr. and Mrs. Trimble testified to being called to the Clark home and the physicians testified to the professional services they rendered and the condition Clark was in when they reached his bedside.

The deposition of Mrs. Clark, taken by Deputy Coroner Ambos, was read to the jury. Mrs. Clark said she heard a noise upstairs in her home, and when she investigated found her husband lying on the floor.

"He had shot himself," the deposition read.

Mrs. Clark said her husband suffered violent pain at times from throat trouble.

The report that Senator Penrose was implicated in the failure of the Enterprise bank and that the bank held Senator Penrose's note for $75,000 was denied in Washington yesterday, after Judge Oldham's report was made to Comptroller Ridgely.

BANK EXAMINER MOXEY VISITS THE GOVERNOR

Federal Officer Confers With State Officials at Harrisburg on Enterprise Bank Failure.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

HARRISBURG, PA., Oct. 31.—As a result of Gov. Pennypacker's urgent request to President Roosevelt that the Enterprise bank affair be probed to the bottom, the governor today had a call from Special Bank Examiner Edward P. Moxey, who has been in charge of the investigations at Allegheny for a week or more.

Mr. Moxey came to Harrisburg this morning with a large bundle of official papers and other information concerning the bank, for submission to the governor. The two were closeted in the executive office for half an hour, after which Examiner Moxey went over to the treasury department, where he met by appointment T. Stewart Pearce, the cashier of the treasury.

They spent the entire afternoon going over the situation, Mr. Pearce affording Examiner Moxey the advantage of all the information possessed by the treasury department.

Examiner Moxey said he could not reveal any of the proceedings of today's conferences, but he appeared to be entirely satisfied with the results of his visit to Harrisburg. He went to Philadelphia this evening.

A Seamless Waist With Straight Back and Straight Front.

EVER hear of such a thing? No, we should say not—at least not around Pittsburg.

Not only does this waist have straight back and straight front, but there are no under arm seams. It is a perfect-fitting waist in every particular.

To-day in Center Aisle, West Store, we begin a demonstration of this practical invention, the Stillman Seamless Waist Pattern. It is the invention of Miss Millicent Stillman, of Washington, D. C. Its success can be testified to by more than 10,000 delighted women, who have bought it at its numerous demonstrations in the leading department stores of the country.

No use in undertaking to describe this seamless waist pattern in print. Come and have a talk with Miss Stillman, the inventor.

Baby Bunting Blankets.

THE Baby Bunting Blanket is the invention of a thoughtful Pittsburg mother.

A one-piece affair made out of a blanket which folds over baby's feet and fastens with snappers; in fact, the little body is entirely and securely covered, with the exception of face and hands.

Baby can kick to heart's content, and there is no fear of kicking off a Baby Bunting Blanket—no fear of catching cold. Put him in his crib at night, and rest assured that he is well wrapped up the night through.

Pertinent Comments on Our Metal Beds.

A GENTLEMAN bought a brass bed here yesterday and told us he had been in all the stores of the city and that our prices were far and away the lowest throughout the city. He wanted good goods for the least money—in other words, he was a close buyer, and a close buyer will always travel far to effect a saving.

A young mother discussing the comfort of baby with a friend said: "I bought an iron crib at Horne's for $3.00—cheaper than many other stores ask for the same sort of a crib."

Another lady, looking around for a crib, stated that we were $1.50 under quotations for same crib she had made up her mind to pay at another store, but upon second thought decided to see what we had.

Why?—to all and singular of the above.

Because our buyer is the best posted man in the metal bed business in these cities; because he is not stinted as to quantity. This means that there is a large variety here, as evidenced by our present large stocks.

Brass Beds of the very best makes and the neatest of finishes, $25.00, $30.00, $35.00, $38.00, $40.00 and up to $75.00

We have a special Iron Bed made for us after ideas of our own. It has a round top, continuous posts, solid castings, no screws to come loose; fitted with the very best tinned natural link spring. This bed is made in three pieces, and will wear a lifetime. Single bed size $8.50, well worth $10.00.

Enameled Iron Beds, $5.00, $6.00, $6.50, $7.00, $8.50, $9.00 and up to $18.00

Sanitary all Iron Couch, drop down sides, one of the most practical couches we have ever had. It is a highly desirable article for sickroom, for use of nurse, and during the day it can be used as a couch. Angle iron frame, with national link spring supported with six horizontal spiral springs. The price of this excellent couch is only $4.50

Every Necessity for the Bathroom.

THERE'S nothing like having a perfectly appointed bathroom. Not only should a bathroom be furnished with everything necessary, but the articles should be of the right quality and hygienic.

The perfectly appointed bathroom is not only a source of comfort to every member of the family, but a source of pride to the interested housewife.

In our West Basement we carry a full complement of bathroom fixtures of the very best sort, and prices will be found very close to cost. All heavily nickel plated on brass.

Wednesday, November 1, 1905.

In the retirement of Charles H. Darling, the navy department loses a most efficient assistant secretary. Mr. Darling's term of service covered that of several secretaries and at various times he acted as secretary with distinguished ability. Mr. Darling was the right man in the right place and his successor needs to hustle to keep up the pace.

Washington has been assured of an amicable ending to the regrettable incident in which Rear Admiral Train and his son figured near Nanking, China, and the fears of the possible effect upon the boycott of American goods and the fomenting of the anti-American feeling are seen to be unfounded. None realize better than our naval officers in the east the importance of a conciliatory policy at this time, and they can be trusted to follow it consistently.

Last night's celebration of Halloween was tempered somewhat by inclement weather, but there was a large number of fun-makers abroad despite the rain. The proverbial good nature of the Pittsburgh crowd was in evidence. Staid citizens submitted to certain indignities with scarcely a protest, while the merry masqueraders collided in good humor. It can hardly be doubted the noisy, grotesque parade is an effective preventive of worse mischief.

The action of Tammany in raising a banner portraying the American flag and the red flag of anarchy side by side, Tammany's candidate grasping the Stars and Stripes and a rival the other, cannot be justified by the natural intensity of feeling which characterizes a lively political campaign. This is the kind of argument which creates bitterness and disgust instead of votes. Of course, Tammany has long been lost to all sense of shame, and at present has the power to raise any kind of banner it desires.

The annual report of Chief Signal Officer Greely speaks in high terms of Alaska's wireless telegraph system which is "the only long wireless system in the world that is regularly operated as a part of a regular telegraph system handling commercial business." The line has handled more than 1,000,000 words during the year, over a distance of 107 miles. The entire Alaskan system aggregates 4,000 miles of cable, land and wireless telegraph lines. It is gratifying to note a steady increase in the range and efficiency of the United States signal corps.

Several persons have been arrested in New York on the charge of committing frauds on the registration. The incident serves to demonstrate that personal registration of voters is not a cure for all the evils to which the body politic is subject. It has manifest advantages over the system of registry by negligent assessors, but does not close all the avenues of fraud. In New York, where the Tammany Democratic organization is supreme, there are many abuses, such as padding the lists and leaving off the names of qualified voters who take the trouble to appear at the booths. The marked feature of the system is the elimination of the impracticables who are superior to the details of practical politics.

Artist St. Gaudens, who has just examined the site for the Christopher L. Magee memorial in Schenley park, is now prepared to begin work on it. The memorial is to take the form of a fountain, located at the [illegible] the great park. [illegible] cure for the [illegible] the west wing of the [illegible] to the success [illegible] have much effort. It will [illegible] ting tribute to the memory [illegible] former popular leader, whose personality is still fresh in the minds of thousands who loved him in life. It is true the zoological garden in [illegible] park is a constant reminder of Senator Magee and his generosity to the public, but this new memorial, erected by popular subscription, will appeal more forcibly to the public.

Bribery, or What?

It will interest the public to know by what authority Director Bigelow assumes to remit delinquent water taxes. There is no such authority vested by law in the director of public works that anyone has heard of heretofore. It has been known that Director Bigelow has posed as the "whole thing," and has boasted that he controlled councils absolutely, but in the past there has been a pretense, at least, of observing the forms of legal procedure.

It is true Bigelow needs votes for the party of broken pledges, and it may be true the Laundrymen's exchange has votes to deliver. These things do not confer on the director of public works the power to remit taxes. Moreover, if the director does remit water taxes amounting to several thousands of dollars as a consideration for the delivery of votes for the Democratic-Citizens ticket he becomes subject to the penalties prescribed for violation of the statute prohibiting the purchase of votes. If it be true that any laundryman has demanded a remission of taxes in return for votes he is also subject to legal penalties.

This case of the laundrymen's water taxes has been pending for more than two years. The water rents which have been held to be excessive have been sent for collection to the delinquent tax office. Complaints of the laundrymen have been met by the assertion that just rates only have been charged. Whatever may be the merits of the case the only legal method of remitting the charges is by act of councils.

Such utter disregard of law as is reported cannot be tolerated by a self-respecting community. If that sort of thing can be done then there is no real government. Can Mr. Bigelow remit assessed taxes? Then he can levy and collect taxes; he can grant franchises; he can confiscate the property of the people. This is a very serious matter and the outcome will be eagerly awaited by an interested populace.

Our Prospective States.

Senator Beveridge's joint statehood bill will not find smooth sailing in the Fifty-ninth congress. A long argument for the measure appears in the current issue of Harper's Weekly, but its points are not all well taken. There is much doubt in the public mind whether New Mexico and Arizona should be admitted to statehood either separately or together. The population of Arizona by the last census was less than 123,000 and it has not increased greatly since then. The population of New Mexico was over 195,000 and it has not been growing rapidly. To give these 320,000 people four senators, as many as represent the 14,000,000 people of New York and Pennsylvania, or to give them half as many is a strong pull on the justice of representation in the senate. It is the more dubious because there is no evidence that Arizona and New Mexico may reach the 1,000,000 mark in population by the census of 1930.

There are better reasons for the separate admission of Oklahoma and Indian Territory. In 1900 they had between them a population of nearly 800,000. They must now have about 1,000,000. Five years ago Oklahoma had a much larger population than Indian Territory and while it has since maintained a lead, the increase in Indian Territory has been relatively greater than in Oklahoma. In the course of time the Indian Territory will acquire a larger population than Oklahoma and in 25 years they, if admitted separately, will rival much older western states in population and wealth. Oklahoma is one of the richest farm regions in this country and will continue to develop along that line.

Indian Territory is hardly less attractive than Oklahoma to the agriculturist, but it has a greater industrial future. Its resources are more nearly comparable to those of Pennsylvania or Missouri than to other states. It possesses an abundance of oil, natural gas, coal, glass sand and zinc ore. Other minerals have been found, but Indian ownership has prevented any considerable development. Allotment of Indian lands in severalty in this territory will be completed next year; sale of a part of these lands will be permitted before 1910. A tremendous growth in population, industry and wealth must follow. The climate is good and the Indian Territory faces a future as a great state, greater than Oklahoma, with which it is so closely identified. Its development will be rapid, too.

The Contribution Box.

A [illegible] church conference in Des Moi[illegible] day discussion turned on t[illegible] of utensil with which to se[illegible] congregational contributions, [illegible] the old-fashioned contributio[illegible] its long handle resembling a "popper," the cushioned basket, or the soup plate arrangement was the most effective for the purpose. The discussion was proceeding smoothly when a delegate astonished the assembly by declaring, in his opinion, all were wrong; the proper method of obtaining funds for the support of the church was through [illegible] the members, to be [illegible] monthly by check or handed [illegible] the treasurer. [illegible] ever conve[illegible] when any friends visit [illegible] people," he declared, [illegible] hat and expect [illegible] ts. So with strangers [illegible] ors in our churches. It is certainly the height of discourtesy to shove the contribution box in their faces. Then, too, regular members are paying their pew rents and contributing to a number of benevolent collections besides, and they should not be asked to chip in simply for the sake of appearances."

To most of us, church would not be the same with the pleasing little ceremony of taking up the collection omitted. In most services it forms an agreeable break, a breathing spell between the preliminary exercises and the impending sermon. It is a time to look around and observe innovations in millinery, to note which of our friends are present after the battle of the week and which have apparently fallen by the wayside; and then, with a sigh, to banish wordly thoughts from the mind and settle down to the contemplation of the sermon. We never miss the nickel or dime or quarter we drop into the box, and as it makes the rounds of the pews, it seems like the passing of the loving cup at a banquet, making us all contributors to a common cause. In paying a glowing tribute to a deceased friend, Mark Twain once said: "When the contribution box came around to him in church he never took a cent out." We can all do a little better, even, than Mark's friend. So let us stick to the contribution box.

Have We the New Russia?

Radicals in Russia continue to demand more than the czar has granted. They are not satisfied with overthrow of the autocracy, a constitution and legislative assembly. This was to be expected. Doubt about the future concerns itself, not with the radicals, or the extreme reactionaries, but with the sodden mass lately aroused to active resentment of its wrongs. The question is if Count Witte can get the mass to accept the reforms he offers.

In this country the hope is held that what Count Witte has wrung from the czar will be enough to restore peace to an unhappy country. If so, the broader concessions will follow as the new Russia develops. To the new Russia the American people can and will extend the hand of friendship as they never could to the autocracy. Russia and America have been friends; there has been much in their relations to draw them together; but always there has been between them the chasm of injustice under the cloak of absolutism. With that chasm bridged by the new form of government the two countries will find they have many things in common.

The Spirit of Sport.

In view of the present agitation regarding the reforming of college football, the article in the Century by Ralph D. Paine, in which he attempts to analyze the spirit of college sport as manifested in England and America, possesses timely interest. His conclusion that our English cousins play football for the love of the sport and the physical benefits involved, while American young men play chiefly for the sake of winning, is a severe indictment, if true. In support of his opinion Mr. Paine cites the fact that there is little athletic competition between English schools and colleges, as compared with conditions in this country. In the English school an effort is made to have every pupil, not debarred by illness or disability, participate in all athletic sports, instead of being a mere onlooker and cheerer of others. In contrast to this spirit, an American college alumnus is quoted as saying: "In my old school days every boy able to run could play football and everybody used to take a hand in the crude baseball of the time. The sports have changed their character and the evolution has transformed the simple into the complex, a healthful recreation into a tour de force no longer open to the whole school. It is not an edifying spectacle to see a score of young fellows in fantastic costume have the play all to themselves, while 200 of their comrades sit about and look on the whole afternoon."

American college students might well ask themselves if they are not taking their athletics a little too seriously; if what was originally fun and wholesome recreation has not degenerated into sordid business, the business of winning. Our cousins across the sea may not conduct their athletic sports in such a scientific manner as we, but if their policy is followed by greater enjoyment and increased physical benefits to the largest number, as is asserted, it might be well to profit by the example.

When the Dispatch states "It is easier to scratch a ticket in New York than in Pennsylvania," it should give a diagram. The manner of marking is the same in both states. New York has the separate column scheme used in Pennsylvania prior to 1903, while the last Pennsylvania ballot adopted the "group plan," so constantly urged by the Dispatch and other "reformers." Why, then, is it easier to "scratch" a ticket in New York?

The Leader's inquiry: "Who could tell a Chinese woman from a chimpanzee?" illustrates that frequent failing of the Leader, its cruel vulgarity in an attempt to be funny.

New York has a merchant who has been robbed 40 times. Gotham's police must be busy with politics, like Pittsburgh's "guardians."

Women are not permitted to be photographed in China, so they have fewer inducements than their American sisters to "look pleasant."

Having visited every state in the Union it may be said President Roosevelt is acquainted with the great country he governs.

Chicago professors say eating [illegible] helps one to compose poetry. [illegible] are the poets in [illegible] first place?

[illegible] on spectinghat to whom a [illegible] $100,00 is a living ill-[illegible] the phrase "a happy medium."

New York critics who want to help a struggling playwright have kindly condemned his latest effort as humoral.

Newark (N. J.) Halloweeners had to take out licenses. Here they had all the license they wanted for noting.

The Enterprise National bank is turning out to have been an extraordinarily bad case of the usual kind.

Registration frauds in New York? Why, they have personal registration there.

QUIET OBSERVATIONS ON WAYS OF WORLD

Talk It Over With Yourself Before Making a New Move.

By ERASMUS WILSON.

You can pretty nearly tell right from wrong in all things pertaining to everyday life.

One of the reasons why many go wrong is that they think themselves incapable of deciding as to the right way. If these only felt that they were competent to determine the right from the wrong in the ordinary affairs of life, they would do so, and thus save themselves a lot of trouble.

The one question, and the only really important question is, Is it right?

But we are more apt to ask, Is it wrong? To this there may be a variety of answers, since there seems to be various degrees in wrong-doing. That is, some things are wrong, some very wrong, some not very wrong, and some a little wrong.

There is only one degree of right. That is, an act is either right or not right, and if not right it is wrong, and that is all there is to it.

Don't you think that if you had been duly impressed with this fact, and had it so wrought into your life from childhood until maturity that it had become a part of yourself, that when you felt an impulse to do anything your first thought would be, Is it right?

You can readily see how much easier it would be to answer than if you had asked, Is it wrong?

It is never very difficult to determine the right of things, while the wrong of them are open to discussion, and admit of various conclusions.

Teachers of morals devote much time to the discussion of the wrongness of things, so that their pupils become more familiar with the wrong than the right of them.

"Is it right," was the touchstone used by our old-fashioned Quaker teachers, and their pupils never had much trouble in determining the right, and that was all they needed to know.

Is it right to swear, to use vulgar language, to lie, or to indulge in habits detrimental to your morals, or injurious to others?

Because others indulge in these does not make them right, therefore their conduct can in no way excuse your indulgence in them.

The fact that our forefathers kept a bottle of liquor on the sideboard, that the minister felt that he had been slighted if not offered a drink out of the bottle, and that children were given a "drop or two" of bitters in the morning, does not prove that it would be right for you to do so now.

The right is that which brings most good to all, not most money, most show of comfort, but real, lasting good.

Time changes, or rather the people change as their environment varies, so that customs and habits of a century ago may no longer be right, because they do not fit the occasion.

It is safe to say that every boy and girl knows enough of right before entering their teens to prevent their going very far wrong.

And it is equally safe to say that if the advantages of right living were really impressed upon them, and the necessity of doing right in order to secure the rewards in life that are worth having, comparatively few of them would go wrong.

One of the fallacies in teaching is to show, to define, and to demonstrate wrong in order to warn others against it.

This fallacy has long been recognized by those who have given the matter serious thought. But the fact is that many prefer to study wrong-doing rather than right, to see it illustrated on the stage, and to read about it.

The measure of moral training can be determined only by the degree to which the sense of right has been developed. A sense, or feeling, of right differs very materially from mere knowledge of right. Impulses are prompted by the senses, while knowledge only guides in carrying them out.

When a question arises about which you are not quite satisfied, talk it over with yourself. That is often, if not usually, better than talking it over with a chum or someone who may not know as much about it as you do.

If there still remains points that are not clear as to the right, you should ask those in whose wisdom and honesty you have full confidence.

Let your question be, Is it right, and not, Is it wrong, for it is the right that you are seeking, and when you have found it you may rest assured that you are not in the wrong.

When our system of education has been elevated and improved to the point of making the right idea the central idea of the course from the kindergarten to the university, then, and not until then, will righteousness—living right, doing right in all things—begin to spread and to possess the land.

Cut out stories of wrong-doing, shows that give detailed reproductions of vulgar and criminal scenes, and literature that caters to tastes that are not right.

Vice is a monster of so hideous mien,
As to be hated needs but to be seen;
Yet seen too oft, familiar with her face,
We first endure, then pity, then embrace.
—Pope.

Mr. Quiet Observer—I have wanted for some time to tell you how much I enjoy reading "The Quiet Observations" in The Gazette, but lacked the nerve to write to you. So I hope this won't reach the waste basket until after you have seen it.

Your column is very instructive and sometimes amusing. It is amusing when you discuss the kissing question. What's the use of making such a fuss about it, for everyone does just as they please anyway.

I liked your article the other morning about work. I have to work for my living and I enjoy it. I have been working in an office for two years, and I never was as happy in my life as when I received my first raise and was told that my work was very satisfactory. I don't think there was a prouder or happier girl in Pittsburgh.

I can't see why people grumble because they have to [illegible] so thankful that I have the [illegible] trains to make my [illegible] able to meet my [illegible] at home, and give [illegible] me to the church, so in [illegible] hard bumps I receive every [illegible] then I am happy as the day is [illegible] and I'm glad I am alive.

THE GIRL WHO WORKS.

A HUNDRED YEARS TO COME.

Oh! where will be the birds that sing,
A hundred years to come?
The flowers that now in beauty spring,
A hundred years to come?
The rosy lip, the lofty brow,
The heart that beats so gaily now?
Oh! where will be Love's beaming eye,
Joy's pleasant smile, and Sorrow's sigh,
A hundred years to come?

Who'll press for gold this crowded street,
A hundred years to come?
Who'll tread you church with willing feet,
A hundred years to come?
Pale, trembling age and fiery youth,
And childhood with its brow of truth,
The rich and poor, on land and sea—
Where will the mighty millions be
A hundred years to come?

We all within our graves shall sleep,
A hundred years to come,
No living soul for us shall weep
A hundred years to come.
But other men our land will till,
And others then our streets shall fill,
And other blids shall sing as gay,
As bright the sunshine as today,
A hundred years to come.
—William Goldsmith Brown.

MEN HAD NO CHANCE TO GAMBLE ON SHIP

Women Passengers on Board the Cretic Outnumbered the Men Ten to One.

By FRANK A. PARKER.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—So much more numerous were the women passengers than the men on the trip of the White Star liner Cretic, just ended, that the bar took in only a little more than $10 during the 17 days' run from Genoa. A patient man who had to play solitaire in the smoking room to make believe that the trip was lively said today he found 10 women to every man on board. There were no card games, no pools were sold, and the nearest approach to sporting excitement was when a committee of ladies proposed a straw vote on the municipal election here. The men on board refused to enter into the spirit of the occasion. There were three American rear admirals—E. O. Matthews, J. McGowan and E. W. Watson—on board as passengers, and because the trio had after-dinner coffee served in the smoking room one of the women said that she had a suspicion the naval officers went "in that cursed hole" for something besides coffee. The wickedest game played during the voyage was shuffleboard. Once several Italians in the steerage were seen quarreling over a game of checkers. There were a few young men among the cabin passengers and they sighed when the Cretic finished her trip today. One of them told a friend on the pier that he "sidestepped ten matrimonial proposals during the trip." An officer of the ship said: "It is a shame that we did not have more men during the trip. There were so many good looking girls, and every girl had about six trunks."

And Bad Weather All the Way.

All the regular liners coming to port report exceptionally bad weather. The Cretic had to come over the northern lane to escape a howling tempest that was blowing when the ship cleared Gibraltar. As it was, the Cretic met such rough weather as to compel the stewards to keep the large racks on the tables during the entire trip. One day in mid Atlantic the ship rolled to an angle of 35 degrees, and $125 worth of china was smashed. The Cretic had a very heavy cargo, and but for this stiffening might have fared worse. The Cretic left Almeria, Spain, October 21, and she spent nine days and nineteen hours in coming over. The Kaiser Wilhelm II. of the North German Lloyd, which was due today from Bremen, will not arrive until tomorrow afternoon.

Caine Hopes to Come Again.

Hall Caine, the English novelist and dramatist, sailed today for home on the Cunarder Caronia. In an interview Mr. Caine qualified the statement in his address before the Rockefeller Bible class to the effect that he never would visit America again by saying: "I am now 52 years old, and if I should ever reach the age of 60—and I have reason at present to think that I will not—I may take a run over again to your hospitable shores—just for old time's sake, you know. There is no country I have liked better to visit than America. I am a busy man, however, and I hope to be able to keep busy until the day my Creator sees fit to end my career on this earth."

War Declared on Mosquito.

John Martin, the Municipal Ownership league candidate for president of the borough of Richmond, has made the mosquito plague an issue in his campaign. In an address to the voters he says: "Scientific methods for exterminating mosquitoes are known. They require only energy, money and official backing to make them effective. We could considerably reduce the discomfort from mosquitoes if our borough president would take up the campaign energetically. I pledge myself, if elected, to use all my power and to devote at least one-fifth of my salary to rid the island of the mosquito pest."

Mayor McClellan Takes to Gas.

Mayor McClellan spent two hours today in a dentist's chair having repairs made to one of his teeth, which in some unaccountable way he broke last night in the midst of a speech against the foes of the straight Tammany ticket. Incidentally the whole dental profession has been urged by Dr. Charles O. Kimball to indorse Mr. Jerome's candidacy. This may or may not have made today's dental adventure rather awkward for the mayor. It is not known on what particular word Mayor McClellan's tooth broke, but rumor hath it that at today's session he allowed gas to be administered to him.

Women Enjoy Prize Fight.

Many women were among the crowd that saw a private prize fight in a political club in Yorkville last night. Harry Decker and Kid Hatwick were the fighters. They went 14 rounds until Hatwick was knocked out. The crowd, all told, numbered about 300. The women present were dressed as if for a ball. They seemed to enjoy the fight and applauded as each good blow was struck.

New York Budget Increases.

The board of estimate met today at special meeting under charter provisions and approved the budget for 1906. The figures show a total of $116,895,490 37, or $6,987,897 34 more than 1905's figures of $109,517,593 03. The largest increase is in the appropriation to the board of education, which gets a total of $24,856,188 69. The increase is $1,361,170 92, a little less than half of the increase asked for. For the Carnegie libraries the increased appropriation is $138,047 20. The parks get $271,021 15 more than last year, while the appropriations for charitable institutions exceed last year's by $37,700 06.

Does Not Apply to the Case.

Great life insurance companies cannot assume that the public, with its faith sadly shaken and its suspicions deepened to certitude, in conspicuous cases, will hold all such corporations innocent until, or unless, proved guilty. The presumption of blameless conduct which the law makes the birthright of every citizen cannot govern public opinion in regard to such companies.—Cleveland Leader.

Deserving of Support.

The Republican party is composed of fair, square, upright, intelligent and honorable men, pledged to administer the affairs of their respective offices when elected with honesty and fidelity. Every one of them deserves the support of the voters of Washington county at the election on November 7.—Charleroi Daily Mail.

A SEASONABLE SOUSE INTO DOMESTIC LIFE

Comedy That Is Enacted in Every Household, Where Man Always Gets Worst of It.

"Now, look here," the man peevishly began, appearing in the doorway of the flat's storeroom, where he had been rummaging for some time, "what's become of that topcoat of mine?"

The man's wife stepped into the flat hall from the dining-room and gazed at him blankly.

"Why," she said, "I was wondering what you were hunting for in there. I——"

"Uh huh," said the man, thrusting his hands into his pockets and looking gloomy. "So you've gone and sold that topcoat of mine to some old clothes man, hey? Well; if that wouldnt jolt a——"

"Didn't I tell you, she began again, "that I——"

"And here," he broke in, petulantly, "I've been figuring right along on having that topcoat to cover me up when the chilly weather drifted along, and——"

"If you'd only give me a chance to——"

"I don't know where you've picked up this new idea of yours that I'm a millionaire under cover, and that I'm trying to hold out my wealth on you; but, anyway, you seem to 've got it all charted out that I'm able to dig up $40 for a new topcoat every time the nippy season zephyrs along this way, and why——"

"Edward Bronxerick, if you——"

"And I'd be willing to bet a nickel's worth of gum, at that, that you'd be ashamed to own up just what the old clothes dickerer gave you for that topcoat, if, indeed, you sold it to him at all—it's just as likely as not that you traded it for a patent egg beater or some new fangled kind of a ten-cent coffee strainer that he flashed on you, or——"

The Vain Protest.

"For mercy's sake, won't you——"

"And when you heard the peddler pounding on the door you of course got all het over thinking of the potato masher he was going to hand you in exchange for your husband's only top——"

"Will the man ever in this wide world stop long enough to let me——"

"And you just tossed the coat over to him when he offered to give you some blamed tin stew pan, and so here I am with the bitey weather right on top of me, and all the fellows out with their topcoats long ago, and nary the thing have I got to keep me warm unless I wear that two-inch thick ulster, and now I'll have to go down and make another dig for a new topcoat when the one that you gave away to the tinware peddler was just about as good as new, and——"

Then the man's wife slowly walked over to where he was executing his verbal endless chain, grabbed him by the lapels of his smoking jacket, shook him, silenced him with two or three hysterical little screeches, and began:

"If you had lived two centuries ago in Massachusetts or any of those blue law places you'd have spent most of your time in the ducking stool as a common scold. I never heard a human being give utterance to such a perfectly unreasonable flow of nonsense in all my born days, and when you get started you're worse than that baby fox terrier we had that cried all night, and——"

"Fellow's got a right to kick if his clothes are all given away to junk dealers——"

The Wife Gets Back.

"And if you would only rest your voice long enough to listen to people until they're able to work in a word edgewise you would get more information; but, no, you go on with an interminable string of stuff about egg beaters and coffee strainers and such crazinesses without knowing a word of what you're talking about, and you never by any chance do people the slightest sort of justice for spending all of their time in looking after you and your comfort, but the first time you think you've got a chance to begin one of those continuous performance harp, harp, harps of yours about some teenchy, weenchy, miserable thing, why, away you start, like an old hundred-year clock that suddenly takes a notion to start running, and nothing in this wide world will stop you, except to——"

"All right, then, if you think it's the proper kink for you to swipe the only clothes I've got and dish 'em out to rag dealers for little or nothing, why, go right ahead, but——"

"And all the time you're going on like a train of cars running away down a mountainside I'm trying the very best I know how, I'm sure, to tell you——"

"To tell me what?"

"All the time that you're gibbering and gyrating around and tousling up your hair and twisting your mustache till you look like a walrus I am struggling frantically to tell you that——"

The Reconciliation.

"All right—now let it go at that. What were you trying to tell me, I'd like to know?"

"And never a word would you let me get in, no matter how frenziedly I tried, but, no, away you went, as you always do, like a White mountain stage coach flying on two wheels down a steep grade, and if you don't remind me of my Aunt Melissa out in Findlay, Ohio, who would talk for three straight days and nights once she got wound up, you don't remind me of anybody, and yet I was trying the best I knew how to tell you——"

Then he grabbed her by the shoulders, and shook her in her turn, and she smiled.

"Well," she inquired, pleasantly, "and how do you like it yourself?"

"Well," he said, "let's call it a draw," and he grinned sheepishly himself. "What's that you were going to tell me?"

"That I sent your topcoat down to the cleaner's," she replied, "and that I'm expecting the cleaner's boy back with it almost any minute."—New York Sun.

Advantages Pittsburgh Offers.

As a general rule men partake of the material that they are constantly handling. One would hardly expect much sentiment among men whose chief thought is iron and steel, and yet Pittsburgh has demonstrated that she has a love for high art far beyond many cities of like importance. Within the gates of the city any man can fit himself for almost any vocation in life. Of course we cannot make seamen there, but the technical part of navigation can be studied. The future has in store for Pittsburgh greater things artistically than is dreamed of by any philosopher. It is practically the home of electricity and no one can imagine what the future of that giant power will be.—Scottdale Independent.

STORIES FOUND IN THE LOBBIES

Interesting Happenings Concerning the People Who Are Traveling.

Bidding adieu to their homes in the Pittsburgh district, at least 1,000 people, representing 350 families, have left for new homes in the west and south. Last night a large number of people from Washington and Greene counties departed from Union station for California, the party being in charge of Traveling Passenger Agent Fred B. Sankey, of the Pennsylvania lines. Others left yesterday morning to catch the night trains out of Chicago, and some left on the Pennsylvania limited last night. "For the past several weeks, or during the term of the special one way colonist rates to new sections in the west, southwest and south these people have been going from here. The estimate given of the number from this district alone is a conservative one and was furnished by one of the local passenger agents. Most of the people who went from here travel either over the Pennsylvania or Wabash. The colonist ticket sales ended here yesterday.

George S. Pentecost, district passenger agent of the Rock Island-Frisco system in this territory, who has been in direct touch with these movements because of many of the people going from Chicago over the Rock Island to California, said last evening:

"There has possibly never been such an outgoing of colonists in a decade from the east. I received advices from Chicago this morning that our morning train to California was leaving with 290 colonists aboard, and that there had already been sold out 10 extra Pullman tourist cars for the night train. This business was in addition to that carried on on regular sleeping car equipment and in the coaches. It may seem unlikely, but I know that fully 50 per cent of the colonists have traveled the entire distance in coaches. Take our one train of 10 extra tourist sleepers cars last night, we carried at least 350 people from the east on that one train. I understand that the business throughout the east has been proportionate to that in this territory. When one considers that fully 75 per cent of these people go to California and other new sections to begin getting a living right away, it would seem that they have the utmost confidence in the future of the sections to which they are going west to invest their money and make their permanent homes in the new territory. The business has been excellent, and particularly so from Pittsburgh."

Every Man Must Do His Duty.

Pennsylvania was foremost in its loyalty to the Republican party. It has never proven fickle in support of its principles. To do so now would be to attract the attention of the combined elements and isms that have arrayed themselves against us. We want every Republican to go to the polls and vote. We will trust to his patriotism the destinies and approval of the party that has done so much for every citizen in bringing about the happy conditions so easily seen because so greatly enjoyed.—Greensburg Press.

Worse and More of It.

Mayor Sweet of Grand Rapids is advocating a plan the adoption of which he believes, would eliminate partisan politics from municipal affairs. It proposes that all candidates shall be nominated by petitions signed by a five per centage of the voters. No party convention or primary elections will be held. The names of all the candidates nominated will appear on a single ballot, and there will be nothing on the ballot to indicate the parties they belong to.—Chicago Tribune.

No Longer Listen to Them.

There is a lot of howling about reform in Philadelphia and elsewhere in this state that has no relation to reform whatever. Many of those loudest in their profession of reform are at heart the most selfish of politicians and they are pushing the "reform" business about as hard as the football player works his tricks on the opposing eleven. Assaults upon public men have become so frequent and in many cases so utterly unfair that the people no longer listen to the calumniators.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

THERE ARE NO GATES TO FLATS.

They may break, they may shatter the gates if they will,
But the city flat dweller lives happily still;
There are no gates to a flat
For Halloween freaks to get at.

They did throw, they did scatter things all over town,
But this morn the flat dweller wears not a frown;
There are no things to a flat
That Halloween freaks can get at.

They did pelt, they did patter the window with corn,
And made furious noises with cowbells and horn;
But only one window at that
For Halloween freaks to get at.

We did laugh, we did chatter and we chuckle with glee,
We city flat dwellers, snug and safe, don't you see.
We worried not there in our flat
Which no Halloween freaks could get at.

RESIDENT IS SAFE WITH HIS FAMILY

Gets Warm Greeting from Wife and Children on Return From His Cruise.

ACTS AS STOKER ON WARSHIP

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Room 10, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 31.

President Roosevelt's arrival in Washington was first announced at the navy department by a laconic dispatch from Commander Leutze of the Dolphin, which read:

"Washington Navy Yard, Oct. 31, 11:43 a. m. Dolphin."

At the navy yard, however, preparations had been going on for some time and a sailor perched aloft in the rigging of the Sylph, which returned last night from a cruise down the river with Mrs. Roosevelt and the younger children, saw the smoke of the Dolphin when she was below Alexandria upon the Potomac, and notified the officers of the yard. Accordingly they were all at hand when the Dolphin swung up to the navy yard pier.

Mrs. Roosevelt, in an open carriage, had been waiting for some time for the President's arrival, and as soon as he had bid goodby to the officers of the navy who had accompanied him upon the trip up the river he joined her in the carriage and was driven rapidly to the White House.

His arrival was comparatively unexpected, and for that reason there were no crowds along Pennsylvania avenue to greet him. Except for the secret service men, there was no escort to the White House.

First Greets Miss Alice.

Arriving there he was met upon the portico by Miss Alice and the younger children, each of whom he caught up and kissed after his fatherly fashion. Miss Alice was the first to be greeted, and she received a double embrace. The President then assisted his wife to alight from the carriage. Then came a rush from the door and Ethel, Kermit and Archie threw themselves upon their father, while Skip, the diminutive bear dog, proved true to his name and danced about the entire group. He also participated in the greeting which the President bestowed upon his family. With Mrs. Roosevelt and Miss Alice leading, and Kermit and Archie hanging to his arms, he passed into the White House to his lunch.

President Roosevelt devoted several hours to business during the afternoon. His first caller was Secretary Hitchcock, who was followed by Postmaster General Cortelyou and Secretary Root. It was announced upon the President's return to the White House that no cabinet meeting would be held during the day.

Private information was in the possession of the President before he left New Orleans of important changes in the Russian government. This change is viewed with the utmost satisfaction from an American standpoint. It was stated that no communications had been exchanged by the two governments regarding the matter, as the exigencies of the circumstances called for nothing of this nature.

President Roosevelt regards his southern trip just ended as a most enjoyable and profitable experience. Particularly did he enjoy the sea voyage, and the President expressed himself in the most enthusiastic terms regarding the ships, officers and men of the squadron.

President Fires Boilers.

While at sea on Sunday he made a speech to the officers and men of the West Virginia. He had just completed an inspection of the entire ship. In the boiler room a profusely decorated shovel was put into his hand and he was asked to throw a shovel of coal into a particular boiler. He threw in two, and the boiler was immediately christened the "Roosevelt Boiler." The shovel was passed around that every stoker might shovel coal with it. It was then speedily demolished into bits, each bit being retained as a souvenir.

At the conclusion of the speech the President was given three rousing cheers by the officers and men.

He spoke as follows:

It is a privilege for any president to come on board a squadron of American warships such as these, not alone to see the ships, but to see the men who handle them. From the admiral down through the entire ship's company, every American should be proud of what I have seen aboard this ship; the discipline, the ready subordination of each man, whether officer or enlisted men, to duty; the care taken of the men, and in return the eager, intelligent, self-respecting zeal of each man in doing his work.

What must impress especially any observer is how essential it is that every individual on a ship like these should do his whole duty, and in any crisis more than his duty. The result, as I see it in this ship, is a triumph, not only of organization and discipline, but of the ready zeal with which each individual performs his allotted task.

Importance of Individuals.

At any time some emergency may arise in which the safety of the entire ship will depend upon the vigilance, intelligence and cool courage of some one man among you, perhaps an officer, perhaps an enlisted man. Any man in the whole ship's company who does his full duty can claim as his own the honor and repute of the ship and has a right to feel a personal pride in all she does. You and your fellows in the navy, and in its sister service, the army, occupy a position different from that of any other set of men in our country. Going through the ship yesterday, in the engine rooms, store rooms, turrets, everywhere, the thing that impressed me most was the all-importance of each man in his place. The all-importance of that man both knowing of his work and feeling it a matter of keen personal pride to do it as well as it could possibly be done.

All through the ship I have seen the same purpose, the purpose to learn exactly what the duty to be done was and then to do it; and the power to do presupposes the possession by each of you of intelligence, courage and physical address. I believe that this attitude of yours is typical of the attitude of the men of our navy generally and of the army also.

Country Has an Obligation.

Now, on the one hand, this should make our country feel toward Uncle Sam's men in the army and navy a sense of obligation and gratitude such as they feel toward no others; and on the other hand it should make you feel that no other Americans rest under so great an obligation to do their duty well; for in your hands lies the credit, the honor and the interest of the entire nation. You are doing your duty well and faithfully in peace. Remember that if ever, which may Heaven forbid, war should come we expect of you and those like you, whether the people of this country are to hold their heads even higher or to hang them in shame. I hope that no such crisis will ever occur, but I have entire faith that if it ever does occur you will rise level to any demand that may be made upon you, and that by the way you train yourselves and are trained in time of peace, you will fit yourselves to do well should it arise.

Now a special word to the officers. Captain Arnold, as a boy you witnessed a great fight of the Merrimac when she came out to Hampton Roads, sunk the Congress and the Cumberland and the next day met her match in the Monitor. That was a fight fought with great honor for our people. The Cumberland sank with her flags flying and her guns firing while her decks were awash, and as the water was shallow, her flag still floated from the mast above them after she had gone down.

Joe Smith's Grand Epitaph.

The captain of the Congress met his death in the fight, winning an epitaph which deserves to be remembered forever by the American navy. His name was Joe Smith, and his father, an old naval officer, was in Washington. When word was brought to him that his son's ship had surrendered he answered simply: "Then Joe is dead." To have earned the right to have his death assumed as a matter of course amongst conditions is of itself enough to crown any life, and every American officer should keep ever before him all that is implied herein. Let each of you officers remember, in the event of war, that while to surrender may sometimes be justifiable, yet that a surrender must always be explained, while it is never necessary to explain the fact that you don't surrender, no matter what the conditions may be.

A tragedy occurred this morning. A man was lost from the Colorado. Such cases are from time to time inevitable in a service like ours. Under such circumstances, everything must always be done, as in this instance, everything was done, for the rescue of the man. But you men are fitted for fighting because you have the fighting edge. This means that you are willing at all times to face death in the performance of your duty. The man who died this morning was an excellent seaman who had done his duty faithfully and who died in the performance of that duty. Therefore he died in the service of his country exactly as much as if he had died in battle and deserves as much honor.

No Navy Equals Our Own.

What I have said so far applies to the whole navy. Not a word especially to this squadron and to this ship. No other nation can boast of a better squadron, a squadron composed of more formidable vessels. In the matter of the officers and men, we have no cause to shrink from comparison with any other nation. So far, the Colorado has been the one ship that has had the chance to show what she could do in gunnery practice and her record has been so astonishingly good that her sister ships will have to do their level best if they expect even to equal it. I need not tell you to remember that battles are decided by guns and that the only shots that count are the shots that hit.

Men, I am glad to have seen you and I don't think that anywhere under our flag there could be found a better set of clean-cut, vigorous, self-respecting American citizens of the very type that makes one proudest to be an American.

FURNITURE FIRM PURSUES THE HIAWATHA BRAVES

Alderman Groetzinger reserved his decision in the case of the Hiawatha Braves of the Comanche Tribe, heard by him yesterday. This is an unincorporated club near Coraopolis, which recently bought furniture valued at $125 from the Lamb Furniture Company, and failed to make any payment, according to the allegations of the prosecutors. Suit was brought against 38 alleged members of the club in an attempt to collect the money. Alderman Groetzinger dismissed Joseph Duncan, W. J. Miller, Joseph Landschuf, James Fuher and S. V. Rovinak, who were named as defendants in the suit, as he found there was not sufficient evidence to hold them.

FIRE CAUSES THE LOSS OF ONE LIFE

WHEELING, W. VA., Oct. 31.—One life was lost and a property loss of $150,000 sustained in the fire that wiped out the business section of Pine Grove, W. Va., 50 miles south of Wheeling, early this morning. The victim was Samuel Speime, an oil teamster, who was burned to death in his room at the Pine Grove hotel, where the fire originated. Speime made a desperate effort to escape, but was cut off by the rapid spread of the flames and perished. W. F. Schuman, president of the county court, escaped by lowering himself to the ground with an improvised rope.

EDGAR THOMSON MAKES NEW RECORD ON RAILS

The Edgar Thomson steel works' record for October shows 75,000 tons of steel rails rolled this month, which will break all previous monthly records. This is at the rate of 900,000 tons a year. The new mill of the company, which is expected to turn out 1,500 tons of light rails a day, was placed in full operation yesterday.

It requires but a small amount of treatment, as a rule, to produce a cure, if directions are carefully followed.

After you have tried the trial treatment and found it satisfactory, as you will, you can get a regular-size package of Pyramid Pile Cure at your druggist's for 50 cents. If your druggist hasn't it, send us the money and we will forward you the treatment.

Send your name and address for the treatment at once and we will send you same by return mail, in sealed plain wrapper, on receipt of your name and address. Pyramid Drug Co., 497 Pyramid Building, Marshall, Mich.

After La Grippe

The after-effects of La Grippe is a weak, broken-down nervous system, that leads to many distressing complaints.

The system needs a nerve medicine, like to restore nerve energy, and give the organs power to perform their various functions.

"One winter I had LaGrippe three times, and it left me in a terrible condition. After doctoring for some time without any apparent improvement I began taking Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, and it has done wonders for me. I recovered my usual strength in a short time. I firmly believe I should have died had I not taken Nervine when I did, for I was completely broken down and rapidly growing weaker."

The 22d prize ($5.00) winner's name was mercifully not announced. It was for the meanest and ugliest pumpkin shown, and it deserved the prize.

Special Prize—Most novel Rug ..... Value $ 5.00

ROOF CONTEST.

Isn't it too bad that more people did not enter the roof contest? Eleven prizes and only eight entries. Sure some people that entered this contest got in wrong. They planted the seed in the ground and vined pumpkin on roof. The rules called for seed to be planted on the roof in a box, barrel or trough, and grow pumpkin on roof. We only accepted eight out of ten entries; the other two were planted in the ground and vined on roof. If any person that had one growing on the roof and missed notifying us as the rules called for, so that we could go see it growing, they are to blame. The two prizes that were not entered for will be given to Jimmie Flaherty, the legless newsboy, to be sold at his stand, the money derived from stand to go toward educating him.

1st Prize—C. A. Kloppman, Sheraden; 14¼ pounds	Value $250.00

HOTEL ELEVATOR MAN MEETS DEATH IN CAGE

J. W. Saunders, Operator at Hotel Anderson, Dies in Going Up the Shaft.

J. W. Saunders, aged 25, of 1505 D street, Washington, D. C., was crushed to death in an elevator shaft at the Hotel Anderson at 5 o'clock last evening. He was employed as an elevator operator and had brought a load of passengers from the upper floors to the corridor. He started the cage up the shaft again. Between the second and third floors he was crushed to death in some unknown manner. Manager McKinnie rang several times for the elevator and getting no response started to investigate. The cage was found to be lodged between the second and third floors and Saunders was found fastened between the wall of the shaft and the cage, dead. It is not known how he was killed.

Leonard Peters, aged 27, of 28 Pasture street, died at the Passavant hospital last night from burns received October 25 in a fire at 1208 Scott street. Lena Williams and Susie Smith were burned to death at the same time.

Mattie Middleton, aged 17, of Hays borough, committed suicide by taking strychnine at the residence of Mrs. J. B. McHugh, a relative, at Brownsville, Monday night. The girl was an adopted daughter of Louis Middleton. She wanted to go on the stage, but was opposed by her relatives. She ran away from home about a year ago with a theatrical company and was brought back home. The girl attempted to end her life twice before.

The Death Roll.

Thomas J. Daft.

Thomas J. Daft, a public official in McKeesport for many years, died yesterday at his home in Willow avenue, aged 75 years. Mr. Daft was up until last April a member of the board of assessors, having served continuously for four terms, three of them for three years each and another of two years, making a total of 11 years' service. At the close of his last term Mr. Daft retired owing to failing health. After the incorporation of McKeesport as a city in 1891 Mr. Daft was a county assessor until 1894, when he was first elected to the office of city assessor. He lived in the Seventh ward at that time, and was also an alderman. He resigned the latter office to become city assessor. He was a stanch Republican and was probably personally acquainted with more voters than any other politician in the city.

Mr. Daft was born on the South Side, Pittsburgh, and was a son of Thomas Daft. When hte gold excitement in California broke out Mr. Daft joined a party of the original 49ers and went to California, where he remained for five years, being moderately successful. Later he reutrned to Pennsylvania and at the outbreak of the civil war became a member of the New York volunteer infantry and served four years, participating in some of the most notable battles. He went to Elizabeth at the close of the war and engaged in the boat building business, finally owning and operating the marine ways there. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity, the G. A. R. and the Odd Fellows. Mr. Daft was married three times and is survived by his third wife, Mrs. Charlotte Daft, and these children: Mrs. E. J. McIlwee, McKeesport; Miriam, at home; William, Lorain, O.; Thomas, a soldier in the United States army, and John of St. Paul, Minn.

Gottlieb Wertz.

Gottlieb Wertz, one of the oldest and best known residents of Sharpsburg, died yesterday afternoon at his home, 1405 South Canal street. Mr. Wertz has lived in Sharpsburg for 57 years and was one of the first butchers in the borough. He was born in Manheim, Baden, Germany, on August 29, 1820, and came to New Orleans in 1846. Two years later he moved to Sharpsburg, where he had since resided. He was twice married, having wedded Kunigunde Prager of Sharpsburg in 1850, who died eight years later, and in 1859 he married Elizabeth Hartung of Zelionople, Pa., who survives him with the following children: Peter, George and Robert Wertz, well-known business men of Sharpsburg; Mrs. Minnie Bock and Mrs. Louisa Bock, also of Sharpsburg, and 20 grandchildren. Mr. Wertz was a member of Sharpsburg borough council during the first five years of its organization. He retired from business in 1874.

Sylvester Cornelious.

Sylvester Cornelious, aged 74, one of the pioneer gardeners of Neville Island, died yesterday at his home in Beringer place, Ben Avon. Mr. Cornelious was born in McKees Rocks in 1831, when that place was a settlement of about three houses. His parents were Virginians and removed to Neville island when he was but a year old. His father built the second house on the island and engaged in the garden business, which Mr. Cornelius kept up until five years ago when he retired and removed to Ben Avon. He was a member of the Neville Island Presbyterian church, and is survived by his widow and one daughter, Lilly B. Cornelious, at home, and one son, Frank Cornelious, of this city.

Obituary Notes.

John C. Guntz died Monday at his home, 34 Van Braam street. He had been a resident of the Sixth ward for 53 years. He is survived by one son and two daughters.

W. J. Morrison, aged 58, died Monday at his apartments, 1507 Wylie avenue. He was a son of the late Col. W. J. Morrison and was well known to many Pittsburgh residents.

Mrs. Kunigunda Nuesslein, aged 63, died Monday at the residence of her son, George A. Nuesslein, 1651 Lincoln avenue, East End. She was born in Germany and had lived in Pittsburgh for 32 years.

Mrs. Minnie Goodhart, aged 20, wife of R. Stanley Goodhart, died Monday at the residence of her father, H. J. Brown, 5207 Penn avenue. She had been married about a year and is survived by her husband.

Miss Minnie Mary Flaccus, aged 23, died Monday at her home, 4810 Scioto street. She was employed as telephone operator for P. Duff & Sons. She is survived by her mother and two sisters, Mrs. Robert Patterson and Mrs. George Acheson.

Mrs. Jane Boozle, aged 90 years, and one of the oldest residents of Lawrence county, is dead at the home of her son, Daniel Boozle, of Palingrove. Mrs. Boozle was born and spent her entire life there. She was a member of the United Presbyterian church.

Mrs. Charles F. McClinton, aged 35, died Monday at her home, 120 Craft avenue. She had been married only about a year. She leaves her husband, Charles F. McClinton, assistant purchasing agent for the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, and two sisters, Mrs. Otis Shadduck and Mrs. M. J. Mahoney.

Fireman Relires After Long Service.

Andrew Hoffman, hose carriage driver for Engine company 11, was tendered a reception in the basement of the engine house, South Ninth and Bingham streets, last night on the occasion of his retirement after being in the service for 25 years. On behalf of his fellow employes he was presented with a gold watch, chain and locket and an oyster supper was served in his honor.

ASK RECEIVER FOR K. OF L.

Court Is Also Petitioned to Issue Injunction Against Hays and Burns Factions.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The already complicated litigation between factions of the National Order of Knights of Labor, which has been pending in the local courts and also in the supreme court of the United States, became still more involved today, when a petition was filed in the supreme court of the District of Columbia by Joseph R. Manston and Patrick H. Farrell of New York, asking for the appointment of a receiver and the issuance of injunctions against the officers of both the Hays and Burns factions, which are at war with each other, prohibiting both of them from transacting the business of the order.

Mr. Manston is master workman and Mr. Farrell, the secretary, of District Assembly 253 of Building Constructors, with headquarters in New York. They also ask that the next convention be held under the direction of the court.

Governor Herrick at Warren.

WARREN, O., Oct. 31.—(Special.)—A rousing Republican meeting was addressed here tonight by Gov. Herrick, General Andrew L. Harris and Hon. D. K. Watson. Gov. Herrick reviewed his administration and his attitude on the Brannock law and other bills. General Harris confined his remarks to the attitude of the administration toward the old soldiers and farmers. Mr. Watson spoke on the Brannock law.

Attempt to Pass Worthless Check.

Michael Datz of the East End was arrested at noon yesterday in a Smithfield street clothing store charged with attempting to pass a worthless check for $8. He selected a $15 overcoat and tendered the check in payment. The check was made payable to Savel Smith by H. J. Heines and indorsed by Smith and George Howard. The bank on which it was drawn said it had no account with Heines.

fine footwear
Leather manufacture dates far back into pre-historic times, but today practically the same course is being pursued in the preparation of leather for the market as was then.
The various processes are of course greatly simplified, but the underlying principle is the same.
The actual manufacture of leather—giving permanency to material otherwise subject to early decay—has changed but little, though the application of "finish" to that materia, in order to make it presentable and pleasing to fastidious people, has undergone many changes.
From the rawhide of early ages your aesthetic demand has evolved leathers of exceeding grace and beauty.
See now what beautiful finish, flexibility and excellence is evident in the new Gun Metal Calf, Patent Calf, Patent Coat and Patent Kid Leathers, as produced for women's footwear.
The models or lasts are of the latest accredited mode—designed for the perfect combination of style and comfort, adapted to varied requirements.
Prices, $2.00 to $8.00 a pair.
We hope to have opportunity to show you the fine footwear and demonstrate the rational reasons for the Shoe store's continued growth.

Riding Boots—demi glaze calf.
Gymnasium Shoes—leather and canvas.
Over Gaiters, 25c to $1.50—Black and colors.
Bathroom Slippers, 50c to $1.25.
Boudoir Slippers, Black and Colors, $1.00 to $2.00.
The showings of Misses' and Children's Shoes, and the collection of fashionable footwear for men are of a character to warrant attention for your own sake.
Patent Colt and Vici Kid Cushion sole Lace Shoes for men troubled with cold, tender or calloused feet, $5.00.
Boys' Blizzard Calf Blucher Lace—the great shoe for service—Black or Tan, $3.25 and $3.50, according to size.

men's raincoats
No garment a man gets is quite as useful as a modern Raincoat.
The way they're tailored for you now gives them merit heretofore lacking, and leaves nothing to be desired from a style standpoint.
Men's and Young Men's tailor-made Raincoats, all wool and Worsted fabrics, cut long and full, latest models.
Black, Tan and Grey Chesterfield and Paddock styles—fall and winter weights, $10.00 to $30.00.
Boys' sizes, 8 to 16 years, $10.00.
Boys' sizes, 2½ to 8 years, $8.50.

millinery $5.00

Trimmed with Fancy Feathers, Plumes, Flowers, Chiffon, Velvet Ribbons, etc.

dressy raincoats
Utility was once the only feature considered when Raincoats were wanted, but now they are indeed very fashionable garments.
You will see a big change here in the character of the Raincoats for women and a large variety for selection at an interesting price range, $10.00 to $40.00.
Handsome Garments—style and quality—at $15.00.
Empire style—the very newest Raincoat idea, $18.50.
More fashionable fabrics are being rain-proofed than were even thought of heretofore—weaves and shades—and then made up charmingly.
Beautiful showing of Women's Dressy Raincoats at $25.00 and $28.50.
Misses' Raincoats, $10.00 to $20.00.
Children's—6 to 14 years—$6.50 to $13.50.

umbrellas
There's only one thing that it may be correctly said everybody needs, and that's an umbrella.
Every man, woman and child needs an Umbrella many times in a year.
But Umbrellas are very elusive—and often lost.
Generally their loss isn't discovered until they're absolutely needed.
Put one of our Umbrella Markers on yours, and the finder will return it at once—let us explain their use, 25c each.

O'NEIL IS USING THE PENSION LIST

Machine Candidate Evidently Has Access to Records in Agent Nesbit's Office.

BIG EAST PITTSBURGH RALLY

J. Denny O'Neil, the Bigelow candidate for recorder, appears to have access to the private records of the United States pension office in the government building. Pension Agent J. W. Nesbit is a supporter of the Citizens gang, and a year or two ago was using the government stationery for political purposes.

O'Neil, who is just now trying to show that his heart bleeds for the old soldier voters of the county, is sending a letter to every veteran of the civil war. His mailing list is apparently the same as the one used by the government in sending out pension vouchers from the office of Pension Agent Nesbit. There is even some similarity in the handwriting on the pension voucher envelopes and those used by O'Neil. Some of the old soldiers are exhibiting the two envelopes.

O'Neil has promised Bigelow he will carry the Eighth legislative district for the gang ticket. Monday night he decided to address the voters of East Pittsburgh in grand rally assembled. A lieutenant was ordered to hire a hall and freely advertise that O'Neil and W. S. Woods, chairman of the Bigelow county committee, would make speeches on Monday night.

An Audience of Three.

The hall was rented and O'Neil and Woods presented themselves. They were met by the janitor of the hall and two residents of East Pittsburgh. The orators waited for about an hour for an audience. At the end of that time the original group of five had not increased or diminished. O'Neil was indignant and refused to discuss the issues. As he was leaving for new fields to conquer the janitor demanded his money and the gigantic giant of the Eighth" had to settle.

Two years ago O'Neil went through the Eighth district making promises to the voters. They learned he was long on promise and shy on fulfillment. Quite a number of liquor licenses were to be distributed throughout the Turtle Creek valley. Some men were to sell by wholesale and others by retail. When it came time to deliver, the delivery was not made. When O'Neil goes through that valley now, he finds the people have memories.

The citizens are making a great bluff about electing their county ticket, but they refuse to back up their judgment with the cash. Republicans have repeatedly made efforts to wager money on the result of the election. They hear of some one who has a large amount of money to bet, but when the individual is found, he either announces he has no desire to make a wager or asks prohibitory odds.

Verner Not Hopeful.

Murry A. Verner frankly admits that he does not understand the situation. He thinks if the Bigelow ticket can get a majority of 6,000 in Pittsburgh and 2,000 in Allegheny, it will probably win. The Republicans intend to carry both cities. Even though the machine is figuring on stealing thousands of votes in the first 13 wards of Pittsburgh, it will be defeated in the city.

William J. Brennen and J. Rodgers McCreery, attorneys for the Bigelow machine in its attack on the validity of the Lincoln party nomination papers, are contemplating another appeal to the courts. An examination of the amended papers is being made, and if anything can be found for the basis of attack, exceptions will be filed in the courts today or tomorrow. Col. J. M. Guffey is greatly displeased over the action of Brennen in fighting the Lincoln ticket. Guffey says these attacks on the column headed by Berry, the Prohibition-Democratic candidate for state treasurer, are hurtful to him, as the people recognize Brennen as the Guffey mouthpiece.

Dalzell Speaks Tonight.

As last evening was Halloween, the Republicans did not attempt to hold any mass meetings in the cities. Rallies were held at Carrick and Elizabeth. Tonight there will be a meeting in the Braddock Carnegie hall. Addresses will be made by Congressman John Dalzell and Maj. Alexander McDowell of Sharon, chief clerk of the national house of representatives, and several of the county candidates.

Fourteenth ward Republicans will hold a mass meeting tonight in the Holmes school. The speeches will be made by Congressman J. F. Burke, I. K. Campbell, candidate for county commissioner, Perry A. Shaner and Daniel Ashworth.

Allegheny Republicans will hold their one big meeting of the campaign in Carnegie Music hall Saturday evening. The speakers will be John C. Haymaker, Maj. A. B. Hay, Former Judge Elliott Rodgers and Perry A. Shaner. Gov. S. W. Pennypacker will not speak at the meeting.

The following Republican meetings will be held this evening:

Glassport, Bank Hall—George J. Churchill, Capt. John A. Reed and J. B. Hindman; Jefferson School, Twenty-seventh ward—M. Hicks Gottschall, William Dodds, George Z. Hosack and A. A. Goetsch; Wickersham School, Twenty-fourth ward—A. J. Barchfield, Perry A. Shaner, Charles A. O'Brien and Howard B. Outsler; Thirty-eighth ward at D. Smith's, 83 Sylvania avenue—George A. Neale, A. T. Hall, Charles A. Jones and Edward Perkins.

BOGUS NUNS GET $500.

Two Women in Black Garb Fleece Homestead Residents Before Their Game Is Discovered.

Disguised as nuns and claiming to be members of a religious order connected with the Catholic church, two women have succeeded in collecting about $500 from residents of Homestead. The Rev. Father Francis William Jordan of St. Francis Catholic church, Homestead, yesterday learned the two women had canvassed the borough in their black habits and found many victims.

Several weeks ago the two women called on Father Jordan and asked his permission to solicit money among residents of the borough. They claimed they were raising a fund to establish a home for fallen women at Austin, Tex. When the women failed to show Father Jordan a letter from Bishop Capovin authorizing them to solicit in the Pittsburgh diocese, permission was refused by Father Jordan.

Residents of Homestead who had contributed to the bogus nuns yesterday stated the women told various stories in order to secure money, one of which was they were collecting money for the new St. Francis church of Homestead.

County Detective Is Prosecuting.

Chief County Robinson yesterday made information before Alderman Toole against Annie Saunders, a negress, who keeps a rooming house at 419 Fourth avenue, charging her with selling liquor on Sunday. Carrie Cornelius, the 15-year-old girl of Clifton, who was arrested at the house on Sunday, was turned over to the Humane society yesterday.

Bogus Rent Collector Busy.

Philip Escher, a Braddock hotelkeeper, reported to the Braddock police today that one of his tenants had been swindled out of $14 by a bogus collector of rents. An investigation revealed that several houses in the foreign district had been visited, but no more money was secured.

Knights of Malta Entertain.

Gervaise commandery, Knights of Malta, of Homestead, last night entertained 12 lodges of the order from Pittsburgh, Braddock, Homestead and other places. A street parade was held, following which a reception was held in honor of Past Commanders D. F. Welwile of Braddock and Dr. William Rugh of Philadelphia.

Thieves Ransack Sheraden Homes.

The home of Mrs. Florence Sturgeon and H. Trautman in Sheraden were entered by thieves early yesterday morning. At the Sturgeon home $15 was taken, at the other place nothing was stolen, though the rooms were ransacked by thieves, who evidently wanted money.

TO PLACE PHONOGRAPHS ON PROMINENT CORNERS

Revivalists Prepare to Send Forth Hymns on Downtown Streets and in Public Buildings in Both Cities.

Soul-winning by phonograph on prominent downtown street corners and in large office buildings, will be tried, beginning tomorrow, by the managers of the century simultaneous revival movement, now being conducted by the Christian churches of Western Pennsylvania, providing the permission of Mayors Hays of Pittsburgh and Wyman of Allegheny is secured.

The Rev. W. R. Warren, secretary of the revival committee, will visit the mayors of the two cities today with a view of getting their sanction to place phonographs on prominent street corners and in public buildings, from which to send forth soul-winning songs as sung by the Netz sisters' quartet, whose singing is a feature of the present revival. The young women will register their voices on scores of records today, in the hope that the request of the Rev. Mr. Warren will be granted.

In Allegheny an effort will be made to operate the phonographs in the lower wards, and in each instance it is the purpose of the committee to place an evangelist in charge of the phonograph that he may add a few words after a stirring hymn has been sent forth to those who may gather. The Rev. Mr. Warren said yesterday that he would be guided entirely by the wishes of the mayors and would place the phonographs at points deemed advisable by these officials.

The speaker at the noon meeting today, in the old Third Presbyterian church, Sixth avenue, will be the Rev. Dr. C. R. Scoville of Chicago, a noted evangelist. A male chorus will furnish songs while Mrs. Phillips, wife of the Rev. O. H. Phillips of Braddock, will preside at the organ, and Thomas M. Hardie will be cornetist.

RUSHING TO A FINISH WABASH IMPROVEMENTS

President Delano Says He Is Anxious to Complete All Work Under Way.

President F. A. Delano of the Wabash system arrived in the city last night with other officers of the company. He will spend today here in conference with the local officers and in the inspection of the progress of construction work on the local improvements.

"I have little to offer in a news ways," said Mr. Delano at the Duquesne club, "for we are not undertaking anything that has not been told about in The Gazette. We are simply endeavoring to get all of the work that we now have under way completed at the earliest possible moment. Other matters may be taken up this winter, but for the present we are doing nothing on the line to connect with the Western Maryland system, and nothing new has developed in our getting into Allegheny. We are gradually bettering our trackage along the lines from Pittsburgh to Toledo and Cleveland. The work on our portion of the lines to connect with the steel mills is going on nicely, I understand, and I regret that the Carnegie Steel Company's work is held up, or is reported in the papers to be held up, for want of men. This will doubtless soon be remedied."

Mr. Delano had spent Monday in Cleveland in conference with attorneys for the Wheeling & Lake Erie regarding claim adjustments. He started with Vice President B. A. Worthington, assistant to the president, G. G. Yoemans; Consulting Engineer Robert Blickensderfer and other officers on an inspection of the lines to Pittsburgh yesterday morning.

H. F. Douglas, Jr., chief engineer of the Wabash, who examined the West Side Belt bridge that was damaged by fire yesterday morning, said the damage has been very slight and repairs will be made at once, no new bridge being required.

H. L. Carson, a mechanical draughtsman, who was employed by George T. Ramsey when the latter was chief engineer, was released from the Wabash service yesterday. Mr. Delano said he knew of no further changes being contemplated in the official list, and there will be no wholesale change on the Wabash railroad.

NEW FEUD OPENS UP.

Callahan Brothers of Breathitt County, Kentucky, Now Hunting for Each Other.

OWINGSVILLE, KY., Oct. 31.—(Special.)—Reliable news from Breathitt county tonight states Ed and Sam Callahan, brothers, who became notorious as leaders in the Hargis factions two years ago, have quarreled over business partnership and exchanged shots. Both have barricaded themselves in their homes and are watching for each other.

Each brother has considerable following and friends are coming to them. Ed Callahan was sheriff of Breathitt county when Dr. Cox, James Cockrell and James Marcum were assassinated three years ago.

CUTS DOWN ITS DEFICIT.

Colorado Fuel and Iron Company Makes Flattering Showing for the Past Year.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The report of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company for the year ending June 30, shows a deficit after payment of interest, taxes and rentals of $341,938. The deficit for the preceding year was $1,584,857.

The company's earnings for this year were $18,615,617, an increase of $9,989,941. Operating expenses were $16,884,158, an increase of $8,777,617. Net earnings were $1,730,819, an increase of $1,511,824.

Day of Prayer for the Dead.

All Saints' day, a holy day of obligation in the Catholic church, will be observed today with masses, which will be offered the same as on Sundays. During the services special prayers for the dead will be offered. At the Epiphany church in Washington street high mass will be offered by the Rev. Father Boyle at 11 a. m. During the remainder of the week a number of German congregations will pay a special visit to the cemeteries, where prayers will be offered for the dead.

Heavy Salvage Is Claimed.

HONOLULU, Oct. 31.—The tug Fearless, belonging to the Spreckles Tugboat Company, has filed a salvage claim of $20,000 against the French ship Ernest Keyser, which was recently pulled off the reef near Diamond Head. The Inter-Island Steamship Company claims the same amount and the steamer Lehua will also have a salvage claim.

Gov. Wright Is Given Popular Demonstration at Farewell Banquet.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

MANILA, Oct. 31.—The farewell banquet to Gov. Luke E. Wright was attended by many army officers and civilians and was one of the most popular demonstrations ever given to an official of the islands. The governor was toasted by American, English, Spanish and Filipinos. He was cheered for 10 minutes when he arose to speak. In his address he gave credit to his colleagues for the work that had been accomplished. He said there never had been personal differences between the commissioners. From the first they never had been conscious of swerving from the policy of President McKinley. He urged the people to cease political discussions and work for the development of the islands. He said:

"Whatever may be the utterance of any American, however distinguished, he speaks for himself alone. Congress speaks for the people. In view of what has been accomplished, may not the most suspicious Filipino trust the government?"

Gov. Wright expressed faith in the future of the archipelago and his belief that congress would act favorably toward them. A declaration that he expected to return in a few months was greeted with great applause.

A public reception which will be tendered to Gov. Wright and family on Friday promises to eclipse any similar event ever given here.

TREASURER MATHUES DISAPPOINTS CRITICS

Names of Banks in Which Sinking Fund Is Deposited Are Made Known to Public.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

HARRISBURG, Oct. 31.—The attempt of the critics of the state treasury management to make the people of Pennsylvania believe that studied efforts are being made by the officials of that department to withhold information from the public was again disproved by the action of these officials today in making public the list of banks in which the sinking fund is deposited.

The October statement of State Treasurer Mathues shows that at the close of today's business the sinking fund amounted to $4,113,965.31. During the month $130,000 was withdrawn from this fund for the payment of $45,000 worth of 4 per cent state bonds and other expenses of the commonwealth.

The banks whose holdings of sinking fund have been reduced are as follows:

American National, Pittsburgh, from $40,000 to $25,000; Apollo Trust, $40,000 to $35,000; Central Guarantee Trust, Harrisburg, $25,000 to $20,000; Charleroi National, $40,000 to $10,000; Clearfield Trust, $85,000 to $75,000; Farmers National, Waynesburg, $50,000 to $40,000; Farmers Trust, Carlisle, $40,000 to $35,000; First National, York, $60,000 to $50,000; German American Savings, Pittsburgh, $40,000 to nothing; Jeannette Trust, $35,000 to $30,000; Mercer County Trust, $35,000 to $30,000; Northern National, Lancaster, $15,000 to $10,000; Tunkhannock National, $25,000 to $20,000; Safe Deposit and Trust, Greensburg, $50,000 to $40,000.

The balance in the general fund at the close of today's business was $10,657,046.80. One month ago the balance was $10,664,462.28. During the month $250,000 has been withdrawn from 14 banks and $50,000 was replaced in the Enterprise National bank of Allegheny. The Ridge Avenue Bank of Philadelphia is the only concern whose deposit shows an increase, the amount in that bank having been raised from $15,000 to $25,000.

Dozen New Cases of Typhoid.

Twelve cases of typhoid fever, six of scarlet fever and five of diphtheria, were reported to the Pittsburgh bureau of health yesterday.

Have Too Many Overcoats.

James and William Tierney were arrested yesterday afternoon at a pawnshop in Webster avenue, where they were trying to sell half a dozen overcoats. They claimed they bought them at a sale in Allegheny.

MAN AND DEER WRESTLE FOR LIFE IN CITY STREET

Fugitive Animal Attacks Peaceful Citizen as He Pedals to Work on His Bicycle—Both Glad to Quit the Contest.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

SOUTH NORWALK, CONN., Oct. 31.—Henry J. Buckingham, a local painter, is the only man yet on record in Connecticut who has wrestled with a wild deer on the streets of a city. While on his way to work at 7 o'clock this morning on his bicycle a large buck dashed across the street and ran full tilt into the rider.

The buck had evidently been harassed by the boys and other accessories of civilization for he had his head down and his antlers, which were a foot long, were at a business angle. Buckingham was knocked several feet from his wheel and landed in the gutter of the street, which was in one of the most prominent residential portions of the city. The buck did not desist at this point, but attacked Buckingham again.

Seeing that he must defend himself from the vicious onslaught or be badly hurt, Buckingham grabbed the buck around the neck and held on with desperation, gaining his feet in the meanwhile. Then commenced a wrestling bout at mixed styles and no precedents. Buckingham, who is a large man, tried jiu jitsu tricks, strangling holds and half Nelsons, but all in vain.

For several minutes the struggle continued, the buck trying vainly to free his head that he might use his horns. When winded and about to give up, Buckingham bested the deer to such an extent that he was able to get him down on his haunches. He was then able to dash behind a tree and the deer seemed content to withdraw from the scene of the conflict. The deer has been around the city for several days and yesterday swam across the river when a number of people tried to lasso him.

URGE EXCLUSIVE USE OF PSALMS

United Prebyterians Open Convention to Indorse Psalter for Songs of Praise.

THREE SESSIONS FOR TODAY

In accord with the ruling of the last general assembly of the United Presbyterian church, the psalmody convention for the eastern division of the denomination in America, began its sessions in the Sixth church, North Highland avenue, last evening with about 1,000 delegates present. The western half of the denomination in this county will hold its convention in Chicago, beginning November 14, the purpose of these conventions being to encourage the exclusive use of the psalms in church worship of all denominations as has prevailed in the United Presbyterian church since its inception.

Prof. John McNaugher, D. D., of the Allegheny Theological seminary, is chairman of the general assembly committee on psalmody and introduced the Rev. Dr. A. G. Wallace of Sewickley, who presided last evening. Two addresses were delivered, the first by the Rev. Dr. George W. Robinson of Allegheny, who spoke on "The Psalms in History" and the second by Prof. Joseph Kyle, D. D., of the Xenia (O.) Theological seminary, who discussed "The Devotional Value of the Psaltar."

REV. DR. A. G. WALLACE.
Of Sewickley, Who Presided over the opening of the United Presbyterians' Psalmody convention last evening.

Dr. Robinson traced the use of the psalms, as songs of praise, from the time of David, citing their use by the Huguenots, Cromwell, the pilgrims upon their arrival in New England, and others. Prof. Kyle held that the psalms could only have been written by an inspired writer and that they voice the needs of the soul to praise God and supply the demand for testimony as nothing else could.

Sessions will be held morning, afternoon and evening today, as well as tomorrow. This morning the Rev. Dr. S. R. Frazier of Youngstown will preside, and addresses will be delivered by the Revs. Dr. W. H. McMillan of Allegheny; Dr. William H. Vincent of Youngstown; Dr. William B. Smiley of Canonsburg, Dr. W. I. Wishart, of Allegheny, and Dr. John A. Cuff of Allegheny.

This afternoon the Rev. Dr. Andrew Henry of Jersey City will preside and those who will participate in the program are: Prof. D. A. McClenahan, D. D., Allegheny; Rev. James Parker, Ph. D., Jersey City; Prof. John McNaugher, D. D., Allegheny; Prof. John A. Wilson, D. D., LL.D., Pittsburgh. Tonight the Rev. U. M. Anderson of Philadelphia will be chairman and addresses will be delivered by the Rev. John A. Henderson, D. D., of Allegheny, and the Rev. Robert M. Russell, D. D. of Pittsburgh.

RECORD BREAKING OUTPUT.

Baldwin Locomotive Works Were Kept Busy During the Past Month.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—(Special.)—The Baldwin locomotive works last month turned out 225 engines. This is the largest output in the company's history, and the construction this year will break all records. To get these locomotives out required the employment of 16,-000 men in the shops in this city alone. With the force at Lewistown there are on the payrolls of the company more than 19,000 men.

The shops are kept going from midnight Sunday until midnight the following Saturday. The best previous month was last July, when 220 locomotives were turned out. Estimating each locomotive to cost $15,000, the revenue from these engines for last month was $3,375,000.

Sam Bernard at the Nixon.

The sale of seats for the engagement of Sam Bernard in "The Rollicking Girl" at the Nixon theater next week commences tomorrow. Mr. Bernard and "The Rollicking Girl" are still in New York city, where they have been playing for nearly seven months. With Mr. Bernard there are 80 other fun-makers, including Hattie Williams. Mirth and melody follow each other in rapid succession throughout the three acts, and the stage pictures are sure to call for the highest praise.

Youth Kills His Companion.

PARKERSBURG, W. VA., Oct. 31.—(Special.)—Rex Casto, 17 years old, accidentally shot and killed Ben Phillips, Jr., 16 years old, while the two were hunting rabbits near their home in Ravenswood today. The bullet entered Phillips' leg and he bled to death before help could be secured. He exonerated Casto before dying.

Will Deport a Croat Today.

Philip Sistaric, a 24-year-old Croat of Butler, is to be deported today. Immigrant Inspector Thomas Thomas left for Baltimore last night with the man. Sistaric came to this country last April and has been unable to work on account of trachoma, an optical disease.

RAILROAD DEEDS WILL PASS TODAY

Little Kanawha Syndicate Members and Purchasers Will Meet in New York.

RAMSEY MAY BUILD THE LINE

The deal by which the ownership of the Little Kanawha syndicate properties will pass finally to the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad Company in name, and a coalition of the Vanderbilt and Pennsylvania interests in fact, will be concluded with all formality in New York today.

In the name of the Vanderbilt railroad reaching Pittsburgh the entire property will be taken, but this is a formality, inasmuch as the Pennsylvania and the Baltimore & Ohio are cash to have a voice in the disposition of the valuable project and a share in the earnings which come from the developments of the section it will tap.

The Vanderbilt interests in the deal will be represented by Col. J. M. Schoenmaker, vice president of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad Company. The Pennsylvania interests will be represented by one of the officers of the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburgh. The Little Kanawha syndicate interests will be represented by J. Ramsey, Jr., and others holding the control. Those who went to New York last evening included, among others, Col. Schoonmaker, J. W. Patterson, Sr., W. B. Griffiths and N. P. Ramsey.

While the deal has been closed in fact for some time past, as shown in The Gazette of Saturday and Sunday last, there remained some formalities which are to be finished today.

Those who are watching the big event closely are convinced that Joseph Ramsey, Jr., will be a big factor in the development of the plan hereafter, precisely as he has been in its start. The project is really his own, for he laid out this route over 20 years ago and has long claimed that it is the natural line from Pittsburgh to the seaboard. If Mr. Ramsey should be chosen head of the company formed to build this line there would be little surprise. The character of the railroad he built into Pittsburgh has been thoroughly satisfactory to those who know what trunk line construction should be, although it has brought criticism from those who are acquainted with only single-track, 20-ton car operating in the west.

Plucky Railroader, Although Wounded, Stops Engine and Then Faints.

POTTSVILLE, PA., Oct. 31.—(Special.)—While William Engle, a Pennsylvania railroad engineer, with a freight train in charge, was speeding through the lower part of the county at 55 miles an hour, an injector blew out and he was hurled upon the tender. He lay there for a few moments in a semi-conscious condition, while the train sped ahead upon the main line under its great head of speed.

Realizing he was in the direct path of a passenger train south-bound for Philadelphia, the plucky engineer painfully pulled himself through a cloud of scalding steam to the dome of the engine, where he cut off the steam at the globe valve. A few moments later he had his train side-tracked and then fainted from weakness. His courageous action was none too soon for the switches had no more than been adjusted when the passenger train flew by.

New Superintendent for Baths.

A new superintendent for the Phipps public bath house will be appointed today. After the bath house was erected two years ago Charles Stewart was appointed superintendent. He has held the position until yesterday, when he resigned. It was stated last night that Charles Gass of Thirty-ninth street was to succeed Mr. Stewart as superintendent. Mr. Gass has been a resident of Lawrenceville for 40 years.

Police Find Copper Wire.

Two tons of copper wire, removed from the Youghiogheny river at the foot of Ninth street in McKeesport, is being held by the McKeesport police. David Mugolis was placed under arrest while he was attempting to load the wire on his wagon. It is valued at $400 and the police are trying to effect other arrests.

DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Have You Rheumatism, Kidney, Liver or Bladder Trouble?

To Prove What Swamp-Root, the Great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy, Will Do for YOU, All Our Readers May Have a Sample Bottle Sent Free by Mail.

Pain or dull ache in the back is unmistakable evidence of kidney trouble. It is Nature's timely warning to show you that the track of health is not clear.

If these danger signals are unheeded, more serious results are sure to follow; Bright's disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble, may steal upon you.

The mild and the extraordinary effect of the world-famous kidney and bladder remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. A trial will convince any one—and you may have a sample bottle free, by mail.

Gentlemen—I attribute my present good health to Swamp-Root. I suffered many years with kidney trouble and had an almost constant pain in my back. Your great remedy, Swamp-Root, cured my trouble, and I have since been perfectly well.

Yours truly,
B. M. Chalker, Ex-Chief of Police,
Ozark, Ala.

Lame back is only one symptom of kidney trouble—one of many. Other symptoms showing that you need Swamp-Root are, being obliged to pass water often during the day and to get up many times during the night, inability to hold your urine, smarting or irritation in passing, brick-dust or sediment in the urine, catarrh of the bladder, uric acid, constant headache, dizziness, poor digestion, sleeplessness, nervousness, irregular heart-beating, rheumatism, bloating, irritability, wornout feeling, lack of ambition, loss of flesh, sallow complexion.

If your water when allowed to remain undisturbed in a glass or bottle for twenty-four hours, forms a sediment or settling, or has a cloudy appearance, it is evidence that your kidneys and bladder need immediate attention.

In taking Swamp-Root you afford natural help to Nature, for Swamp-Root is the most perfect healer and gentle aid to the kidneys that is known to medical science.

In order to prove the wonderful merits of Swamp-Root you may have a sample bottle and a book of valuable information, both sent absolutely free by mail. The book contains many of the thousands upon thousands of testimonial letters received from men and women cured. The value and success of Swamp-Root is so well known that our readers are advised to send for a sample bottle. In sending your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure to say you read this generous offer in The Pittsburgh Daily Gazette. The genuineness of this offer is guaranteed.

If you are already convinced that Swamp-Root is what you need, you can purchase the regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles at drug stores everywhere. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

AWFUL PSORIASIS 35 YEARS

Terrible Scaly Humor in Patches All Over the Body—Skin Cracked and Bleeding—Itching Unbearable—Cured by Cuticura in Thirty Days at Cost of $4.75.

ANOTHER WONDERFUL CURE BY CUTICURA

"I was afflicted with psoriasis for thirty-five years. It was in patches all over my body. I used three cakes of Soap, six boxes Cuticura Ointment, and two bottles of Cuticura Resolvent. I bathed with the Soap, applied the Ointment once a day, and took the Resolvent as directed. In thirty days I was completely cured, and I think permanently, as it was about five years ago.

"The psoriasis first made its appearance in red spots, generally forming a circle, leaving in the center a spot about the size of a silver dollar of sound flesh. In a short time the affected circle would form a heavy dry scale of a white silvery appearance and would gradually drop off. To remove the entire scales by bathing or using oil to soften them the flesh would be perfectly raw, and a light discharge of bloody substance would come out. That scaly crust would form again in twenty-four hours. It was worse on my arms and limbs, although it was in spots all over my body, also on my scalp. If I let the scales remain too long without removing by bath or otherwise, the skin would crack and bleed. I suffered intense itching, worse at nights after getting warm in bed, or blood warm by exercise, when it would be almost unbearable.

"To sum it all up, I would not go through such another ordeal of affliction for thirty-five years for the State of Kansas. (signed) W. M. Chidester, Hutchinson, Kan., April 20, 1905."

CZAR'S SOLDIERS ARE GRUMBLING

Sedition Lurks in the Army in Manchuria and Demonstrations Are Frequent.

SOME SCANDALS REVEALED

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NAGASAKI, Oct. 31.—On account of the active military censorship after the ratification of the peace treaty when the Associated Press correspondents left the front, a statement for the press of the condition in Russian Manchuria and Eastern Siberia was impossible. There was general, and especially in the army, scathing vituperation and recrimination affecting all the highest personages in Russia, including the czar.

The newspapers were filled with discussions regarding the causes of the war and the motives by which it was inspired, and fixing the blame. There was general disgust at all government acts. The military appeared to be anxious to remain in the east indefinitely, most of the officers dreading to return to Russia on account of the terrors which recurring disorders there gave promise. The large number of Russians belonging to the progressive element who had settled in the east anticipated a new modern empire and were animated by a spirit of revolt.

Demonstration Against Czar.

The intelligence that anti-government demonstrations had successfully been repressed caused such an outbreak in the Irkutsk theater that the "Marseillaise" was sung, and there were shouts of "Down with the government;" "Down with the emperor."

The peasants and lowest classes were declaiming against religious practices of the state church, something hitherto unknown. The head of the Institute of oriental languages at Vladivostok was hooted, mobbed, spit upon and driven out by the students.

Owing to the severe strain on the railway caused by the concentration of Gen. Linevitch's army, the mobilization was relatively slow. Gens. Kaulbars and Batzanoff, commanders of the Second and Third armies, hurriedly quit the field after the treaty of peace was signed. Gen. Kuropatkin will be among the last of those leaving.

When the armistice was signed at Shahotzu it was revealed that a scandal in the management of the army on the Tumen river had been discovered, consisting of the forage of provisions, causing a famine, and also military malpractice, owing to which the Japanese refused to negotiate the armistice there even after their signal victory.

Some Industrial Activity.

Opposed to this gloomy aspect of affairs are the facts: First, that a new era of communication has been inaugurated by British engineers who have just completed a wireless telegraph system extending from the Liao river to the Tumen, and thence to the Amur, and the extension of the Amur railway; second, the expenditure of government money for constructing permanent barracks at Harbin, Vladivostok and Khabarovsk, and the building of railways; third, the opening of the northern part of the island of Sakhalin and the promised modification of the laws applying to commerce and industry.

The Russo-Chinese bank, which confronted serious diplomatic difficulties in reopening throughout the Japanese sphere of influence, is already in active operation.

SAYS INVESTIGATION WAS PROVIDENTIAL

Second Vice President Tarbell of the Equitable Life Assurance Company Addresses Number of Agents.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WHEELING, W. VA., Oct. 31.—Second Vice President Tarbell of the Equitable Life Assurance society of New York was the principal figure at a meeting of the agents of the society from all parts of West Virginia and Western Maryland. At a banquet given by the company to its agents, Mr. Tarbell was the speaker. Recent developments at New York and elsewhere, he said, would have a salutary effect upon the life insurance business. Every dollar of Equitable assets above 3½ per cent would be paid to the policy holders.

The assets belong to the policy holders and will not be diverted from them. Continuing, he said: "There were people in the Equitable who thought that people owning over $400,000,000 of its assets and were paying over $60,000 a year in premiums should have a voice in the control of the company, and they will have a voice.

"I believe it was almost providential that this movement was brought about. It is the best thing that ever happened for the Equitable Life Assurance society. Those men who have so far forgotten honesty as to use trust funds for their own private uses will be fired out of the company."

TAMMANY HALL SEES VICTORY FOR HEARST

Organization Asks Republican Support for McClellan to Save its Bacon.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Believing their greatest hope for success lies in their ability to get the support of Republicans, Tammany campaign managers today gave a new twist to their campaign.

Mayor McClellan's appeal for Republican aid on Monday night in the Manhattan Casino, and supplemented by personal letters to all his friends, will be followed by similar appeals from all the nominees. The result of this move, it is predicted, will be the making of many converts from the rank and file of the Republican party.

Tammany district leaders from sections of the city where Hearst sentiment is most strongly developed had long conferences with Murphy today. Although by no means satisfied with existing conditions, and not sure that the wave of "anti-machine" enthusiasm has begun to ebb, several of the leaders expressed confidence in their ability to deliver a good share of the regular Tammany vote. To hold it all was recognized long ago as a forlorn hope.

DEATH SEALS A MYSTERY.

Negro Who Died in Roosevelt Hospital Thought to Have Been Aged Man's Murderer.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Richard Hannibal, a negro, died at Roosevelt hospital today and, according to the police, circumstantial evidence connects him with the murder of Jacob H. Thompson, an editor on the New York Times, who was killed in his room in the St. James hotel several weeks ago.

Hannibal was a bellboy at the St. James. On October 2 his throat was cut in a quarrel with a negro woman and he was removed to the hospital. He had been under surveillance since the Thompson murder, but nothing developed to warrant his arrest.

NEW $40,000 LIBRARY FOR BETHANY COLLEGE

New Castle Architects Awarded Contract for an Elaborate and Modern Structure.

Contracts have just been let to C. C. & A. L. Thayer, architects of New Castle, for the erection of a $40,000 library for Bethany college, Bethany, W. Va. The plans for the new building were accepted by the board of trustees of which Congressman W. H. Graham of Allegheny is chairman. The Rev. Dr. T. E. Cramblett, formerly pastor of the East End Christian church of this city, is president of the college and a trustee as well.

The new library building will be known as the Carnegie library. Andrew Carnegie donated $20,000 toward the expense of the erection of the building on condition that the board of trustees raise a like sum. This money has been raised by subscription from graduates of the institution during the past six months. The building will be erected on the campus, near the main college building. It will be modern in every respect, and will contain a collection of books worthy of any college in the country.

Bethany college, which has many graduates in Pittsburgh and the vicinity, is in a more prosperous condition now than ever before, both as regards finance and attendance. At present 235 students are enrolled at the institution, and it is expected that this number will reach 300 before next July. The new library is in line with a number of improvements which have been made at the college recently, including a new gymnasium and an electric lighting and water power plant. The endowment fund is growing rapidly and an excellent faculty is in charge of the instruction of the students. The new dormitory recently erected has proved a great success. Most of the credit for the rapid improvement at the college is due to the Rev. T. E. Crumblett, who has worked indefatigably and with very beneficial results, since he took charge of the institution two years ago.

TEMPERANCE WORKERS HOLD STATE MEETING

CLARION, PA., Oct. 31.—(Special.)—The state convention of the W. C. T. U. held their first session this afternoon in the First Presbyterian church. Owing to the serious illness of a sister-in-law of Mrs. H. C. Campbell, the state president, the latter cannot be present. Mrs. Morris T. Wood of Doe Run, Chester county, is presiding. The treasurer's report was encouraging. At the meeting this evening there was a discussion by four ministers of Clarion, the Rev. William F. Fleming, the Rev. George Boddis, the Rev. S. H. Day and the Rev. John Bellentine, on total abstinence.

TWO COAL LAND DEALS.

Uniontown Men Sell Large Tracts of West Virginia Territory at Handsome Profit.

UNIONTOWN, PA., Oct. 31.—(Special.)—Two deals have been consummated by which Uniontown men have sold 8,000 acres of coal in the Batelle district in Monongalia county, W. Va., for $100 an acre. The Dawson tract of 8,200 acres was sold by 10 Uniontown men. The coal was taken up about five years ago at $11 and $12 an acre and the profit realized is almost three-quarters of a million dollars. The name of the purchaser has not been given out.

Another deal closed is for 700 acres adjoining the Dawson tract which was sold for $100 an acre by John T. Robinson, C. F. Kefover, the Graft Haggerty heirs, and C. J. McCormick of Uniontown. The same purchasers secured this tract.

RECOVER A TRUMPET AFTER MANY YEARS

OIL CITY, PA., Oct. 31.—(Special.)—After being missing for more than 30 years, a silver trumpet given as a trophy to the Hassen Hose company on the occasion of its team winning a race here, before a paid fire department was installed, was found yesterday in a Pittsburgh pawnshop. The trumpet disappeared immediately after the result of the race was announced July 4, 1875. It was redeemed and brought here today by ex-Mayor James Hassen. The persons in whose custody it has been since it was stolen are not known.

Cuts Her Throat With a Razor.

BELLEFONTAINE, O., Oct. 31.—(Special.)—Mrs. Joseph Heath, wife of a well-known merchant of Middleburg, cut her throat with a razor last night, after putting her children to bed. Her husband found her unconscious when he returned home. She will die. Despondency over ill health was the cause.

WILL BUILD TROLLEY LINES.

Plan to Connect Uniontown and Waynesburg Has Been Started.

UNIONTOWN, PA., Oct. 31.—(Special.)—Incident to the the plan for the construction of the Uniontown & Wheeling Short Line railroad is the announcement of an affiliated project to connect Uniontown and Waynesburg by trolley. The Uniontown & Waynesburg Street Railway Company has been formed. Its capital stock is $120,000, and it will have a 9-year charter. It is proposed to operate a trolley line 20 miles long.

Back of it are prominent local financiers who have subscribed for $90,000 worth of the stock. George L. Hibbs is president. It is presumed the company will enter a mutual arrangement with the West Penn Railways Company to connect with the latter's line at Leckrone, the starting point of the Fayette county end of the proposed line.

Is Through With Manual Labor.

CONNELLSVILLE, PA., Oct. 31.—(Special.)—Robert Matthews, a local window trimmer, received a message from Utica, N. Y., today, stating that he had been left an estate valued at $15,000, by his uncle, David Jones, who died in Utica September 20. Matthews dropped his work and said he was done with manual labor.

Shoots Twice at a Woman.

CHARLEROI, PA., Oct. 31.—(Special.)—This morning Dan Anderson, a negro, is said to have attempted to kill Mrs. Robert Mickey. Anderson shot twice, but both bullets went wild. Chief of Police Snow found Mr. Mickey lying on the floor unconscious from fright. It is thought Anderson left thinking he had killed her.

Nine Freight Cars Derailed.

FREEPORT, PA., Oct. 31.—(Special.)—Nine freight cars were derailed at the West Penn crossing at Kiskiminitas Junction this morning, tying up traffic on both the West Penn and Allegheny Valley railroads for several hours. No one was injured.

MAKE ONE ARREST IN THE MINE DISASTER INQUEST

Former Employe of the Hazel Kirk Mine Is Held at the Instigation of Coroner Sipe.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, PA., Oct. 31.—On a warrant issued by Coroner W. H. Sipe, William McGovern was arrested at Monongahela today, in connection with the explosion in the Hazel Kirk mine No. 2 on Sunday. He is being held as a witness at the coroner's inquest Thursday, owing to alleged important information in his possession.

Previous to the explosion in the mine on October 16 McGovern was employed in the mine. After the explosion he refused to enter the shaft, declaring he heard Mine Inspector Doutitt say the mine was unsafe and that he himself would not re-enter. It is stated because he refused to enter the mine he was discharged. The knowledge of the statement made by McGovern reached Coroner Sipe and he immediately issued a warrant for the arrest of the man as a witness.

When taken into custody the miner was about to leave the vicinity with his family. He was taken to the lockup and will be held there until the inquest.

TRIES HARD TO LEAVE OLD EARTH BEHIND

FINDLAY, O., Oct. 31.—(Special.)—Jacob Fisher, aged 60, an old soldier, attempted to commit suicide at Delphi this morning by placing the point of a knife against his stomach and driving it in with a wrench. Physicians think he may live. Fisher is evidently insane, as this is his third attempt within three weeks. Two weeks ago he attempted to butt his brains out against a freight car, and a week later stuck his head in a rain barrel.

FIREMEN THWART THE TRACTION LINE WORK

IRWIN, PA., Oct. 31.—An alarm of fire at 7 o'clock this morning brought the department to the borough line. On the township side 200 men were putting down ties. As the gang approached the line and placed a rail that projected a few feet into the borough the workmen were ordered to stop. Firemen with hose stood ready for the word but the workmen got into the township. A close watch is being kept so that operations will not be resumed.

Train Kills Young Mail Carrier.

WASHINGTON, PA., Oct. 31.—(Special.)—In an attempt to cross in front of an incoming train Roy Champ was instantly killed at the Houston station by the train on the Chartiers railway this evening. The victim, who was 17 years of age, carried the mail between the station and the postoffice.

Explosion Claims Four Victims.

BELLEFONTAINE, O., Oct. 31.—(Special.)—Mrs. William Rubel was burned to death, her son John fatally burned, and two daughters seriously hurt, by the explosion of a kettle of roofing pitch which was being heated on the kitchen stove at the Rubel farm.

CLAIM TWO RAILROADS WILL SOON BE JOINED

An Amalgamation Talked of Between the Pennsylvania and the Delaware and Hudson Companies.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

SCRANTON, PA., Oct. 31.—A report was current today to the effect that recent heavy purchases of coal lands in Schuylkill county were made by the Schuylkill Coal and I... Company for the Pennsylvania, and Delaware & Hudson railroad companies, which according to the story, are negotiating an amalgamation.

The explanation is made that the organization of the Schuylkill Coal and Iron Company, and the acquisition of the new coal lands is but the preliminary step to the amalgamation of the Pennsylvania and Delaware & Hudson company or the absorption of the latter by the former. It is well known that for many years the Pennsylvania road has been hampered by the large freight business between Pittsburgh and the other western points to the New England states, and Boston in particular.

A relief was sought in an arrangement with the Delaware & Hudson company by which a great portion of the New England business was transferred to the Delaware & Hudson company and taken to Mechanicsville, N. Y. Since the working arrangement was made with the Delaware & Hudson company the question of amalgamating the two companies has been frequently planned.

ENDOWS A COLLEGE.

Judge Paxson's Will Establishes a School of Agriculture.

DOYLESTOWN, PA., Oct. 31.—Judge Edward M. Paxson, who died at Pyeot, Bucks county, on October 12, left part of his fortune for the endowment of a college of agriculture. The college is to be opened to boys between 12 and 18 years of age and a regular course of study is to be arranged so that mental equipment as well as soil tilling experience will be given.

Judge Paxson's estate amounts to more than $3,000,000. The affairs of the institution are to be controlled by a board of trustees. It is said this board will consist of Dr. L. Webster, of Philadelphia; former Judge Harmon Yerks, Dr. Wm. Erdman and C. Howard Atkinson, of Bucks county.

DOG FIGHT LEADS TO A FATAL SHOOTING

HUNTINGTON, W. VA., Oct. 31.—(Special.)—Policeman John Tipton of Catlettsburg, Ky., attempted to separate two dogs fighting on the streets of that city this evening and kicked one of the canines which belonged to Jacob Crother, a well-to-do citizen. Crother instantly whipped out a pistol and opened fire on the officer, who, in return, fired three shots, shooting Crother to death. Tipton is one of the oldest policemen in the city.

Will Institute a Commandery.

BEAVER FALLS, PA., Oct. 31.—(Special.)—Preparations are being made for instituting Beaver Valley commandery No. 84, Knights Templar, at this place, Friday, November 3. This will be the first commandery in Beaver county.

WOMAN'S HEAD SPLIT OPEN WITH A PITCHFORK HANDLE

Farm Hand Commits a Brutal Crime. Mother Endeavors to Protect Her Child and Is Beaten Down.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

CORRY, PA., Oct. 31.—While endeavoring to protect her little boy from the unmerciful beating of David Duncan, a farm hand, Mrs. W. E. McClellan was so severely beaten that she will probably die. Mrs. McClellan lives on a farm 10 miles from here, and this afternoon she found the hired man beating her little boy. She rushed in to protect the boy, when the brute attacked her with a pitch fork. She was hit over the head with the handle of the implement and fell to the ground.

Her skull was split in two places, from the top of the head to the base of the brain. When members of the family found her she was nearly dead. Medical assistance was at once summoned but she is still unconscious, and it is not thought she can live.

Duncan escaped after committing his brutal crime, but a posse is on his trail, and it is not thought he will evade capture for a very long time.

WOMAN DISGUISED AS MAN.

Tramp Found in a Box Car Proves to Belong to the Gentler Sex—Travels Many Miles.

WILKES-BARRE, PA., Oct. 31.(Special.) Having traveled from Nevada disguised as a man Mrs. Margaret Jenkins was discovered in a box car of the Lehigh Valley railroad here this morning and was arrested. Her story was so pathetic that Magistrate Brown released her.

She said she and her husband left Scranton and went to Nevada eight years ago and that three months ago they separated and she was left alone without money or friends. Finding that her sex prevented her from getting work she resolved to beat her way east, obtained an old suit of her husband's and has been tramping and stealing rides eastward ever since.

SUSPENDED IN MIDAIR FOR OVER TWO HOURS

HARRISBURG, Oct. 31.—George Dustin, a workman at the Pennsylvania Steel Company works at Steelton, was caught in a wire by a cable 85 feet from the ground this morning and hung for two hours suspended in midair. When Dustin was rescued he was brought to the Harrisburg hospital, where his right arm was amputated at the shoulder. Part of his left hand was also amputated.

Will Arbitrate on First Suit.

NEW CASTLE, PA., Oct. 31.—(Special.)—Arbitration will be resorted to in settlement of the first damage suit growing out of the wreck of September 7 on the W. N. Y. & P. railroad near Wilmington Junction. Damages of $4,000 have been demanded for injuries suffered by George Sickelberger, a 16-year-old boy. The railroad company will choose one arbitrator, the defendant another and these will choose a third.

Half Hours of Pleasure

TEN minutes of music by the Russells who extract exquisite melody from strange instruments—ten minutes of wizard work by De Kota, whose Hoffmann-like feats stamp him as a master-magician—and ten minutes of "Aga," the mysterious young woman who floats in mid-air, unsupported and unsupported—this is the way we entertain you this week in our Auditorium on the Fourth Floor. Free to everybody. Performances every hour, beginning at 10 a. m.

KAUFMANN'S
"THE BIG STORE"

November Furniture Sale

600 PIECES of furniture that are both useful and ornamental, yet lack the qualities which makes articles desirable for gift purposes, must get off our floors and out of the store this month, so that music cabinets, corner tables, pedestals, inlaid parlor stands, women's workstands and other articles that have more of the Christmas spirit in their make-up will take their places. So prices are cut way down.

Men's Trousers.

Somehow it comes hard for most men to pay out money for extra pairs of pants. It seems like a tax. That's why we make the expense as little as possible. That's why we sell the same kind of trousers others mark $3, for $1.98. That's why our $5 line contains garments that are counterparts of $4.50 and $5 trousers elsewhere.

For Men Who Insist Upon The Very Best

MEN'S CLOTHING THAT MAKES A "TEN STRIKE"

SOME clothing has to be treated as tenderly as a bridal bouquet—has to be guarded against all sorts of pulls, tugs, strains and rough usage if you want it to keep its shape—has to be hung up in the wardrobe on rainy days if you want it to stay looking slick. Not so with the clothing we sell—it's made for rain as well as for shine—for business and strenuous sports as well as for the drawing room and club—made to meet every contingency that comes along.

$10 Suits and Overcoats

The kind of garments that tell of good taste linked with frugality. Good honest American woolens, woven for service—correct in colors according to this season's fads and fancies.

Shaped by expert tailors—not with the flat-iron.

Handsome cheviots, good tweeds and the various worsted weaves appear in the suits.

Fine coverts in olive, tan and black are the top-coat materials.

You'd expect to find a $12.50 price-mark on them.

$15 Suits and Overcoats

Tailors trained in the best custom shops have applied their skill to the shoulders, collars, lapels and other features of our suits and topcoats at $15.

The newest imported novelties find their counterparts in the color and effect of the woolens used in these garments.

Cloths, linings, trimmings, buttons, button-holes and all other features make them $20 garments in everything except price.

Fine Craventeed Raincoats in the newest effects at $15, too.

Finer and finer garments in the best woolens that come across the ocean, with every good point that the highest custom tailoring skill can impart, make our suits and overcoats at $30 and upward to $36 models worthy to grace the windows of the swellest custom shops.

TWO GAMES ON THE LOCAL CARD

Mt. Union to Play W. U. P. and East Liberty Will Tackle High School.

PRACTICE FOR COLLEGIANS

Two local football games are on the card for today: W. U. P. and Mt. Union at Exposition park and Pittsburgh High school and East Liberty academy at Friendship park. Mt. Union will be more of a practice opponent for W. U. P. East Liberty has a light team this year, but is fast and plucky, and is liable to give Pittsburgh a hard run.

W. U. P. will use substitutes today. It is thought the loose teamwork displayed at various times during W. U. P.'s recent games was in part due to the scarcity of good practice games, and the appearance of the Mt. Union team today is especially welcome on this account. Mt. Union has three valuable additions in Shields, Wieda and McDermitt, a fast trio averaging about 165 pounds, who will be played at end, tackle and fullback, respectively. Mt. Union hopes to keep W. U. P. on the run by superior speed. The local warriors were out for an hour's practice esterday, in spite of a pouring rain which made the grounds slippery and soggy. The practice period was spent in signal work. The teams will lineup as follows:

W. U. P.		Mt. Union.
Q. Banbury, Perry	L.E.	Shields
Wadhill, Miller	L.T.	Ross
McKinney, Sullivan	L.G.	Silver
Leidenroth, McKean	C.	Myers
Yielding, Marshall	R.G.	Cousor
Turner	R.T.	Wieda
Frye, East	R.E.	Kabo, Ashe
Swenson, Griggs	Q.B.	Kosht, Pratt, Shirg
Springer, Capwell,
Mebl	L.H.	Johns
Klawuhn, Schmidt	R.H.	Hoffman
Mackrell, Banbury	F.B.	McDermitt

Pittsburgh High school has had a long rest and expects to make a better showing this afternoon against East Liberty than it has made this year. All the cripples have recovered and are back in the game. The absence of Griffiths and Leff, the regular guards, will be keenly felt, but Frankle, Chalmers and Hazelett, although not as heavy as their predecessors, are putting up fast, snappy ball. The boys have had several practices against the W. U. P. team and are taking advantage of all they see and learn in these games, and they are putting more snap and dash into their work than they have shown any time this season. The team is fortunate in having two good quarterbacks in Watterson and Haggerty. They are working hard to get the place in the Shadyside game.

NEW WORLD'S RECORD.

Ed Bryan Trots Two Miles in 4:45, Beating Old Bexter's Mark.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—Ed. Bryan, the boy gelding trotter owned by William Robinson, in a trial against the Belmont park track record today, broke the world's two-mile record, which has stood for 30 years. The time was 4:45. The best previous record was 4:56¾, made by Dexter on Long Island, October 27, 1865. Today's performance was considered remarkable by horsemen who saw the event, as Dexter's time was to a skeleton wagon, while Ed Bryan's record was made to a bicycle-wheeled road wagon. The average time was 65½ seconds.

Ed Bryan was advertised to beat 5:14½, made at Belmont by Temple Hope, owned by L. N. Bostock of Trenton, N. J. After a warming up spin, Ed Bryan got away well. His first mile was made in 2:24½, and it was then thought that he would beat 5:14½, but none present expected to see the gelding pass the record held by Dexter. When the figures 4:45 went up there was a question whether the horse had broken the world's record, but the best figures to be found in any book of records were those made by Dexter. Ed Bryan finished strong and looked as though he could go another mile at the same clip. Three quarters—2:55½, 1:42, 1:49, 2:24½, 3:06, 3:36, 4:19, 4:45.

Goodman and Corbett Draw.

CHELSEA, MASS., Oct. 31.—Kid Goodman of Boston and Young Corbett of Denver went 15 rounds to a draw at the Douglas Athletic club tonight. The decision was not well received by the crowd, as Corbett, who was in poor condition, took the count twice in the 14th and 15th rounds. Goodman did all the leading after the third round. At the start the contest gave every appearance of being a hard-fought one, and for three rounds Goodman could make very little impression on his opponent, while Corbett drove in a number of hard blows. Corbett seemed to tire after the third round, his extra weight telling on him.

Big Fox Hunt Today.

RECTORTOWN, VA., Oct. 31.—The first meet of the Grafton-Middlesex hound trials, a notable contest between English and American kennels, will take place tomorrow at daybreak and the two weeks following will prove as interesting as friendly rivalry and hard riding across stiff country roads can make them. The hounds will meet at "Welbourne," the country seat of H. Hooter Dulany of Oakley and Washington, D. C., one of the keenest lovers of sport in Virginia.

Hans Wagner at the Ball.

The Exposition park employes, those who sold tickets during the baseball season, or made the turnstile click, will hold a ball tonight at Turner hall in Allegheny. Every baseball player in the team will be present, and Hans Wagner is slated to lead the grand march.

Dunne Must Produce Today.

BOSTON, Oct. 31.—Tomorrow it will be known whether or not Frank Dunne, of New York, will own the National league club of this city. He must produce $65,000, which his option calls for.

AMONG THE BOXERS.

Young Zirlinger, the 105-pounder of Jimmy Mason's string, will meet any one that desires a chance at the above weight.

Dad Monahan, of Millvale, is matched again with Eld Strahl, of Allegheny, for a six-round bout to take place at Kellner's hall Thursday evening.

Fighting Nelson is anxious to meet Young Britt. Jimmy McMannis, of Manchester, or Kid Achizan at a smoker Thursday night at Kellner's hall, Allegheny.

Joe Alton will likely meet Tommy Love at Youngstown in two weeks. The latter club wants to have them meet for 20 rounds. Alton is one of the best 122-pounders in this section.

Larry Temple is wanted at Boston to meet Sam Langford next Tuesday night before the New Douglas club. Jimmy Mason received the offer and accepted at once, although the time is not very long for his man to get in shape. Temple is training at the Business Men's club.

The gate receipts at the O'Brien-Kaufmann battle amounted to $6,419. The fighters got 60 per cent of this and the club 40 per cent. O'Brien got 60 per cent of the fighters' share and the loser what is left. This division gave the Philadelphian $2,320 and Kaufmann $1,641. The club's share was $2,458.

The National club of Philadelphia has offered Terry McGovern and Battling Nelson 80 per cent of the gate receipts in case the money taken in amounts to more than $8,000.

Tommy Ryan is now manager of Marvin Hart and is doing his best to arrange a match with Bob Fitzsimmons. He expects to fix up the deal by Friday.

AMONG THE KICKERS.

The Pequot first team has Saturdays November 11th and 18th, also Thanksgiving morning, open, for 75 pound teams. Address W. E. Gillespie, 207 Union Station, Pittsburgh.

The Franklin A Reserves are to report Thursday evening at the corner of Franklin and Manhattan street at 7 o'clock.

Bedford A. C. challenges all 85-pound teams. Address High Dover, 1822 Buford avenue, city.

The McKins A. C. defy all 85-pound teams. Address Leo Ivory, East Pittsburgh.

The Sterlings of Greensburg would like to hear from all 80-pound teams. Address Carl Porter, care Brunswick Pool Room, Greensburg, Pa.

The Coraopolis team will have the Allegheny Country club as an attraction for Saturday, November 11th. Eth and Election day are open. Write E. C. Harper, Coraopolis.

The Arms Reserves practice this evening. Any team in the 85-pound class, write William Hue, 926 Butler street.

BOWLING MEETING IS POSTPONED

National Executive Committee Will Not Meet Until Next Week or Later.

RULES OF THE COUNTY LEAGUE

The meeting of the executive committee of the American Bowling congress, scheduled for Chicago tomorrow, has been postponed until a later date. It developed that there were so many politicians on the committee, who have their hands full at present, that no quorum could be counted on. On this account the meeting was called off until after election day. President George Metzger, a member of the committee, was ready to start for Chicago tonight, but he was notified by Secretary Karff of the change of program. He felt a bit disappointed, as he wished the details of the Louisville tournament settled as soon as possible. However, he will attend the gathering, which he expects to be called for the latter part of next week or the beginning of the following week. Metzger had made all arrangements to leave for the Windy City when he received notice of the postponement.

The champion Gunther team, according to report, will visit Louisville this month to become familiar with the surroundings. Arrangements have been made for two matches, on November 11 and 12, with the Old Forester and Owens teams.

On the Wylie avenue alleys yesterday afternoon, in the Dispatch Duckpin league, the Oneidas scalped the Seminoles for all three games. Good scores were put up and Davis demonstrated that he was the big chief by making two 100 scores and the fine average of 99. Scores:

Oneidas—				Seminoles—
Davis	104	100	93	Jim. Whalen	87	71	67
Rankin	96	98	102	Joe Whalen	89	79	75
Flannery	78	85	73	Sanders	84	81	82
Scott	91	76	93	Means	81	82	85
Hunter	76	85	90	Duer	80	94	81
Totals	445	422	451	Totals	418	407	390

The Trolley league will open its season today at New Castle, the contesting teams being Niles and New Castle. Mayor Hafner will roll the first ball. Dan H. Miller is captain of the New Castle team and will not decide upon the makeup of his team before today.

The Imperials of Carrick accepted the challenge of the Allegheny Duck Pin league to bowl for $25 a side. They will bowl three games on the Federal alleys tonight and three on the Southern alleys either next Saturday or next Wednesday. Allegheny's forfeit has been put up at this office for some days and Carrick's money will be posted this week.

The Unity team of the Pittsburgh section of the Allegheny County league is composed of George Silber, captain; Sam Heimbuecher, Miles McGraith, Guy Griffith, Thadeus Koppelo, Clarke Devore, Austin Smith and Mr. Walker.

The revised rules of the Allegheny County Bowling league adopted at the annual meeting are herewith printed. It behooves all the bowlers to cut out the clipping, as it is the only source of information in this regard. The captain of each team in the three sections should pay particular attention toward keeping a copy of the rules. The rules are:

Rule 1. All teams must be in uniform and on the alleys ready to begin a championship match not later than 8:15 p. m. A bowler not in uniform shall be fined $1.

Rule 2. All matches must be rolled as per schedule unless prevented by an unavoidable accident, as provided for in rule 37 (A B C rules.)

Rule 3. All teams competing for the championship of Allegheny county must be on a strictly amateur basis. No person shall be eligible to bowl who receives money from any club for doing so. Should a bowler be found guilty of such an offense, on proof of same, the club rolling the guilty party shall forfeit all claim on the trophy and special prizes and games rolled by said club shall become null and void.

Rule 4.—In case of the postponement of a match, it can only be done by mutual agreement of the two captains, provided the secretary be immediately notified, and such postponed match must be rolled off no later than seven days from the scheduled date, unless otherwise ordered by the executive committee.

Rule 5. Any bowler in order to be entitled to special prizes offered by the league must have competed in at least two-thirds of the games scheduled.

Rule 6. Any person eligible to bowl in a championship match must be a bona-fide resident of Allegheny county for at least thirty (30) days, and a member of his club for at least ten (10) days.

Rule 7. Each alley shall furnish new pins for the opening games, these pins to be used for championship matches only, and must not be used in practice.

Rule 8. A bowler can be a member of one team only.

Rule 9. A player can get his release from his club by a two-thirds vote and can then join any other club and be eligible to bowl in ten days. In case the player has a grievance he can appeal to the executive committee, whose decision shall be final.

Rule 10. The captain of each team shall sign all his players and no player shall be entitled to bowl unless he has signed a contract, said contract to be filed with the secretary.

Rule 11. Each alley must have a scale and ring in order to weigh and measure the balls, the balls not to exceed 16 pounds in weight, nor 27 inches in circumference.

At Chicago on Monday night the season's record for high score was made, when the Lipmans rolled up 1,132 in their last game against the Blue Islands. Every man on the team went well in the game, Flenner getting 234, Lipman 216, Bangart 222, Simones 254 and Collier 206. The high mark gave the team an average of 1,606 for the three games, two of which were victories over the Blue Islands. Louis Semones of 500 fame was the star performer, with score of 243, 207 and 254, an average of 234 2-5.

Rapid progress is being made on the addition to the Federal alleys in Allegheny. In a short time the eight new alleys will be in working order, much to the delight of North Side bowlers.

Bowling Schedule Tonight.

Pittsburgh section—Carrick vs. Fon Dus on Wylie avenue alleys.

Allegheny section—Federal vs. Independents on Federal alleys.

Monongahela Valley section—Braddock vs. Colonial on Seng's alleys.

South Pittsburgh league—Birmingham vs. Senators on the Southern alleys.

Bankers' league—On club alleys.

Barbers' league—Langs vs. Sharp on the Wylie avenue alleys.

Liberty Valley league—Kenwood vs. Meadows on the Penn avenue alleys.

Amateur league—Y. M. I. vs. Boehlers on the Wylie avenue alleys.

PENN WILL PLAY LAMSON DESPITE HARVARD'S PROTEST

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—The faculty athletic committee of the University of Pennsylvania was to have held a meeting tonight to consider the protest entered by Harvard against O. F. Lamson playing on the Pennsylvania team in the game with Harvard, but owing to the lack of a quorum the committee did not officially consider the matter. A prominent member of the committee said that the sense of the committee is that Lamson is eligible to play and that Pennsylvania will have him in the game, notwithstanding Harvard's protest. Harvard also protested J. F. Zilligan, but as he is not a member of the varsity eleven his case will probably not be taken up.

Injured Playing Football.

POTTSVILLE, PA., Oct. 31.—(Special.)—While playing football in practice today Joseph Showers, aged 23 years, who was behind the line, went through in a mass play with the ball. The impetus which he had carried him against a stone wall. His head struck the wall with such force that he fractured his skull. He lies at the Pottsville hospital in a very serious condition.

RAFFERTY OF PITTSBURGH, GUARD AT PRINCETON

DORR IS CHOSEN MANAGER

Frank L. Dorr, of Indiana, Pa., has been elected manager of the Ohio Northern baseball team. McNeill, a Baltimore pitcher, is in the college and will coach the candidates. Sunny Price is captain, and he is to see that the outfit "gets up ginger."

Duncan Brown, right tackle on the Columbia eleven, had his collarbone broken in the Princeton game Saturday and played through the second half with the injury.

Trouble is threatened between the Bayen High school faculty and the football team. At the game in Warren Saturday, Quarterback Smith precipitated the trouble by refusing to accompany the team home in the evening. He was threatened with dismissal from the team, but refused to accompany the team. Now the other members of the team declare that if Smith is not allowed to play the, will strike.

W. M. Purves, left guard, has been elected captain of the Princeton freshman team.

Such a gathering of former Yale players as never was saw the game at West Point last Saturday. Among them were Rockwell, Oleott, Heffelinger, Glass, Goss, George Chadwick, Metcalfe, Phil Stillman, Bloomer, Ovsley, Chamberlain, Sanford, Hinkey and Rodgers. Other former stars who lookedon were Hillebrand of Princeton, Waters of Harvard and Boyers, Graves and Daly of West Point.

Eckersall, Chicago's sensational quarterback, never wears protection of any sort, appearing in every game without nose guard or head gear. His jersey is not even padded and the pads in his trousers are as light as they can be made—and give any protection at all. He wears the lightest football shoe that can be secured, and thus he is ready at all times to give the Maroons the benefit of his great speed. He seldom gets into a hard scrimmage, never being asked to carry the ball except in a trick play.

The Yale freshmen are putting up a plucky game and holding strong adversaries down in good style.

Dr. Inglis, a graduate of both W. and J. and Ohio Medical, has been agreed upon as one of the officials for Saturday's Medio-W. and J. game. Church of Princeton is likely to be the other one.

The McKeesport High school eleven will tackle the West Newton team this afternoon on the Steel Works grounds, McKeesport.

STAGG STARTS A MOVE FOR THE SOCKER GAME

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—Association football will be introduced as a college sport at the University of Chicago. Coach Alonzo Stagg started the movement today by asking the schools of philosophy and letters of the junior colleges to organize teams and also stated that he would supervise the work. It is the intention of Stagg to make the "socker" game a regular college sport, and when other institutions of learning have been induced to take up this style of football, to have intercollegiate games with each other.

The announcement of the new association game was made by Dean Vincent at a division meeting of the junior colleges and he said that if the sport proved popular, teams representing other departments of the university would be organized and that every means would be employed to popularize the sport. The association game is believed by many college authorities to be the real remedy for the features of the present style of college football which are found objectionable.

NEW CASTLE HIGH SCHOOL BEATS MERCER ACADEMY

NEW CASTLE, PA., Oct. 31.—(Special.)—The local High school defeated Mercer academy here this afternoon, 109 to 6, in a pouring rain. Fast play was impossible. The locals made their touchdowns in the first half—the first after three minutes' play by bucking the line for large gains. The second touchdown was made after seven minutes of play by G. Stoner, who got clear of the end and ran 75 yards. Mercer's touchdown was made with but three seconds to play in the last half. The officials gave them a goal without kicking, as several of New Castle's players had left the field. Overbeck and G. Stoner did good work for the locals. Lineup:

New Castle—11		Mercer Academy—6.
McConahy	L.E.	Hutcheson (McConnell)
McConnell	L.T.	Haynes
Horner	L.G.	Stewart
E. Stoner	C.	Robinson

Touchdowns—Harlen, G. Stoner, Williams. Goal from touchdown—J. McConnell. Referee—Logan of W. and J. Umpire—Lock of Westminster. Timekeepers—Agnew of New Castle and Zahniser of Mercer. Head linesman—Doyle of Mercer. Time of halves—15 minutes each.

Headquarters in New York.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—The American league headquarters will be in New York next season, as President Ban Johnson has decided to move east about the first of the year. He has practically selected the Flatiron building for a vantage point, only a few blocks away from the National league headquarters in the St. James building.

Frank Haller, the baseball manager, is requested to be at this office tonight at 8 o'clock.

LIVELY TIME IN COUNCIL.

West Homestead Legislators Have a Heated Debate Over a Street Improvement Measure.

West Homestead council had a lively meeting yesterday, at which the chief feature was a dispute over the ordinance for the grading and paving of Doyle street. Chairman Walter Terrill held that sufficient signatures did not appear. Councilman C. J. Mesta said he had collected the signatures and swore to the result. As the number of feet owned was not set opposite some of the signatures, the number of feet represented was carried by five to two but the chairman refused to declare the ordinance passed. His decision was appealed from and council refused to sustain him.

A mistake of three feet at the intersection of the grades of Tenth avenue and Sarah street was found in the grading, and a warm fight occurred as to whether Sarah should be lowered or Tenth raised, finally being decided by the lowering of Sarah street.

Burgess C. A. Sweadner was instructed to turn over the issue of $70,000 borough bonds to J. F. Erbeck as soon as he is ready to pay for them.

BRIDGES LEAVES FOR WASH.-JEFF.

Allegheny's Star Football Player Induced to Desert—Meadville Students Indignant.

FROM THE OTHER COLLEGES

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

MEADVILLE, PA., Oct. 31.—Considerable indignation is expressed here over the action of Wash.-Jeff. in inducing Bridges, one of Allegheny's best men, to leave school here and enter that institution. Wash.-Jeff. had made Bridges an offer some time ago, but for the time being he turned it down, and the matter was considered settled. Then on Sunday James of W. and J. came here and after a lengthy talk with Bridges and another man whom he also wanted, induced Bridges to accompany him back to Washington. The other man, however, refused to go, and instead notified the athletic committee, and by train time the platform was crowded with indignant students.

Both the manager of the football team and a representative of the athletic committee talked with Bridges, but were unable to alter his course, as he stated the inducements could not be turned down.

While the Allegheny team will feel Bridge's loss keenly, the men are not disheartened, but on the contrary expect to win rather easily from Geneva tomorrow. It is likely Capt. McSwinton will play Bridge's position and Brown will be played at guard.

Princeton.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 31.—(Special.)—The squad straggled onto the field today, all feeling good in the cold weather, and they put into their play a most encouraging amount of snap. The scrimmage was light and tended to a great deal of kicking and many runs. The varsity went through the scrub for fast gains whenever they had the ball, and the work was very aggressive and spirited. On the defense the playing was encouraging. The trouble is that it won't stay so, and the defense has not reached a point this year where it can be depended on for consistent results. Before the regular scrimmage the unusual amount of time that has been given to preliminary playing of late was largely taken up by kicking back and forth, and though the punting was very good, there was a tendency to fumbling that later was unpleasantly conspicuous throughout the scrimmage. The centers came in for some attention from Bill Edwards in snapping back the ball for long distances, and the inaccuracy of the results seem to warrant a good deal of attention.

Trainer Jim Robinson returned today and his short rest has quite restored him to good health. He will resume his duties tomorrow.

State.

STATE COLLEGE, PA., Oct. 31.—(Special.)—The varsity squad is being worked unusually hard this week in preparation for the annual struggle with the Navy at Annapolis this coming Saturday. Coaches Golden and Scholl are toiling incessantly to have "Old State" eleven in prime fettle for this important contest, since State men are very anxious to retrieve their defeat by the Midshipmen last year. All of the varsity men are in the game, and in good condition, but several new offensive formations are being tried by the coaches, and varsity subs, Leonard, Shaw, Cyphers, McWilliams, Henry, Leathers and Zink are giving the regulars a good hustle for positions. The form displayed in the Villa Nova game was very pleasing, and Captain Moore of the visitors expressed his opinion as follows:

"State's offense is decidely the strongest we have been up against this season, although not so brilliant as that of the Carlisle Indians. But in comparison with swattmore, I regard State's team as superior in every respect, especially with regards to speed, and the former's victory over Annapolis makes a State victory look sure next Saturday."

U. of P.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—(Special.)—Behind closed gates the varsity boys were given some hard practice in offensive and defensive work. In the former the team has come up to the required standard, but in the latter they put up a miserable article. The varsity team was lined up against the "scrubs." Pierkarski was again in the field and paid especial attention to Hobson, the big guard, who was playing with the "scrubs." Hobson opened up big holes through Robinson and shows steady improvement, after 20 minutes of scrimmaging the varsity put their new formation into play and steadily pushed the "scrubs" down the field. Sheble and Burns making most of the gains. Coach Williams was entirely satisfied with this exhibition. He believes in offensive work. His team is ready for Harvard. Earnest efforts will now be made to strengthen the defense, which is lamentably weak—so weak in fact that the "scrubs" had little difficulty in scoring.

Yale.

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Oct. 31.—(Special.)—William T. Bull, famous fullback on Yale elevens 15 years or more ago, came here today to take charge of putting the finishing touches on the men who will do the punting and drop-kicking for Yale in the coming games. He spent much effort on Roome and Veeder in punting and on Jones and Hutchinson in drop-kicking, particularly at the 35-yard line distance. In the secret practice a short but brisk scrimmage was held. Especial attention was paid to defense by the varsity line. "Get the jump on 'em," "get lower and faster," rang out the coaches' instructions. The same style of work was done in the shorter open half. The varsity scored one touchdown, Roome making it. Aside from working the new plays into perfection and developing a better defense the coaches seem to have little worry about the team this week.

Cornell.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 31.—(Special.)—A break in the excellent weather the Cornell football men have enjoyed for practice came today with a steady rain that greatly interfered with the work because of the slipperyness of the field. Costello, Halliday, Thompson and Rice did not report for practice and the remainder of the squad indulged only in signal practice.

FORMER STARS TO HELP IN COACHING

Humbard to Aid Shadyside in Preparation for Championship Game With Kiski.

PLANNING SOME SURPRISES

For the first time in many years Shadyside academy has sent out a call for football aid. Yesterday letters were sent to former Shadyside stars who played on college teams, to help get the team ready for the game with Kiski, next Tuesday. One of the former players who is expected to report today to assist in the coaching is Jim Hubbard, an end, who captained the Andover team two years ago. Humbard played end on the team the year it beat W. U. P. 6 to 0.

Coaches Young and Shetter had the players on the field working yesterday afternoon. Special attention was paid to Bobst, the quarterback. He was made to practice catching punts. In Saturday's game he allowed the Cleveland fullback to get two over his head. Kunler, the Kiski tackle and captain, is a fine punter, and the coaches do not want him to show his fine art at Shadyside's expense next Tuesday.

Shadyside will spring some new plays on Kiski, too. The coaches yesterday declared Kiski will have the advantage in weight, but the fast plays will offset this disadvantage.

EXCITING SPORT IN THE TRI-STATE FOX HUNT

CANAL DOVER, O., Oct. 31.—(Special.)—No less than one hundred men and nearly as many hounds participated in the first day's sport in connection with the fourth annual meeting of the "Tri-State" Fox Hunters' association of Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia. The chase was commenced at a late hour this morning, the unfavorable weather not permitting the hunters to commence the sport at the usual early hour. The scene of the chase this morning was along the east bank of the Tuscarawas river, and one fox was followed for several minutes. The animal was chased under a rock at which point the hunters gave up pursuit, not making an effort to effect a capture. During the afternoon, the hounds were conducted to the west bank of the river, where, in two hours' hunting, two foxes were seen and pursued.

After covering over a 100 acres of territory in following the animals, the men gave up the chase as the wet grounds would not permit of the dogs following the trail close enough to keep in close pursuit. With favorable weather tomorrow and during the remainder of the week, it is expected that some interesting and exciting sport will be furnished. More hunters and hounds are arriving on every train and visitors by the hundreds are flocking to the village to witness the sport and to take part in the social functions which are held every evening.

Dunn Will Meet Murphy.

SHARON, PA., Oct. 31.—(Special.)—The Nonpareil Athletic club management today matched Tommy Murphy, of New York, and Jimmy Dunn, of New Castle, for a 12-round contest, to take place next Monday night. Articles have been forwarded and forfeits will be posted at once. Young Erns, of Philadelphia, who was to meet Dunn refused to make weight at the ringside and the bout was declared off.

Temple's Condition Is Hopeful.

CHICAGO Oct. 31.—(Special.)—W. C. Temple, of Pittsburgh, is very ill at the Auditorium hotel. He was taken with an attack of pneumonia when he came to Chicago a week ago. His condition is more hopeful today and Dr. Hammond pronounced him slightly better tonight.

Golf Notes.

Oakmont Country club will play Pittsburgh Field club today on the latter's course and it will be the last match of the season in the Western Pennsylvania Golf association series.

The mixed foursome at the Oakmont Country club were postponed from yesterday to Friday. Ten pairs are entered. C. H. Fownes offers the cup for the lady who wins, and Miss Mary Fownes the one for the gentleman. Mrs. Louis Brown offers a cup for women on Saturday. The men will play for points on the Durbin Horne cup.

Tomorrow, Friday and Saturday there will be mixed foursomes at the Pittsburgh Field club for a cup offered by George Macpherson. The competition is at medal play. Miss Grace Murray offers a cup for next week.

Halliday is still on the resting list to prevent staleness. Cook was out for a short time, but was not allowed to do much aside from taking several jog trots around the gridiron. He is rapidly recovering from the soreness in his knees and it is thought will be able to get back into hard work next week to be ready for the Princeton game.

Harvard.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., Oct. 31.—(Special.)—With Captain Dan Hurley, Squires, Nate Hall and Bob Childs, figuring in the lineup this afternoon, Harvard's stock took a big boom, and the playing was the most spirited of the season and the coaches were delighted with the showing made by the four members of the "hospital squad."

It was the second appearance of Captain Hurley in scrimmage work this fall, and his presence inspired the other men to get down to business early and go the limit in the battle for honors aginst the second. Hurley lost none of his old-time aggressiveness and his line plunges and end runs were as hard as ever. It is thet intention of Coach Reid to get his regular varsity in against the Indians Saturday with the possible exception of center and fullback. Both positions are open to the entire college as yet and they will not be definitely filled before next week at the earliest.

The athletic committee tonight refused to discuss the protesting of Lamson and Zilligan of Pennsylvania and they would neither affirm or deny the same.

CHANGES MADE IN CANAL MANAGERS

Col. Edwards Is No Longer Chief of Administration—Shonts Deals Direct With Taft.

ONE OFFICE IS ABOLISHED

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The members of the isthmian canal commission had a meeting at the residence of Chairman Shonts last evening and decided upon important changes in the administration office of the canal. The office held by Col. Clarence R. Edwards, chief of administration, was abolished to take effect November 15. It was stated at the office of the commission today that Col. Edwards, before leaving for the isthmus with Secretary Taft, resigned; that his resignation and the abolition of the office was to be announced from Panama by the secretary; that the work of Col. Edwards in organizing the office had been satisfactorily completed, and that his services were no longer necessary. W. Leon Pepperman, who was assistant chief of administration, retains his present position; Joseph W. Bishop, who was appointed executive secretary of the commission some time ago, has been made secretary.

Organized the Canal Work.

Col. Edwards has been for several years chief of the insular bureau of the war department which handled all of the business of the Philippines and of Cuba while the latter was under the control of the war department. When the isthmian commission was placed under the war department the insular bureau was used for the organization of the administration business of the canal. Col. Edwards was made chief of administration and in reality performed the duties of chief clerk in the organization of the working force of the commission. Many of the best men in the insular bureau were transferred to the isthmian commission, including Mr. Pepperman, who was assistant to Col. Edwards in the insular bureau.

Reports of friction in the administration of the canal have been current and denied for some time past and there have been intimations that Col. Edwards' position and prominence in canal matters was one of the causes of disagreement. But it was believed, in view of the fact that Col. Edwards accompanied Secretary Taft to Panama, that his services and position were entirely satisfactory to the secretary. When he left Washington it was supposed Col. Edwards accompanied the secretary in his capacity as an official of the Panama commission to render such aid and assistance as he possessed during the investigating of conditions on the isthmus.

Will Deal Directly With Taft.

Heretofore the canal work has been largely communicated through Col. Edwards and his office to the secretary. Under the new arrangements Chairman Shonts will deal directly with the secretary and there will be no connection between the insular bureau of the war department and the canal. While nothing is announced as to the future duty of Col. Edwards, it has been rumored that he may be assigned to important duty in the Philippines, if he does not continue as chief of the insular bureau.

The meeting of the full board of consulting engineers of the isthmian canal commission adjourned this afternoon until next Friday morning, when it will hear John F. Wallace, the former chief engineer of the isthmian canal commission, who will appear to answer any question put by members desiring special information. The sub-committee on the sea level canal project, consisting of three members, with Gen. Davis as chairman, today submitted its report, but the report of the sub-committee on the lock canal is not expected to be ready before next Tuesday. Pending the consideration of the reports of these committees, it will be impossible to indicate what decision the board will reach.

WANTS DAMAGES FROM ESTATE OF SUICIDE

Los Angeles Boarding House Keeper Claims That Crime Ruined Her Business.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

SIOUX CITY, IA., Oct. 31.—Because a murder and a suicide committed in her boarding house spoiled her business, Miss Alice Slaughter of Los Angeles, Cal., today began a suit in the district court against the estate of Albert J. Bolke for $5,000 damages.

In January, 1903, the Bolke tragedy took place in the "best room in the house," Bolke shooting and killing his wife and then taking his own life. Miss Slaughter was awakened during the night by the sound of gunshots and her health was greatly impaired by the resulting fright. The newspapers printed the news of the tragedy under sensational headlines, and as a result her house was given some undesirable advertising. The notoriety drove away business.

The Bolke family lived in Sioux City. They were wealthy, their estate now being valued at about $100,000. It is thought Bolke was insane at the time of the tragedy.

OPPOSE NEW RATE BILL.

Southern Operators Say Esche-Townsend Act Would Shut Down Their Mines.

KNOXVILLE, TENN., Oct. 31.—Owners and operators of every coal mine in Tennessee have been invited to participate in a conference in Knoxville, November 14, to take action on the Esche-Townsend railroad rate bill. On the previous day the mine men of Kentucky will hold a similar conference at Louisville.

Hywel Davies, who sent out the local invitations, claims that if the bill becomes a law the mine operators must depend on their states alone for their markets, and as the states have not enough industries to consume the output, there would necessarily be a reduction in forces.

ELECT OLD OFFICERS.

National W. C. T. U. Women at Los Angeles Select Same Leaders for Next Year.

LOS ANGELES, CAL., Oct. 31.—The National Women's Christian Temperance union, in annual convention in this city today, re-elected all the officers of the organization now serving as executive heads.

For president Mrs. Lillian M. N. Stevens of Maine received 427 out of 475 ballots cast, and her election subsequently made unanimous. Miss Anna Gordon of Boston was chosen vice president without opposition.

Collision on Panama Railroad.

COLON, Oct. 31.—A collision occurred yesterday between canal work trains near Bas Obispo, in which many cars were wrecked. Conductor Dunlap, an American, was killed, and the engineer, a fireman and several others were badly injured. The collision took place on the main line of the Panama railroad.

Former Governor McGill Dies.

ST. PAUL, MINN., Oct. 31.—Former Governor Andrew R. McGill, aged 67, died today at his home here of heart disease. Mr. McGill was insurance commissioner from 1875 to 1879, when he was elected governor. He held the dual office of postmaster and state senator at the time of his death.

All the Injured Will Recover.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 31.—All of the persons hurt yesterday in the wreck of the California limited on the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railway, near Kansas City, will recover. Some were able to leave the hospital here today.

TAMMANY HALL FLAUNTS RED FLAG AND STARTS RIOT

Hearst People Dislike the Inference and Crowd Quickly Gathers Which Threatens Trouble. Angry Public Ownership Men Charge Hall.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—A red flag, labeled anarchy, and marked with the name of William R. Hearst, was hung across Park row, near Franklin's statue, by Tammany Hall today.

It was the cause of a political demonstration that approached dangerously near being a riot. Fully 2,000 people were attracted to the foot of the statue to listen to speeches made in favor of Hearst, and, headed by an unknown leader, the mob finally charged on the City hall and jeered and cheered from the steps of the building and in the park.

Cheers for Hearst were given. Cool heads prevailed, the police refused to make wholesale arrests, and no attempt was made to drive the mob away until they had worn themselves out with cheering and jeering.

All the epigrams, slang and campaign charges that have been in use for the last two or three weeks were brought into play.

One arrest was made and that was of William Houston, aged 37, a blacksmith in the United States navy yard in Brooklyn, and who lives at 64 West One Hundred and First street.

He, with many others, was in front of the statue of Franklin listening to speeches being made by some workingmen who had assembled to protest at the banner. This banner, which extends all the way across the street, has on it the American flag and a red flag of anarchy, with the names of both McClellan and Hearst printed under them, and below the words:

"Under which flag do you vote?"

JEROME CANNOT GET ON REPUBLICAN BALLOT

Justice Stover Refuses Mandamus to Compel Election Board to Place Him on Ticket.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Justice Stover, in the New York state supreme court, today denied an application by William Halpin, chairman of the Republican county committee, for a mandamus to compel the board of electors to place the name of William T. Jerome in the Republican column of the official ballot as a candidate for district attorney.

As soon as the decision was announced Chairman Gilbert of the Republican county committee's laws committee announced he had made arrangements for a reargument of the case tomorrow before the appellate division. Justice Stover in his opinion says:

"It was not the intention of the law conferring jurisdiction upon the courts to determine questions arising under the act to relieve the board of elections of its duties and permit the court to act as though originally acting as a board, but the conferring of jurisdiction to proceed in a summary manner was intended to prevent fraud or injury by reason of mistakes or omissions upon the part of the board."

Justice Stover reviews the provisions of the statute with regard to nominations and says that in the case under consideration no declinations had been made by the candidate under the provisions of the statute, but it was attempted by a reconvening of the convention and the presentation of a declination to it to obviate the neglect to file the certificate under the statute so that the convention might nominate to fill the vacancy which could not be effectually accomplished.

JEROME SAYS PROSECUTIONS WILL FOLLOW INVESTIGATION

Satisfied Crime Has Been Committed in Insurance Business and Guilty Must Suffer.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Further promises to prosecute persons shown to be guilty of crimes by the revelations in life insurance affairs now being made by the New York legislative investigating committee were made today by District Attorney William T. Jerome. The promises were made in reply to the construction which his rival for office, James W. Osborne, put upon Mr. Jerome's recent statement that if re-elected he would employ Charles E. Hughes, now counsel for the investigating committee, to conduct the prosecution of insurance offenders.

Mr. Osborne asked Mr. Jerome if he wanted to use Mr. Hughes in order to shirk the conduct of these prosecutions himself. Mr. Jerome said in reply today: "I have felt all along in regard to these insurance matters that crimes had been committed and that the persons guilty of these crimes must be prosecuted, and it is my intention, as I have said on several occasions, to prosecute to the bitter end every person connected with these insurance matters against whom it is possible to obtain evidence showing the commission of a criminal offense."

Crushed by Fall of Stone.

WHEELING, W. VA., Oct. 31.—Sylvester Kendall was killed by a fall of stone in the Johnson coal mine at Bellaire this morning. An immense lot of stone fell upon him while he was working, and crushed him, breaking bones and crushing in his ribs, and he died about an hour and a half afterward. Kendall was 72 years of age and is survived by his widow and seven children.

Kanawha River Is Now Free.

PARKERSBURG, W. VA., Oct. 31.—(Special.)—The Little Kanawha river, which has been controlled for 40 years by a corporation that exacted toll on all passengers and freight, was tonight turned over to the United States under the terms of a purchase recently made, and from this time will be a free river. New locks and dams will be built to improve navigation.

Find Body at Bottom of Cliff.

PARKERSBURG, W. VA., Oct. 31.—(Special.)—The body of Miss Laura Garmen, of Pursley, was found at the foot of a cliff near her home today. She had been missing a week. It is believed she was at the top of the cliff, knocking apples from a tree, when she lost her balance and fell 30 feet to her death.

MR. DARLING RETIRES FROM NAVY DEPARTMENT

Truman H. Newberry of Detroit Will Become Assistant Secretary Today.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Charles H. Darling retired today from the office of assistant secretary of the navy, which post he has held since December 16, 1901. He will be succeeded by Truman H. Newberry of Detroit, Mich., who will take the oath of office tomorrow. Mr. Darling has served under four secretaries—Messrs. Long, Moody, Morton and Bonaparte. He served a great share of his term as acting secretary of the navy, and while at the head of the department successfully handled a great many delicate questions. Being a lawyer, a great many matters were referred to Mr. Darling, which had not before pertained to the duties of assistant secretary.

As acting secretary of the navy, Mr. Darling arranged in August, 1902, for the protection of American interests during the revolution in Venezuela and ordered an American squadron to Honduras in March, 1903, to protect American interests during a disturbed situation there. As acting secretary he ordered the Baltimore and other vessels to Puerta Plata, Santo Domingo, in 1903, to care for American interests during a revolution. Mr. Darling was acting secretary of the navy at the time of the revolt of the Panamans against the Colombian government when after conferences with the President and the Late Secretary Hay he ordered the cruiser Boston to Panama.

President Roosevelt, in accepting the resignation of Mr. Darling as assistant secretary of the navy, said he was unwilling to have him leave the public service and announced his intention to appoint him collector of customs at the port of Burlington, Vt., upon his retirement from the navy department. Mr. Darling will leave Washington tomorrow and go to his home in Vermont to rest before entering his new office.

SHYLOCKS ARE DISCHARGED.

Clerks in Pension Bureau Are Dismissed for Lending Money at Usurious Rates of Interest.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Secretary Hitchcock today ordered the dismissal from service of four clerks in the pension bureau, accused of loaning money at usurious rates of interest. The action was taken upon the recommendation of Pension Commissioner Warner, who charged that these clerks not only charged very high rates of interest, but conducted the business during office hours.

He made written statements in all the cases, detailing the facts in each. The clerks who lose their places are: George H. Getz, George S. Livingston and Joshua R. Hayes, all receiving salaries of $1,800 each, and George R. Marble, whose salary was $1,400.

Rumor of a New Furnace.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Oct. 31.—(Special.)—A. W. Thompson, late president of the Republic Iron and Steel Company, will, it is said, be at the head of a company that will erect a new modern furnace in this valley. Interested with him are prominent capitalists of the city.

SCULPTOR ST. GAUDENS LOCATES MAGEE MEMORIAL

Tribute to Pittsburgh's Great Man Will Be Erected Near Entrance to Schenley Park Opposite West Doors of Library.

Augustus St. Gaudens, the distinguished sculptor, spent yesterday in Pittsburgh in connection with the fountain which is to be erected as a memorial to the late Christopher L. Magee. Before he left the city he had closed his contract with the Magee memorial committee. At 10 o'clock last evening he started back east to complete the task to which he has set two years for its completion. His work is done at Windsor, Vt.

According to present plans the memorial will be in the form of a fountain, bearing either a bust or medallion of Mr. Magee, while there will rise from the massive stone base an allegorical figure, probably that of Charity. About $30,000 was raised by popular subscription immediately after Mr. Magee's death in the early part of 1901 for the memorial.

John W. Beatty, director of fine arts of the Carnegie institute, met the sculptor who came on a morning train from New York. Accompanied by Chairman Robert Pitcairn, of the Magee memorial committee, W. N. Frew, Director E. M. Bigelow and Mr. Beatty, the sculptor went to Schenley park and a site for the monument was chosen. It is near the entrance to the park from Forbes street, and stands opposite the west entrance to the Carnegie institute. It will face towards the library and not towards Forbes street. It will be east of the hollow.

The sculptor and the entire committee were the guests of James I. Buchanan at lunch at the Duquesne club, and there the whole matter was discussed for several hours. The upshot was the making of the contract with the sculptor for the erection of the monument. Mr. St. Gaudens was the guest of Director Beatty at dinner in the evening.

The enlarged Carnegie institute made a great impression upon the sculptor. He was surprised at the magnificent extent of the structure. He expressed himself as holding the annual art exhibition of the Carnegie institute above anything of the kind in America in quality and as equal to the average of the same kind of exhibitions in Europe.

CITY LEADERS TALK OF RIOTS

Promise Police Support in All Trouble They Create in Philadelphia Election.

A WARNING TO "REPEATERS"

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau,
Press Building,
PHILADELPHIA, PA., Oct. 31.

"You must terrorize them by an uprising. Go ahead and I will give you the protection of the police."

This was the advice Police Director Potter gave in a speech last night. He referred to election officers whom he desires intimidated in the interest of reform. While Director Potter has been the most inflammatory orator in the present campaign, it was not until last night that he reached his climax in the advocacy of mob law, coupling it with police protection. The head of the Republican organization of Philadelphia today said:

"Director Potter is not talking at random. He means exactly what he says. If riots are necessary to defeat the Republican ticket, and Potter thinks they are, he will encourage them. The election day program of the "reformers" is known to the Republican leaders. Not only does it provide for an attempt to intimidate election officers by a show of police strength and police interference, but it also provides for the arrest of Republican ward leaders either the day before or the morning of election.

"In order to block it the Republican leaders will arrange for a supply of habeas corpus writs which will be available the instant they are required. Then we will have an automobile service which will provide a fully manned machine at every polling place. As soon as an election officer or ward leader is arrested our men in their automobile will follow until they learn where he is locked up, and immediately procure his release on a writ of habeas corpus."

Robert McAfee, secretary of the commonwealth, called on Senator Penrose today. Mr. McAfee declined to be quoted on the political situation.

An exhaustive canvass of public sentiment indicated that the filtration report made by Gillette and Machennan has not had the desired effect. Mayor Weaver and Judge Gordon hoped it would injure the Republican candidates. Most people regard it as a political card and those who believe it contains some color of truth say that the Republican candidates are not responsible for the acts of contractors who also happen to be Republicans. Then many eminent engineers differ with the official experts and the resultant controversy has clouded the alleged accuracy of the graft charges made.

Chairman Edmonds of the City party today decided to insert in New York, Baltimore, Washington, Chicago and New Jersey newspapers a display advertisement warning "repeaters" to remain away from Philadelphia on election day. None are expected, but as this "reform campaign" is solely a newspaper affair, it is thought proper to share some of the "swag" with out-of-town newspapers which are expected to print friendly editorials for reproduction here.

CHESTER D. POTTER.

NEW MUSIC HALL RULES.

Pointers for Patrons Which Are Made Necessary by Alterations in the Big Institute.

The alterations being made to the Forbes street front of the Carnegie institute, by which the carriage drive to the front of the Music hall is obliterated, makes new arrangements necessary for the protection of patrons of the hall. The management will have the co-operation of the Pittsburgh Railways Company and of the police in carrying out the new rules, which all are asked to observe:

Owners of carriages in particular will facilitate the movement of audiences both in and out of the hall, if they instruct their drivers to obey the carriage rules explicity: Before concerts carriages will approach the hall from Forbes street east, and Bellefield avenue; awaiting the close of concerts carriages will be called from Forbes street east toward Dithridge and Craig streets, and on Bellefield avenue, and when called will make a single line next to the south curb of Forbes street.

Street cars, both before and after the concerts, will not stop opposite the hall but at a point directly in front of the temporary art gallery. Concert patrons taking street cars or coming on foot, will approach the hall directly from Schenley park entrance.

On leaving the hall carriage parties will please keep to the right through the covered way which leads directly to the Forbes street curb where their carriages will be called. Those intending to take street cars on leaving the hall will please keep to the left through the covered way.

These rules will be in effect Founder's day afternoon and through the season. Carriages will not under this arrangement be allowed to wait as formerly in the Schenley park entrance.

ABEEL MUST SERVE TIME.

Impersonates a Millionaire, Woos and Wins Young Woman, and Now Goes to Reformatory.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(Special.)—James N. Abeel, the young southerner who was arrested in February for masquerading as J. Ogden Goelet, under which name he wooed Miss Eleanor Anderson, stenographer at the Grand hotel, was today committed to the Tombs by Judge McMahon in general sessions.

The court of appeals two weeks ago confirmed the conviction of Abeel, who was in Texas, and he was notified to come to this city to surrender himself. He will now be taken to the Elmira reformatory to serve the sentence imposed by Recorder Goff.

ODDS GROW ON JEROME.

Plenty of Bets Placed on Hearst, but McClellan Gets the Big End of Them.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(Special.)—Odds in Jerome's favor in the Wall street betting ring continued to soar today. They opened at 10 to 7 and reached 10 to 6, with one small lot of money offered in the afternoon at odds of 10 to 5½.

The odds on McClellan during the forenoon were unchanged at 2½ to 1, and odds of 1 to 3 continued to be offered that Hearst would win. While large amounts of money were offering on both propositions the number of bets closed were not numerous.

STEEL COMPANY ISSUES BUDGET

Declares Dividend on Preferred Stock and Announces Appropriations.

REPORT SHOWS PROSPERITY

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The directors of the United States Steel Corporation today declared a regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent on the preferred stock, payable November 30. No dividend was declared on the common stock.

The net earnings for the quarter ended September 30 were $31,240,582, an increase of $12,496,650 as compared with the same quarter last year. Unfilled orders on hand September 30 aggregated 5,855,377 tons, an increase of 2,837,941 tons as compared with September 30, 1904.

Appropriations for sinking funds on bonds of subsidary companies and depreciation and reserve for the quarter amount to $7,326,088 against $4,218,200 in the same quarter last year. This year's quarter includes an item of $1,232,172, charged to "Specific depreciation and improvement fund."

There is also "for contemplated appropriations and expenditures," the sum of $2,500,000, which reduces the balance of surplus for the quarter to $4,172,613, as against $1,312,988 for the corresponding quarter of 1904.

The amount of unfilled orders on hand breaks the previous records of 5,697,690 tons, scored in the first quarter of the current year.

A steel authority had the following to say on the prospects of the United States Steel Corporation for the fourth quarter of the current year:

"In estimating the possible earnings of the United States Steel Corporation in the last quarter of the year, it must be taken into consideration that all the departments will be operated to the utmost of their respective capacities. In July and August the sheet steel, tin plate and wire mills were not running full. Then again deliveries in the last quarter of the year will represent higher prices in many instances.

If there is no pronounced car shortage the last quarter will be the largest of the year from the standpoint of earnings. So far as the United States Steel Corporation is concerned there need be no fear of a runaway finished steel market."

COMES FOR REVENGE.

Allegations Made Against a Negro Convicted in Chattanooga Three Years Ago.

When Alexander Watkins turned state's evidence and convicted Fred Greenleaf of a crime in Chattanooga, Tenn., three years ago, Greenleaf, it is said, swore that after he had served his sentence he would find Watkins and kill him. Three weeks ago Greenleaf was released from prison at Chattanooga and came to Pittsburgh to make a search for Watkins. He found him Monday night at the home of Watkins' sister in Soho street.

Watkins answered Greenleaf's knock at the door and Greenleaf, it is alleged, without a word pulled a razor and cut Watkins on the throat, across the forehead and on the right arm. His sister went to his assistance and was cut on the arm. Her screams attracted a policeman, who arrested Greenleaf. He was given a hearing yesterday by Alderman Emil Spahr and committed to jail in default of $1,000 bail. Both Watkins and Greenleaf are negroes.

LETTER CARRIER GETS SHOCK WHILE COLLECTING MAIL

Archibald S. Nichols, aged 29, a letter carrier of Wilson avenue, Allegheny, while collecting mail in Anderson street was shocked yesterday afternoon. As he put his key into the letter box at Isabella and Anderson streets, Nichols was thrown into the street. He was picked up and after a short time was able to go back to the postoffice and later to his home. His hand was burned slightly, but he escaped without any serious injuries. The box is on a wooden pole of the Allegheny County Light Company and when the experience of Nichols was reported the light company employes were detailed to readjust the wires.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR BIG DINNER

Pittsburgh Agency of Equitable Life Assurance Society to Entertain Officers and Guests.

VICE PRESIDENT TARBELL HERE

Arrangements for the observance of the 25th anniversary of the establishment of the Pittsburgh branch of the Equitable Life Assurance society today and the entertainment of President Paul Morton, Vice President Gage E. Tarbell and Medical Director Franklin C. Wells have been completed. Medical Director Wells is in Pittsburgh and Mr. Tarbell, who spent yesterday with the agents of the society in Wheeling, arrived last night and is stopping at the Duquesne club in Sixth avenue. President Morton will arrive at 7 a. m. today over the Pittsburgh, Ft. Wayne & Chicago railroad. He will also register at the Duquesne club.

This morning President Morton and Vice President Tarbell will spend with the officers of the local agency, which has headquarters in the Frick building. President Morton and the other officers will be tendered a reception from 2 to 4 o'clock, when the policy holders, the Equitable agents and their wives and the public will have an opportunity to meet the officers of the society. At noon President Morton and the other officers will be tendered a luncheon at the Duquesne club.

GAGE E. TARBELL,
Vice President of the Equitable Life Assurance Society.

The fall meeting and dinner which Edward A. Woods, manager of the Pittsburgh agency, will give the agents, their wives and his guests, will be held at the Hotel Schenley at 6 p. m. The 25th anniversary of the local agency will also be observed at the same time, and it is estimated that no less than 350 people will attend the dinner. Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Woods will receive alone in the library at the Schenley, when the policy holders and guests will be presented to the officers.

The speakers at the dinner will be President Morton, Vice President Tarbell, Medical Director Wells, Willis F. McCook, Pittsburgh representative on the Equitable society board of directors, and Mr. Woods. Mr. Morton, in his address, will speak to the policy holders and outline his ideas as to conducting a big life insurance company. Mr. Tarbell, who is head of the agents' department of the society, will speak principally to the agents, and Mr. McCook and Manager Woods will talk on the local agency's history and the development of Pittsburgh.

At 1 o'clock today Mrs. Edward A. Woods will give a luncheon to the wives of the agency's out-of-town agents at the Country club in Beechwood boulevard. Special cars will take Mrs. Woods' guests from the Frick building to the Country club.

The Convention Lunch club will meet at the Hotel Schenley at 11 a. m. tomorrow and luncheon will be served at 1 o'clock. The guests and wives of the local and out-of-town agents will also be present at the luncheon.

The Pittsburgh agency was established 25 years ago, with Dr. George Woods, former chancellor of the Western University of Pennsylvania, as manager. From a subordinate agency it has grown to be the premier agency of the Equitable, and by 1905 had 103 policy holders who have insurance in excess of $100,000, and a total of 25,790 policy holders. The territory of the Pittsburgh agency has grown from seven to 52 counties, and by 1905 the assurance in force increased to $78,295,500 and the new business amounted to $14,216,554.

Dr. Woods was manager of the Pittsburgh agency from 1880 to 1890, and in the latter year was succeeded by his son, Edward A. Woods, who has been the master mind in the achievement of the great results.

NEW YORK POLICE STOP BERNARD SHAW'S PLAY

"Mrs. Warren's Profession" Is Held to Be an Affront to Decency.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The police today stopped the production of George Bernard Shaw's play "Mrs. Warren's Profession" by arresting Samuel Gumpertz, manager of the Garrick theater, in which the play made its first New York appearance last night, on a charge of offending public decency in sanctioning the performance. Police Commissioner McAdoo ordered that all further performances of the play cease.

Manager Gumpertz was paroled on his promise to bring with him to court tomorrow all the members of the company, including Mary Shaw, Arnold Daly, Chrystal Herne, John Findlay, Fred Tyler and George Warren and also former State Senator W. H. Reynolds, owner of the Garrick theater.

Police Commissioner McAdoo himself saw the play last night and conferred with Mayor McClellan today before issuing his order. He warned the company that anyone participating in further performances of this play would be arrested.

While the money will be refunded for seats purchased, many persons will be losers through having purchased tickets from speculators at exorbitant prices. Arnold Daly made the statement this afternoon at the office of his counsel:

"I announced in the beginning that I would constitute the dramatic critics of New York a jury to pass upon the fitness or unfitness of 'Mrs. Warren's Profession.' Their verdict was to be rendered today. It was against the piece and I will stand by my word. I will make no attempt to repeat the performance tonight."

It is said Mr. Daly spent $19,000 preparing "Mrs. Warren's Profession" for production. The management announced that the theater will be opened tomorrow night with another of Shaw's plays, "Candida."

RUMORS concerning the beauty of the Sorg-Drouelarde wedding in Middletown, have made their way to Pittsburgh, where the bride-elect and her fiance, Miss Ada Sorg and Lieut. Pierre Drouelarde are both well-known. Both served as attendants at the wedding of Miss Grace Aull and Paul Arthur Sorg, in Christ Methodist Episcopal church, this city, over a year ago. Their own wedding will be a brilliant church event with half military appointments. The floral work will be done by a prominent East End florist who shipped four wagonloads of plants and flowers to Middletown yesterday. Twenty white satin prieudieux will be used at the church and down the long center aisle will be placed 16 wicker standards of immense white chrysanthemums, while at the front of the church will be four others similarly arranged. An arch of the glorious autumn blooms will be raised over the center of the aisle down which the bridal procession will pass. The home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Paul J. Sorg, will be beautifully decorated for the reception following the ceremony. Farleverse ferns and foliage will be used to decorate the drawing room mantel, and across the top of the deep bay window will be hung a crescent of huge white chrysanthemums. The window seat will be banked with palms and ferns. The dining-room decorations will be exceptionally beautiful. Covers will be laid for 25 at the bride's table, in the center of which will be a mound of white chrysanthemums of an unusual size combined with bows of broad blue satin ribbon and maline. A Dresden effect will be obtained by the use of garlands of small white flowers tied with blue baby ribbons, which are to be scattered over the board and a finishing touch of beauty will be given in the shower of shaggy asparagus springeri which will hang from the entire ceiling. The china closets will be banked and over a large mirror a fancy basket of white chrysanthemums will be suspended. The library will also be done in white chrysanthemums, and throughout the house the lights will be capped by blue and white shades made especially for this wedding. An archway at the foot of the stairs will be outlined by white chrysanthemums, and from the first to the third floor the banisters will be hidden beneath immense clusters of the largest yellow chrysanthemums it is possible to obtain. Two large jars of the same flowers will be stationed at the base of the arch and a group of palms will occupy a space on each landing.

Mrs. Paul Arthur Sorg will be matron of honor for her sister-in-law, and Miss Florence Gregg of Allegheny, will be one of the bridesmaids. Miss Root of Middletown, is to serve as maid of honor. All the girls in the party will carry blue chiffon muffs, while in the arms of the bride will be a bouquet of white orchids showered with lilies of the valley. Two small pages in the procession will carry great armsful of white chrysanthemums. Maj. and Mrs. William Ferris Aul, and Charles Aul of this city, are among the out-of-town guests in Middletown over the wedding.

Mrs. Dinkey to Be Hostess.

Mrs. Charles M. Schwab and Mrs. J. E. Schwab, both of New York, will be house-guests of Mrs. Alva C. Dinkey over the reception which she will give on the afternoon of Thursday, November 16. The reception, the hours for which are from 3 until 6 o'clock, will be conducted at Mrs. Dinkey's home in Ellsworth avenue, the honors being shared by three recent brides, Mrs. John Black Stitch, formerly Miss Frances McMasters; Mrs. John McMasters Stewart, who was Miss Emma Walker, and Mrs. Edward Rolfe Williams, nee Miss Lenora Stewart. Among those who have been asked to assist the hostess are Mrs. Charles M. Schwab, Mrs. J. E. Schwab, Mrs. W. H. Beazell, Mrs. David Kennedy, Mrs. Benjamin Maggini, Mrs. Robert Maggini, Mrs. Charles Dinkey, Mrs. A. F. Mock, Mrs. J. F. Lewis, Miss Alice Dinkey, Miss Frances Mehard of Mercer, Miss Jane Allison of Washington, Pa.; Miss Martha Boyd and Mrs. Frank Slick. A dinner for the ushers, and a dance for the younger people will follow the afternoon's reception. Mrs. Stitch, Mrs. Stewart and Mrs. Williams will share honors at a reception at which Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. Beazell, two of Mrs. Dinkey's aids, will give this afternoon in Braddock. Mrs. Charles Dinkey of Braddock, another aid, is also entertaining this month. She will give a dinner dance on the evening of November 23.

Delightful Halloween Party.

It was a most delightful affair which Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Darley of Penn avenue, East End, gave last evening. It was planned for Miss Jeannette Gordon, the young sister of the hostess, with whom she is now making her home. The guests, 24 young friends of the honor guest, were entertained with various Halloween games, among these being a guessing contest, a Buster Brown game, a Foxy Grandpa game, a candy pull and a blowing contest, in which each girl and boy was given a bean-blower loaded with pins, which were to be blown into hanging apples, containing prizes. The prizes awarded in all the games were pumpkin boxes filled with candy. Much merriment was created by the large cake which occupied the center of the dining room table, and which contained a gold ring, a gold thimble and a gold dollar. The house was appropriately and tastefully decorated for the occasion. Grinning jack-o'-lanterns hung from the frat work above the stairway and the banisters were draped in yellow bunting. All the chandeliers supported jack-o'-lanterns and yellow and white chrysanthemums were placed in vases about the different rooms, while on the sideboard in the dining room was an immense dish of fruits and autumn leaves.

Mrs. Hamilton's Luncheon.

Covers were laid for 12 at the luncheon which Mrs. William Dean Hamilton of North avenue, Allegheny, gave yesterday afternoon. The guests, who had been asked to meet Mrs. John Dalzell, were Mrs. Henry Balken, Mrs. O. D. Thompson, Mrs. Irwin, Mrs. George A. Macbeth, Mrs. James Neale, Mrs. George Heard, Mrs. William Sage Dalzell, Mrs. Thomas Marshall, Mrs. Thomas Rodd and Mrs. Francis T. F. Lovejoy. Mrs. William S. Dalzell and Mrs. Balken won the prizes awarded at the bridge following the luncheon. The luncheon was a Halloween affair with a centerpiece of yellow chrysanthemums and autumn leaves and jack-o'-lantern candelabra. Mrs. Balken is to give a bridge party of three tables tomorrow afternoon in Mrs. Dalzell's honor, and this afternoon Mrs. Dalzell and her daughter will be at home informally, after 5 o'clock, at the latter's residence in Kenilcky avenue. Mrs. George L. McCoy of Baum street will also entertain for Mrs. Dalzell by giving an informal tea on Thursday afternoon, November 9.

Martin-McCandless.

After a lake trip Mr. and Mrs. George Heber McCandless will be at home in Oakmont with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George A. McCandless. Their wedding was an interesting event, taking place at noon yesterday in St. Stephen's Protestant Episcopal church, Wilkinsburg. The Rev. J. Heber McCandless of Smethport, an uncle of the bridegroom, read the service. The bridal attendants included Miss Clara Martin, a younger sister of the bride, as maid of honor; Frank Howard McCandless, who served as best man for his brother, and Benjamin Martin and Howard Armstrong, ushers. The bride wore her going-away gown of dark blue broadcloth with a hat to match, and carried white roses, while her sister, in a simple girlish frock of white batiste and hat of the same material, carried pink carnations. A. N. Martin gave his daughter's hand in marriage, and immediately after the ceremony the couple began their wedding journey.

In Honor of a Butler Guest.

Mrs. William McMartin of North Euclid avenue will entertain with a euchre on Friday afternoon. The guests have been invited by telephone to meet Mrs. Howard Braman of Butler, who is visiting her sister, Mrs. George S. Meyers of Fairmont avenue, East End.

To Give Housewarming Reception.

Invitations are being sent out today by Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. McKean for a large reception which they will give on the evening of Monday, November 13, as a housewarming for their new home in South Negley avenue. The hours are from 8 until 11 o'clock. A number of house guests of the host and hostess will receive with them, the list including Mrs. M. H. Treadwell of New York City, Mrs. Charles Thompson of Charleroi, Mrs. Carlton Cox of Sewickley, formerly of Brownsville, and Mrs. Alvin G. Leonard, a sister of the hostess. Mr. and Mrs. McKean will entertain their euchre club this evening.

Parry-Borland.

One of the most interesting of yesterday's weddings was that in Wilkinsburg of Miss Elizabeth Mabel Parry, daughter of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Parry, to H. L. Borland, at the home of the bride's parents in Wood street. The ceremony was performed in the presence of 90 guests by Dr. Parry. The room used for the wedding was prettily decorated in pink and white. Miss Parry had as her only attendant, Miss Florence Elliott of Pasadena, Cal. L. D. Waddell was best man. A wedding dinner and reception followed the ceremony, after which Mr. and Mrs. Borland departed for the east. They will be at home in Wilkinsburg after November 15.

Masquerade for California Guest.

One of the prettiest affairs of last evening was the masquerade dance given by Miss Mae Florence Frauenheim of Stanton avenue, in honor of her visiting friend, Miss Vonderhorst of California. About 80 guests were present, each one in fancy dress. All were masked until 12 o'clock when supper was served. The dining room was elaborately decorated for the affair, and the only light in the room came from numerous jack-o'-lanterns. In the center of the table was an immense pumpkin filled with yellow chrysanthemums. Mrs. Eugene S. Reilly, a sister of the hostess, assisted in entertaining the guests.

Will Entertain Debutantes.

A number of East End and Allegheny girls of the debutante set will go to Shields station tomorrow afternoon to be guests of Mrs. Frank Fabor Brooks. Mrs. Brooks gives a luncheon at her home at that time in honor of Miss Ruth Walker and Miss Helen Willard Davis, two of the season's buds, and the other guests will include their sister debutantes from the Valley and the two cities.

Tormay-Brown.

CONNELLSVILLE, PA., Oct. 31.—(Special.)—Miss Wilma Margaret Tormay, daughter of P. J. Tormay, and Henry Bernard Brown of Pittsburgh, were married this morning at 8 o'clock in the Immaculate Conception Roman Catholic church, the Rev. Father John T. Burns, assisted by the Rev. J. P. Brady of Leisenring, officiating.

Mrs. Ayers to Visit In the East.

Mrs. Samuel Ayers of Morewood avenue, and her daughter, Miss Helen Ayers, expect to go east during the latter part of this week to make an over Sunday visit in Philadelphia. Miss Ayers is to be introduced on November 9 at a large tea which her mother will give at her home.

Is in Cunliffe's Class.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 31.—Adolph Aistraph was arrested here today on the charge of embezzling $100,000 from the ESast Asiatic Company, while he was in the employ of the Imperial maritime customs service at Hankow. Since coming to America, Aistraph has been employed on the steamer Umatilla, plying between this city and Puget sound.

Twenty-Six Men Drowned.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The Swedish steamer Johan of 1,724 tons and the Russian bark Antares of 340 tons, both foundered recently in the North sea, after a collision. Twenty-six men of the two crews were drowned.

THE CLUBS

Contributions to this department must bear the name and address of the writer to insure attention.

First Season Was Successful.

The first annual meeting of the joint committee of Women's clubs for the Allegheny playgrounds and vacation schools was held yesterday and was well attended. Reports of the work in the nine playgrounds and vacation schools were given. The treasurer, Mrs. Edward A. Jones, reported a balance in the treasury, which will be sufficient to pay the expenses of printing the annual report. No new features for next summer were discussed, though plans are being made for improvements. The election of officers resulted in the following choice: President, Mrs. John Cowley; secretary, Mrs. Robert J. Cleland, and treasurer, Mrs. Edward A. Jones.

The flower committee, Mrs. Coleberry, chairman, reported 20,000 bouquets distributed to the children, with the exception of those in the Ninth ward, who were supplied by the Woman's club of Sewickley. The summer homes committee also reported that during the period the playgrounds were open and until September 1, sick children from the different playgrounds were sent to fresh air homes. The report of each playground was given by the chairman of the committees in charge, Mrs. James R. Kibler, New Era club, reporting for the Sherman avenue school; Mrs. David Hastings, Neighborhood club, Irwin avenue school; Miss Anna B. Park, King's Daughters of the Fourth United Presbyterian church, Allegheny, Third ward; Miss Margaret Elphinestone of the Summer Work club, Fifth ward; Mrs. Vitellius Matthews, Woman's club, Seventh ward; Mrs. Edward A. Benefit for Visiting Nurse.

Much interest is being taken in the bridge and domino whist which will be given on Monday afternoon, November 6, at 2 o'clock in the club room of the Bellefield dwellings, Center avenue and Bellefield. The guests will be permitted to play either bridge or domino whist and to select their own partners and those whom they will play. Handsome prizes will be offered for both games. The entertainment is arranged for the benefit of the Fruit and Flower mission and to aid in the support of a district nurse employed by the mission. Miss Cline is the nurse engaged in this work which takes her in parts of the city where there is much sickness, poverty and distress.

Among those composing the committee of arrangements for the affair are Mrs. W. G. Doolittle, Mrs. Edward Hanna Small, Mrs. Verner S. Gaggin, Mrs. George W. J. Bissell, Mrs. Bernie McMeechen, Miss Alice Wood Tindle, Miss Susan Shields Williams, Miss Ella Cassidy, Miss Alberta Harper, Miss Nardisse Kennedy and Miss Mary Wright.

Halloween in Knoxville Kindergarten.

Halloween was celebrated last evening by the Knoxville Kindergarten club in the kindergarten rooms, Miller street. The room was decorated in fantastic style and lighted by huge Jack o'Lanterns, while bobbing for apples, the wishing well, the bow and arrow contest, shooting for love, money or luck, and various other games and superstitious customs were carried out. Nuts and candies were for sale for the benefit of the kindergarten. Nearly all of the games were in costume, some being grotesque, while others were in fancy dress.

Studying the Revolution.

Incidents leading up to the American revolution were discussed at yesterday's meeting of the Lawrenceville New Century club. Mrs. J. J. Covert presided. Among the topics taken up were the Boston massacre and the Boston tea party, by Miss Ruth William. Mrs. Covert talked of the formation and work of the continental congresses; Mrs. Louise Stifel described the plan of independence and the program closed with the story of the making of the first American flag by Betsy Ross, told by Miss Annetta Burr. Miss Winifred Riggs, the delegate from the club to Cambridge Springs, gave an interesting report of the meeting of the State Federation there.

Mrs. Waterbury Will Speak.

Mrs. Norman M. Waterbury of Boston is in Pittsburgh this week and will speak this afternoon and evening in the Shady Avenue Baptist church; next Sunday morning in the First Baptist church of McKeesport, and on Sunday evening in the Sandusky Street church, Allegheny. Mrs. Waterbury, who recently returned from England, where she was one of the few women invited to speak before the Baptist World's congress which met in London, is corresponding secretary of the Woman's Baptist Foreign Missionary society of the east, and the editor of the Helping Hand. Her subject this afternoon will be "Japan—The Forces in the Conflict."

Benefit Nets $5,000.

The recent matinee when Robert Edeson appeared in his new college play, "Strongheart," for the benefit of the Soho Public baths, it is expected will net the directors about $5,000. Mrs. George B. Motheral, chairman of the committee in charge, said that although the returns are not yet all in and will not be until a meeting of the directors on Friday afternoon, the committee feels confident that the receipts will bring in this amount to be added to the building fund.

German Tea at Clubhouse.

The Germanic society will give a German tea this afternoon at the Twentieth Century club, at which the life and works of the late Rudolf Baumbach will be discussed. Several members will read passages from the works and a critical sketch will be given by Herr Richard Skalweit. These German teas will be given once a month.

TO MAKE HIS HOME HERE.

United States District Attorney Dunkle Has Purchased a Residence in Pittsburgh.

John W. Dunkle, United States district attorney, will make Pittsburgh his permanent home. He yesterday purchased a home in Grafton avenue, just off Highland avenue, in the Nineteenth ward. Mr. Dunkle will move his family here next month.

Mr. Dunkle's home is in Warren. When he was appointed district attorney last spring he thought he would retain his old residence, but found his time is so occupied here that he has little opportunity to look after the practice of law in Warren. He has opened an office here and will devote himself to building up a private practice, when not engaged in government business.

MAN IS BADLY INJURED BY FALL FROM CROWDED CAR

W. W. Weil of 1200 Mayflower street, while riding on the rear platform of a crowded Butler street car, was accidently pushed off between Thirty-sixth and Thirty-seventh streets last night. His right arm was broken, knee badly bruised and his scalp lacerated. After his injuries were attended by a physician he was taken to his home.

Faints and Loses Her Watch.

BELLEFONTAINE, O., Oct. 31.—(Special.)—While Mrs. Henry Collins was at a funeral at Union chapel today she was overcome by heat and fainted. When she regained consciousness her watch and chain were missing.

A DANGER THAT THREATENS US ALL.

A large part of the poison created within the body, or separated from the food we eat, is passed off by the kidneys through the urine. It is very important that this filtering work of the kidneys should go on undisturbed, otherwise, the body cannot remain in a condition of health.

Very little causes are likely to set the kidneys wrong, and kidney diseases come on so quietly that at first they are not noticed. There is little pain, other than backache, and few outward signs besides irregularity of the passages of the urine. If the trouble is continually neglected, however, it soon reaches a stage of constant backache, pain and distress, and there is no more terrible affliction than Bright's disease, which may be the final outcome.

It is very necessary to keep the kidneys well, and there is one remedy that can be always depended on—Doan's Kidney Pills. This remedy begins its work first by cleansing and toning up the kidneys, arousing them to action and increasing the flow of urine, so that urea, uric acid, and sediment are washed from the kidneys and bladder and driven out of the system. The treatment rebuilds and invigorates the kidney tissue, assists in filtering of the blood and dissolves crystallized poison. Doan's Kidney Pills are especially and solely for the kidneys; they are made from pure roots and herbs that in a natural way heal and tone up the delicate kidney organism and so cure the cause of disease.

"IF YOU WOULD KEEP WELL, KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL."

It is not difficult to detect kidney trouble, if you suspect you have it. The common symptoms are backache, dizzy spells, aching in the loins, stiffness of the joints, lame back, languor, depression, frequent sick headaches, watery swellings in the ankles or beneath the eyes, nervousness, irritability, rheumatic pains, sleeplessness and irregular action of the heart.

When you first notice any of the above symptoms, especially backache or any irregularity of the urine, begin using Doan's Kidney Pills, and you will find quick relief. The remedy is also a certain protection from those colds and chills that settle on the kidneys, and from bladder troubles that follow over-indulgence in beer, spirits or tea. The best proof we can offer of the merit of Doan's Kidney Pills is the testimony of residents of this city. Thousands have used it, and scores are ready to tell you their experience.

PITTSBURGH PROOFS.

Walter J. Greenfield, Grand Secretary for the State of Pennsylvania, of the Royal Society of Good Fellows, living at 10 Sweetbriar St., Duquesne Heights, Pittsburgh, Pa., says: "For several years I suffered trouble with my kidneys and up to the spring of 1898 I had found no relief. My back hurt me all the time, and I got into such a run-down weak and nervous condition that I could not sleep or eat and was like a person with chronic insomnia. It was in 1898, after doctoring in vain for a long time, that I happened to read about Doan's Kidney Pills in our local papers, and began using them. Your remedy helped me at once and I took four or five boxes, improving rapidly until I was entirely well, sleeping soundly and eating well. All the symptoms of kidney trouble disappeared and I have been a well man ever since."

On April 3rd, 1905, Mr. Greenfield wrote again: "I am certainly willing to certify to the great benefit derived from the use of your Doan's Kidney Pills, and trust my statement will reach those who need such a medicine."

ASKS FORFEITURE OF FUGE'S BOND

District Attorney After Bondsmen of Man Who Attempted to Work Repeaters.

MARSHALL TRIAL IS DELAYED

Assistant District Attorney William D. Grimes asked Judge Macfarlane, in criminal court yesterday, to declare forfeited the $750 bond given for the appearance of John H. Fuge at the March term of court, and to enter judgment against the bondsmen for the amount of the bond. District Attorney Grimes told the court that although Fuge had been arrested during the February election for illegal voting in the Fourteenth ward, and called for trial during the March term of court he had not appeared.

Attorney Edward McKenna, representing Fuge's bondsmen, opposed the forfeiture of the bond and claimed that Fuge was in court when his case was called. As the bond only covered the March term of court and the case was not disposed of during that term, he argued that the bond was unvalidated and the bondsmen relieved. Judge Macfarlane made no decision in the case.

Marshall to Be Tried Today.

The cases against Arthur G. Marshall, the alleged insurance swindler, who has been indicted on four charges of misdemeanor, two charges of false pretense, and one each of embezzlement and conspiracy, were not called for trial yesterday. The case will be called this morning. The state authorities have sent two of the state bank inspectors here to attend the trial.

The West Side Belt Railroad Company was convicted in criminal court of the second count of the indictment charging it with a misdemeanor in taking possession of a public road from Sawmill run to West Liberty borough. The count on which the verdict was returned covers that part of the road extending from the Bigham farm, on Mt. Washington, to a point in Lower St. Clair township, but exempts the major part of the road. The penalty which can be inflicted following a conviction is a fine not to exceed $10,000, and vacation of the road, unless a new road is constructed.

Criminal Court Sentences.

Frank Sement, an Italian, was sentenced to a year in the workhouse for holding up Frank Christy, a fellow countryman, at Webster avenue and High street, October 8, and robbing him of $4.50. Mike Chovic, Mike Mederio, Steve Plenic, Peter Renich, George Lardi, Peter Rasak and Martin Hondovic, Hungarians, were convicted of rioting at Wall station, during which one of the Hungarians was shot. Other cases were: Lawrence Dorgan, larceny, three months to the workhouse; Fred Walsh, larceny, pleaded guilty; Michael McCauley, larceny, 30 days; E. C. Dickson, forgery, 90 days; Anton Harposon, larceny, 90 days; Fred Keller, larceny, pleaded guilty; A. E. Faust, forgery, pleaded guilty; Rebecca Hughes, larceny, six months to the workhouse.

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed against the Elite Laundry Company of Allegheny, by the Pittsburgh Laundry Supply Company, the Merchants and Manufacturers Paper Company of Pittsburgh, and the Lee Hamilton Coal Company of Allegheny. The total amount of their claims is $808.75.

Executions issued: Helen F. Wilson vs. Benjamin N. Jacobs, $1,630; John Kovatch vs. Mike Sokel, $1,024; Pittsburgh Door and Sash Company vs. Charles A. Wilcox, $567.

Gottleib Mattes has filed a statement demanding $1,000 damages from Dorothy Maier. He avers waste water flows on his property from that of the defendant.

Frederick Opperman of Allegheny, by his will, disposes of his estate among his children. His daughter, Emma, is given all of his personal property, $1,000 and 45 acres of land in Ohio township. A son, Frederick, is given 35 acres in the same township and a daughter, Rosa, 40 acres. The children are to share equally in royalties for oil or gas discovered on the property. The estate is valued at $7,250. Herman Kuhn leaves his widow a $12,000 estate. Anton Hofman, Sr., of McKeesport, leaves a $41,500 estate to his wife and children.

COLLATERAL TAX CASE IS HEARD

Supreme Court to Decide Whether Register Stengel Can Retain Commissions.

OTHER PROCEEDINGS OF DAY

The test case to determine whether or not commissions for the collection of collateral inheritance tax belong to the register or the county was argued in the supreme court yesterday. The action was originally brought as a case stated in No. 3 court. Register George H. Stengel claimed that the 5 per cent commission paid by the state was his, and the county asserted the commissions should be paid into the treasury, as Stengel was only entitled to his salary. Judge J. A. Evans, writing the opinion, found for Stengel and the appeal was taken. In the argument yesterday it was held for the county that this case differed from others that had been before the supreme court in that the law depended upon by the plaintiff expressly provides that commissions shall be paid into the county treasury. On the other side it was argued that the constitutional powers of the state to direct the collection of its own revenue by its own agent and to fix their compensation, is now well settled. It is equally well settled that the state may designate for the purpose an agent who is already a county officer and his duties to the state and payment for his services are as distinct from his duties to and payment by the county as though they were rendered by separate individuals.

Two cases in which beneficial organizations are the appellants were argued. One was that of Patrick F. McCaffrey vs. the Knights and Ladies of Columbia, appellants. McCaffrey sued for $1,500 on account of the death of his wife, who was a member. On a rule for judgment for want of sufficient affidavit of defense McCaffrey was given a judgment for $1,-578.75. The appellants claim this rule was made absolute in the absence of its counsel and took an appeal. They claim Mrs. McCaffrey made deceptive statements in her application for membership.

The other case is that of Andrew A. and Mary G. Dinan against the Catholic Mutual Benefit Association, appellants. This is an action to recover $2,000 on the death of Charles B. Coll, the father of Mrs. Dinan, incorrect statements in regard to the age of Coll are alleged.

Other cases were: David F. K. Nesbit and others, appellants, vs. Ellen P. Skelding, an action over a piece of real estate in Robinson township, turning on construction of a will; Boyaird & Seyfang Manufacturing Co. vs. J. D. Ferguson, appellant, an action on a note; Mary A. Love, appellant, vs. John W. and Andrew L. Robinson, an action in partition of real estate and ground rents; John Henkel, appellant, vs. the Wabash-Pittsburgh Terminal Railroad Company, an action over condemnation proceedings for a piece of property on Ferry street.

An appeal was filed by the plaintiffs below in the case of Llewellyn and others vs. David Cauffiel, from the common pleas of Cambria county. It is a suit over a right of way.

NEWS FROM THE MINES.

President Charles R. Muller returned to Philadelphia this week from an extensive tour of inspection of the Montana Tonopah properties. Mr. Miller, who has spent three months in Tonopah, says he found things very satisfactory. The railroad is now broad-gauged and solid vestibuled trains with Pullman cars run from San Francisco to Tonopah and Goldfield daily. Mr. Muller made contracts for a new hundred-stamp mill which will be in operation next spring. The new electric power plant to supply electrical power for the mines, drills, etc., will be in operation in about two weeks. This will greatly facilitate mining and all work about the mines and is expected to prove economical.

Reports from the Standard Consolidated Mines of Eastern Oregon state that the Standard vein, which is the principal vein now being worked, has an average of from five to 10 per cent of cobalt, with values in gold running as high as 9 and 10 ounces to the ton. Enough ore has been blocked out in the Standard tunnel and upraises to estimate that there are over 300,000 tons of ore in the Standard vein alone above the tunnel level. There is sufficient money in the treasury to put in the mill, erect all the necessary buildings and leave a good margin for futher development work. A 50-ton mill is now being erected and work will begin within 60 days.

Large finds of high-grade cuprite have been made in the Shattuck, on the 700-foot level, on the further side of the porphyry-granite fault, which was also found to be mineralized on its side nearest the shaft. This mine is finding a large amount of good ore and is proving a surprise to the Bisbee camp. Its distance from the main porphyry blowout of Sacramento Hill is so great that many mining men did not look for anything very big in its ore deposits. It seems assured now that it is a large mine. A heavy machinery plant for the mine has just arrived from the east, and is installing. This includes pumps and hoists, boilers, compressors and much modern equipment.

About 250 men are employed at the Tombstone Consolidated mines, and the obstacles that have hampered the company for more than four years seem to be fading away. The company has spent about $2,000,000 in its development since its reorganization and consolidation in 1901, and is now on the eve of success. The amount of water from new and deeper workings is steadily growing less, and the 4,000,000 gallons pumped daily comes almost entirely from above the 800-foot level. The miners sinking from that level are now able to go on with but one sinking pump in the shaft, where they recently had four or five. The pumping plant that has been installed in the 600 and 800 foot level is proving amply large to handle all water, and at exceedingly low costs. The company is building a large mill and will be treating its own ores in a short time. No mining has begun, but it is expected that the 1,000-foot level will be reached ore bodies will be opened into and stoping on a very large scale will be undertaken. The ores carry much value in precious metals, and are not diminishing in values as they go down.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The London tin market was about 10 to 12½s higher, with spot closing at £156 and futures at £149 5s. The local market advanced in sympathy and closed firm at $32 00@32 40. Copper was somewhat irregular in London, closing lower at £71 5s for spot, while futures were higher at £70 10s. Locally the situation showed no material change, with trade quiet. Lake is quoted at $16 37½@16 75; electrolytic at $16 25@16 62½, and casting at $16 00@16 37½. Lead was lower at £14 15s in London. Locally, however, the market was unchanged and more or less nominal at $5 20@5 40 for spot. Spelter was also unchanged in the local market, closing at $6 15@6 25, while it was lower at £28 5s in London. Iron closed higher at 51s 9d for standard foundry and at 52s 9d for Cleveland warrants in the English market. The domestic situation appears very firm; No. 1 foundry northern and southern are quoted at $18 25@18 50; No. 2 foundry northern and southern at $17 75@18 00.

"RACCOON FARM" CHANGES OWNERS

J. Walter Hay Secures Famous Country Place from Estate of Theodore R. Hostetter.

REALTY RECORD OF OCTOBER

J. Walter Hay has purchased from the estate of Theodore R. Hostetter what is known as the "Raccoon farm" on the south side of the Ohio river, opposite Merrill dam, for a summer home. The purchase is much the most important deal of its kind made so far this year, and marks the transfer of one of the most interesting properties around Pittsburgh. The farm contains 253 acres and is bounded on two sides by the Ohio river, with the Raccoon creek on a third side. It is only four miles from Beaver. The place was used for years as the summer home of the late Mr. Hostetter, and the present sale was effected through the agency of Attorney Thomas Patterson, who aided very materially in developing the property and has always managed it for the Hostetter estate.

Raccoon farm abounds in features. Perhaps the chief one is the immense log house made of North Carolina logs, which were shipped to the spot in 1899. This house is two and three stories high and contains 32 large rooms, ample room to entertain 40 guests. It has four big bath rooms, a porch 26 feet wide fronting on the Ohio river and a mammoth stone chimney, which cost $12,000, on the outside of the house. A private water plant supplies the house with water. Gas is obtained from a private supply on the hill and a cistern supplies filtered soft water to the log mansion. The house is ceiled with fine timber and has big plate glass doors.

Splendid Buildings for All.

In addition to the main house there is a manager's dwelling of 18 rooms and three bath rooms, which is finished in hardwood and has big hot air furnaces. The horse barn is 110x48 feet and a carriage house is 40x60 feet. Another barn near by has stabling capacity for 20 horses. The cow stable will house 34 cows and, like the horse stables, is finished in the most elaborate manner with cement floors, box stalls, etc. A big cook house near the mansion, a boiler house, a creamery, two ice houses, a big log barn, an implement house, two kennels to accommodate 26 dogs and a seven-room brick tenant house complete the list of buildings.

The log mansion faces on a lawn of 50 acres which runs down toward the river. At the farther end of this plot there is a hurdle course 80 rods long with six hurdles for running horses. Golf links are provided and there is ample room on the grounds for many other amusements. The farm land is in an excellent state of cultivation and there is an abundance of orchard and garden. Owing to the peculiar character of the property and the original cost of improvements, it is impossible to fix any value on it and the exact consideration is being withheld by Mr. Hay until the recording of the deed. Beyond the fact that Mr. Hay made the purchase for a summer home he has not divulged his plans, but the property is capable of being adapted to a score of uses, any of which would be of unusual interest.

Second Best Month in Six Years.

The report of real estate dealing during October, which was compiled at the city register's office yesterday, shows that last month held relatively the same position in the list of dealing of the past five years that nearly every month in the past five years has. It was the best October of any since 1900 with the exception of October, 1902. Compared with September the month showed a falling off of about $400,000, which was accounted for by the low total deeds registered last week. The number of transfers registered during October shows there was an unusually large amount of small buying, bearing out the statement made frequently of late that the movement in residence properties has been the mainstay of the real estate market the past few months. Comparatively few deeds of record-breaking size were registered, while in 1902 the record of the month included one or two very large transfers.

The following table shows the number and amount of the deeds registered every October for the past six years:

Year.	No. Deeds.	Total.
1905	648	$3,717,600
1904	536	2,138,800
1903	540	3,552,100
1902	746	7,723,100
1901	539	3,321,300
1900	596	2,606,990

Filtration Work Lags.

Work at the filtration plant is not progressing so fast as contractors would like to see it, or rather the magnitude of the undertaking is just beginning to become apparent. In spite of the army of men who have been on the job for months the different parts of the work are not along as far as was expected. It was intended that the enormous pump house would be started by this time, and the contractors, William Kerr's sons, had made all arrangements to start the superstructure of the building November 1. Only a part of the foundations are in and it is probable now the building will not be started till next April. This building alone will cost $300,000, will cover a half acre of ground and require 3,000,000 brick in its erection.

The new annex to the Frick building in Diamond street is chilling forth more hearty expressions of praise every day as its beauty and symmetry become more apparent. In the opinion of many the building is even more handsome than the original Frick building, as its trimming is designed to set off the smooth white walls to the best possible effect although the cost of the building will not be more than one-third that of the Frick building proper. The two brick buildings make a handsome block farm an imposing wall of new structures on the north side of Diamond street that cannot fail to be noted with pride by the thousands who daily pass the corners at Smithfield and Grant streets.

Sharp Contests for Renting Business.

The strife after good renting contracts is fiercer this fall than ever before in Pittsburgh. The best firms are finding that although the average renting does not pay them very well financially in a direct way, it brings them an enormous amount of business through the connections thus made. And certain kinds of renting, such as business buildings and large apartment houses, are now sought after with as much eagerness as the average broker runs down a sale. Three more renting contracts were announced yesterday, making a dozen or more during the last ten days.

The John K. Ewing company, owner of the Union Realty company, not the largest plum by securing the renting agency of the Emich apartment house at 304 East North avenue, Allegheny, at the corner of Poplar street. The building is comparatively new and faces East Park. It was formerly handled by the Real Estate and Mortgage company and is known as one of the best apartment houses in either city. There are 24 suites provided with elevators, electric lights, steam heat and janitor service, and the total rental is $250 a month.

The Aronson-Friedman company has been appointed exclusive renting agent for the David Levy holdings in the Seventh ward and for the H. Gefsky holdings in Center avenue. It has already leased for the former owner the three-story brick building at the southeast corner of Wylie avenue and State alley for $2,400 a year and the building at the southwest corner of the same streets for $1,000 a year.

The Aronson Realty company has secured the exclusive agency of all the McCleey properties in the Eleventh ward.

Latest Contracts for Building.

Among the building contracts awarded the past few days are the following: Architects Dean and Stophlet to R. J. Graham, a store and apartment building at Second avenue and Elizabeth street, Twenty-third ward, for James W. Barker; George F. Martin to George A. Morrow, a three-story brick apartment house in Mifflin avenue, near Kelly street, Wilkinsburg, for ... C. and F. W. Morrow, to cost $20,000; Maycock, Kerr & Co. to Kerr & Fox, a brick power building in Strawberry alley to cost $20,000; the Franklin Trust Company to John Osborn, a brick bank and office building at Franklin, to cost $45,000; the Braddock General hospital to T. S. Brightwell of Braddock, an addition to the hospital building at Braddock avenue and Fifth street, Braddock, to cost $15,000.

The Central Automobile Company, which was lately organized by Edward G. Mooney and Edward Seely, has leased the George McNulty livery stable and awarded the contract to B. F. Brown for extensive alterations to fit it for an up-to-date garage.

The development of Carrick borough in a real estate way is proceeding so rapidly that new real estate firms are getting into the field to share in the profits to be reaped along Southern avenue. The latest concern to be announced is the Carrick Real Estate and Improvement Company, which has just applied for a Pennsylvania charter. The incorporators are Henry L. Born, John H., M. E. and John Shook and G. A. Reich.

WILL TRY OUT THURSDAY.

Test of Battleship Rhode Island Delayed by Leaky Condenser Will Take Place Then.

ROCKLAND, ME., Oct. 31.—On account of a leaky condenser, the official trial of the battleship Rhode Island for the purpose of standardizing her propellers, which was to have been held tomorrow has been postponed until Thursday. The four hour run, scheduled for Thursday, will go over until Friday.

The damage is not especially serious, but in view of the fact that the members of the crew were tired by today's hard work, the builders decided to relieve them from the labor of making repairs in time for a trial tomorrow. All other arrangements have been perfected.

TROOPS ON LONG MARCH.

Batteries of United States Artillery Will Tramp a Thousand Miles Across Two States.

SALT LAKE, UTAH, Oct. 31.—An overland march of more than 1,000 miles has been planned for the Twenty-second battery of light artillery, now at Fort Douglas, near this city, and the Nineteenth light battery, now at Fort Riley, Kansas, which have been ordered to exchange stations.

The two commands will begin the march next week. The journey is scheduled to be completed in 70 days.

A New Musical Comedy.

"Loveland," with 15 principals, headed by Dave Lewis and including such prime favorites as Amelia Stone, Toby Lyons, Henry Norman, Nena Blake and a chorus of "American Beauties," numbering 60, together with 21 whistleable musical numbers, covering in all two acts, will be the attraction at the Belasco following the engagement of Mrs. Fiske in "Leah Kleschna," which will conclude its stay next Saturday evening.

Mr. Cleveland Gets Back Home.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 31.—Former President Grover Cleveland returned to Westlands, his Princeton home, today, accompanied by Mrs. Cleveland. They came from Nebraska City, where Mr. Cleveland delivered an address at the unveiling of the J. Sterling Morton monument. Mr. Cleveland said tonight that he had enjoyed a very pleasant trip.

A Natural Laxative

Inward cleansing is as necessary as outward bathing. To keep the bowels free and regular is of even greater importance than to keep the skin-pores from becoming clogged. The neglect of either invites disease. Everyone needs a natural laxative occasionally, to free the bowels of accumulated impurities. For this purpose take the greatest boon ever offered to those who suffer from the ills that follow constipation. For over fifty years Beecham's Pills have been famous as a Stomach corrective, a Liver regulator and Bowel laxative. They never gripe nor cause pain. Powerful purgatives are dangerous. Avoid them. Use Beecham's Pills. They give relief without doing violence to any organ. Their action is in harmony with physical laws. Take them regularly and the necessity for their use becomes less frequent. They are a natural laxative and a positive cure for Constipation, Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache and Dyspepsia.

In the Oil Fields

Late developments in the Yellow Creek district, Calhoun county, are not such as to cause any great amount of enthusiasm. Many of the late completions have come in light and a few have gone to the list of failures. The Lowther Oil Company has one of the best of the recent completions at its No. 4 on the Nutter-Webb farm. The well has been drilled through the Berea grit and in good for 75 barrels a day. In the same district the Alico Oil & Gas Company has drilled its test on the John Holbert farm through the Maxon sand and has a fair gasser. This is 800 feet southeast of the Lowther-Kaufmann Oil & Coal Company's No. 1 on the W. Metz farm. In the same district the Hardman Oil Company has drilled its No. 3 on the M. Hardman farm through the Berea grit and found nothing in that formation. A fair gas pressure was developed in the Big Injun. This location is 600 feet northeast of the No. 1 on the same farm.

North of Mannington, Marion county, the South Penn Oil Company has drilled its No. 7 on the Sabina Sutton farm into the top of the Gordon and has developed some gas. On Meas run, Lincoln district, F. W. Bartlett & Co.'s No. 1 on the F. Downs farm is holding up at 30 barrels a day. On Robinson Fork, McClellan district, Doddridge county, the Carter Oil Company has drilled its No. 2 on the M. W. Tate farm through the Gordon and has a show for a 10-barrel pumper. On Buckeye Fork, West Union district, the same company has completed a test on the R. W. McCowan farm and has a good gasser in the Gordon. This location is a mile east of Smithburg.

In the Maricita district, the Crescent Producing Company has completed No. 5 on the A. N. Hill farm and has a duster. Near Toronto, Jefferson county, the Grandview Oil & Gas Company has completed a second test on the J. H. Smith farm and has a very light pumper in the Berea grit.

In the Georgetown district, Beaver county, Pa., the Beaver Falls Heat & Light Company has completed a second test on the R. E. Taylor farm and has a fair gasser. In the same district G. Fisenbies has completed No. 8 on the M. Johnston farm and has a small pumper in the Berea grit. At New Galilee, in the same county, E. J. Salt & Co. have completed a test on the Bradford farm and have a show for a three or four-barrel pumper in the Big Injun. In the Mt. Morris district, Greene county, the Oakshade Oil Company has completed No. 7 on the Stepenson Garard farm and will have a four or five-barrel pumper. In the Littleton district, Wetzel county, the Philadelphia Company has completed its No. 8 on the J. K. Anderson farm and has a 10-barrel pumper in the Gordon.

In the Hebron district, Tyler county, the Carter Oil Company has drilled a second test on the J. W. Shepherd farm through the Cow Run sand and has a show for a very light pumper. In the Smithfield district, Wood county, the Franco-Saise de Petrole has completed a test on the T. B. Harness farm and has a show for a five-barrel pumper in the Cow Run sand. In the Smithfield district, Wetzel county, the South Penn has completed its No. 18 on the Fairfield Peterson farm and has a 15-barrel pumper in the stray above the Gordon.

STOCK MARKET RALLIED AND CLOSED HIGHER

Smelting, National Lead and Reading Record New High Marks—Call Loans Firm, but Sterling Lower—Local Securities Very Dull.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

The New York stock market yesterday ruled active from start to finish, and prices closed higher all around. The sales exceeded 1,000,000 shares, and the business was well distributed, although there were a few specialties conspicuous for activity and strength.

The rally was due to the more cheerful advices received regarding the situation in Russia. The advance in the foreign markets, with the exception of a gain of nearly 2 per cent in Russians, was somewhat disappointing, but Wall street ignored this. The decline in sterling exchange rates, which removed the probability of gold exports this week, and the better sentiment in foreign financial circles, alarmed the shorts, and covering by the latter interest was no small factor in the general strength of the market. In fact, the borrowing demand for stocks during the past few days indicated a considerable extension of the short interest, and at the close of the market yesterday evidence that a short interest still existed was not lacking.

The strongest of the industrials were American Smelting common and National Lead common. Both advanced to the highest prices ever quoted, and both closed near the best of the day. Smelting reached 130¾ and Lead 52½, the net gain in the former being 2⅜ per cent and in the latter 4¼ per cent. The movement revived the story of the absorption of National Lead by American Smelting, or a closer affiliation between the two. Amalgamated Copper was also stronger than for some time past, and closed 1½ per cent higher for the day.

The strength displayed by Tennessee Coal and Iron and Sloss-Sheffield, which closed 1½@2 per cent higher, also revived the old story of a deal among the southern iron interests. United States Steel issues were moderately active, and the sinking fund bonds scored a new high record by selling at 99½. The report of earnings for the quarter, which was made public after the close of the market, was somewhat of a disappointment, showing an increase of less than $1,000,000 over the June quarter. American Locomotive rallied to and closed at 70, a net gain of 3 per cent. Covering of shorts was thought to be mainly responsible for this advance.

Reading had the benefit of the splendid statement of earnings for September and advanced to 120⅜, the highest ever quoted. Delaware & Hudson was also strong and closed 3¾ per cent higher. Pennsylvania rallied to 143⅞, but closed slightly under the best.

The western and southern group of standard railroad stocks all shared in the upward movement and closed at substantial gains. As usual, the movement in Union and Southern Pacific was regarded as significant of the attitude of one of the most powerful interests in the market. Predictions were made that Southern Pacific would go on a 4 per cent dividend basis not later than February next.

Metropolitan Street Railway made a strong rally, but lost all the gain and closed unchanged for the day. Brooklyn Rapid Transit advanced to 75¾ and closed 1¼ per cent higher than on Monday.

The money market ruled firm most of the day, ranging between 5 and 5½ per cent, but the offerings were freer, and late in the day the rate declined to 4¾ per cent, closing at 4 bid, 4¼ asked. International bankers said that no gold would be engaged for export this week. London cables reported that a large Japanese loan was in prospect, but no particulars were forthcoming.

The local stock market wholly failed to respond to the better sentiment in New York. While prices averaged higher, the advance was so slight as to be insignificant of any change, and there was no increase in the volume of trading. The only activity was in American Sewer Pipe, which declined to 32 on the marketing of 500 shares. Crucible Steel common and preferred closed a shade higher. Independent Brewing preferred declined ⅛ to 40¾, while Pittsburgh Brewing common closed ⅛ higher at 27½. Pittsburgh Coal preferred rallied ⅜ to 50, and River Coal preferred rallied ½ to 24½. There were no transactions in the common stocks of either issue. There were no sales of any of the Westinghouse or Fire Proofing stocks, but prices were steady to firm. Lustre Mining declined to 33 and recovered to 34. The feature of the banking list was the sale of 20 shares Colonial Trust at 350, a decline of 25 points from the last previous sale and a decline of 15 points from recent asking price. Iron City Trust sold at 116, a decline of 2 per cent. The remainder of the bank and trust company stocks was unchanged.

FEATURES OF THE DAY

IN PITTSBURGH	IN WALL STREET
Bank exchanges the largest for any October on record.	Stock market firm from start to finish and closed higher.
Ten months' increase $400,000,000 over same time last year.	Trading active and well distributed, sales reaching 1,028,900 shares.
No improvement in trading in local stocks.	Bonds also more active than for days past. Sales $4,368,000.
Colonial Trust sold at 350, a decline of 25 points.	Smelting, National Lead, Reading and Steel 5s make new high marks.
Price changes in the industrial list were unimportant.	Call loan rates firm, but sterling exchange declined.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

The exchanges of the Pittsburgh clearing house for October foot up $223,720,224, an increase of more than $30,000,000 over the corresponding month last year, and the largest October total on record. This increase is noteworthy because it occurs at a time of almost complete stagnation in the stock market, and at a time also when there were no unusual figures to swell the gain. The gain is almost exclusively due to the activity of the iron trade, which has stimulated activity in other industries. The exchanges for the 10 months of 1905 foot up $2,065,314,307, the largest for any corresponding period in the history of the city and an increase of more than $400,000,000 over the first 10 months of 1904.

Any disappointment that may be felt over the earnings of the United States Steel Corporation for the September quarter, a full report of which is given in another column of this morning's Gazette, will be neutralized by the report of unfilled orders on the books of the corporation. These foot up 5,865,377 tons, an increase of 2,857,941 tons over the same period last year, and the largest total in the history of the company. A comparison of the earnings and unfilled orders for the third quarter of the years since the organization of the company follows:

Quarter ending.	Net Earnings.	Orders, Tons.
September 30, 1905.....	$41,240,382	5,865,377
September 30, 1904	28,778,382	3,007,436
September 30, 1903.....	32,432,956	3,725,742
September 30, 1902.....	36,945,429	4,483,007
September 30, 1901.....	28,863,843	.....

There was some activity and recovery in Golden Anchor in the local curb market late yesterday afternoon, about 1,200 shares of the stock changing hands at 87c to 88c. The buying came from insiders. The movement was based upon news received from the camp that the miners had encountered the McDonald vein on the 900-foot level and had uncovered five feet of the ledge. The latter runs highest in value of any in the Tonopah camp, and the finding of it in place exactly as located by the engineers confirms the highest expectations of the managers. The McDonald vein was first opened and operated in the Montana-Tonopah, the original discovery mine and the first dividend payer of that camp. The Golden Anchor, which is now regarded as a mine, is controlled by the same interests which predominate in the Tonopah Extension, and was one of the original properties acquired by these interests in Nevada.

The West End Savings Bank and Trust Company has declared the usual quarterly dividend of 3 per cent, payable November 1.

North Butte was again active in the Boston market and at one time sold up to 58¾. It later reacted and closed at 57 bid, 57½ asked.

Kansas Natural Gas stock was offered at 49 in the local curb market. There was no bid. Insiders talk confidently of the future of the stock, but do not look for any permanent upward movement for some months to come.

The buying of Atchison was stimulated by a report that the gross earnings for three weeks in October increased more than $1,000,000 over the same period last year. The movement of grain is very heavy in the Atchison territory.

One reason assigned for the failure of Great Northern and Northern Pacific to advance with the rest of the market is that Union Pacific is selling its holdings of those securities which it received with the distribution of Northern Securities assets.

There has been a moderate sized short interest in Smelters for some weeks. The stock seemed to become scarcer the higher it goes. It looks as if the shorts would be driven to cover.

The Colorado Fuel and Iron Company reports for the fiscal year ended June 30, gross earnings of $18,815,017 against $8,825,676 in the previous year; operating expenses, $16,844,198, against $8,406,681; net earnings, $1,780,819, against $214,926. Balance after management expenses carried to income account, $1,474,193, against $3,276 in the previous year. Deducting charges there is left a deficit for the last fiscal year of $541,302 against a deficit of $1,384,858 in 1904.

The 1¾ per cent quarterly dividend on United States Steel preferred is payable November 30.

Brooklyn Rapid Transit convertible 4s have reached the new high record of 96½. Last year they sold as low as 82⅝.

United States Steel sinking fund 5s, which yesterday touched the record price of 99½, will be quoted ex-coupon of 2½ per cent today.

The New York money market was occupied yesterday with the November settlements and the call loan rate was affected accordingly. The renewal of the interior demand for currency was still in evidence and New Orleans took $900,000 in currency through the medium of the sub-treasury.

Gross earnings of Canadian Pacific for September increased $651,699, and net increased $307,202.

Gross earnings of Chesapeake & Ohio for September increased $281,594 and net increased $147,487.

Gross earnings of Big Four for September decreased $78,360 and net decreased $63,228.

Directors of the Pennsylvania railroad are scheduled to meet today to declare the semi-annual dividend of 2 per cent.

The North American directors declared a regular quarterly dividend of 1¼ per cent, payable on December 1.

Five of the United Copper directors are either in Butte or Europe and for this reason no action has been taken on the dividend. About four months ago an initial dividend of 1 per cent was declared on common. This was not for any stated period.

The report of the Philadelphia Company and affiliated corporations, consisting of the Equitable Gas Company, Consolidated Gas Company, the Allegheny County Light Company and the Pittsburgh Railways Company, for the nine months ending September 30, follows:

Gross earnings from operations		$11,970,497.91

National Bank Notes Redeemed.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—National bank notes received today for redemption, $681,395; government receipts from internal revenue, $614,656; customs, $789,902; miscellaneous, $370,877; expenditures, $1,090,000.

THE FINANCIAL MARKETS IN OCTOBER

The chief feature of October was the radical change which took place in international monetary conditions. At the beginning of the month sterling exchange declined to a level which permitted of gold imports. At the end of the month rates had advanced to a level which seemed to make gold exports a certainty in the near future. The Imperial bank of Germany raised its rate of discount to 5 per cent, and all the continental markets ruled firmer than at any previous time during the year. The Bank of England raised the price it was willing to pay for gold, and the open London market rate for money held at a parity with the minimum bank rate. The percentage of reserve to liability of the Bank of England fell to the lowest level for years at this season. In the United States money was in active demand, and the call rate to New York stock exchange borrowers advanced to 8 per cent, the highest of the year. The surplus reserves of the New York banks fell to the lowest of the year. The movement of currency to the interior was on a large scale, despite the previous estimates that the west and south would not draw so largely as in former years on their balances in New York. Exports of breadstuffs increased to the largest total for more than a year, but exports of cotton fell off, and bankers who had sold exchange against prospective cotton bills were compelled to cover at a higher price or ship gold.

While these movements in the money market were in progress, the average price of stocks in the New York market advanced to the highest ever quoted. The movement was based upon the immense volume of business of the railroads and the unprecedented demand for iron and steel products. During the month of October the orders placed for cars and locomotives probably exceeded any previous monthly total, and the demand for structural steel was also on a [illegible] scale. The reaction which occurred in the market late in the month [illegible] upon the uncertainty manifested in the foreign markets over the outcome of the revolutionary spirit rampant in Russia. That outcome was favorable to the progress of civilization, and may have a most important bearing upon the future of the world's markets. The postponement of the Russian peace loan of $256,000,000 occurred just before the close of the month, but negotiations are now likely to be resumed. One of the incidents of the month was the increase in the dividend on Norfolk & Western common, from 1½ to 2 per cent semi-annual.

The event of the month in local financial circles was the closing of the Enterprise National bank of Allegheny City. The disclosures in connection with this failure were of a character to startle the banking community, and it no doubt had a restrictive influence upon local stock market dealings. At all events, the market became extremely dull after the occurrence, and there was evidence of a tightening of the money market. The event directly bearing upon the stock market, however, was the passage of the dividend on National Fire Proofing preferred. Almost up to the day of the announcement of the passage of the dividend there were semi-official assurances of the magnitude and profitableness of the business of the company, but the stock ticker foreshadowed the truth. The price declined to the lowest of the year, and to within a fraction of the lowest ever quoted during the panicky days of 1903. The official explanation of the action of the directors was the inability to float on satisfactory terms a bond issue from the proceeds of which it was intended to clean up floating debt and provide additional capital. The action of the directors of the Harbison-Walker Refractories Company in restoring the full 1½ per cent quarterly dividends on the preferred stock was neutralized by the other events of the month. Dealings in bank stocks and bonds during the month were moderately active.

Following is the record of transactions on the Pittsburgh stock exchange for the month of October, 1905, and the net price changes from the last preceding sales:

STOCKS BOOM ON NEWS OF PEACE FROM RUSSIA

Czar's Manifesto Causes Great Improvement in the Market and All Lines Soar.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The Herald this (Wednesday) morning says:

Stocks underwent a sharp recovery yesterday, closing strong, with numerous noteworthy advances, although somewhat under the best of the day. The highly satisfactory news from Russia resulted in improvement in all the world's large markets, and New York participated in the favorable development. The character of local business was not much changed, still continuing highly professional, but the trading short interest found it advisable to cover, and in doing so they were assisted by the bull clique, which ran up prices rapidly. The volume of business shows a material increase, but the dealings were largely confined to a rather limited group of issues. Enormous activity developed in specialties and in pool and clique issues, and advances in some of these were noteworthy. Speculative sentiment continued mixed, despite the punishment administered to bear cliques. Commission houses reported no increase of public participation in the market.

The Russian news, which by most persons was regarded as averting a possible and probable revolution, was the overshadowing development of the day. The influence of the czar's manifesto was unmistakable upon all the markets of the world. London and the continent of Europe responded easy, and in an unmistakable fashion. Locally the e was an indiscriminate advance, and Japanese bonds improved here as did Russian securities abroad. The unfavorable features of local news, such as the strengthening of time and call money, and other unfavorable local political matters were lerged in the general short covering movement, and speculative upbidding that followed the European advances. Aside from the specific Russian advices the best feature of the day was a break in wheat and the easing in sterling exchange. Both of these features were developments collateral with the Russian news, and so far as the exchange market was concerned with the firmness of money.

Coffee and Sugar.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The market for coffee futures opened today at an advance of 5 and 10 points in response to steadier European cables than expected. Brazilian receipts were full, however, and with little fresh buying in evidence the market soon eased off under a renewal of liquidation. The close was barely steady at unchanged prices to a decline of five points. Sales were reported of 75,250 bags, including Dec. at 6.45@6.55c, Jan. at 6.60@6.65c, Feb at 6.70c, March at 6.80c, May at 6.85@7.05, July at 7.15, Aug. at 7.20c, Sept. at 7.25@7.30c. Coffee—spot Rio, quiet; No. 7 invoice, 8¼@8½c; mild, dull; Cordova, 10¾@12¾c. Sugar, raw, quiet; fair refining, 2¾c; centrifugal, 96 test, 3½c; molasses sugar, 2¾c. DRIED FRUIT PRICES GENERALLY CHANGE

Western Markets Are Pretty Thoroughly Cleaned Out. Peaches Are Scarce.

All dried fruits changed in price yesterday. This is accounted for by the fact that jobbers are only buying for their needs and are not speculating much. On the other hand, it is reported that the market for dried fruit on the western coast has been cleaned up so thoroughly that apricots and peaches cannot be had. Raisins, evaporated peaches, cleaned currants and prunes took a drop, while evaporated apples and apricots went up.

The butter market was without change and trade is still good in fancy creamery butter and the market is firm.

Walnuts took another drop in price yesterday. These nuts are plenty now. The trade in all kinds of nuts was very good.

Parsnips appeared on the market yesterday and sold at from $1.75 to $2 a bushel. Both German seed and domestic cabbage are now on sale and trade is good.

Although there was a large supply of turkeys on the market, there has been no change in price.

HAY AND GRAIN.

Receipts.

Receipts yesterday were: Pennsylvania, 24 hay, 17½ oats, 6½ corn, 1 feed. Baltimore & Ohio: 15 hay, 3 oats, 2 corn, 1 feed. Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, 10 hay, 1 feed, 1 rye.

The market continues to be active. There is no change to note in prices, except on mixed and clover hay, which is in good demand at the prices quoted.

WHEAT MARKET HAS A DOWNWARD TENDENCY

Prospective Peace in Russia Probably the Chief Influence. Corn Market Firm.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—Prospective peace in Russia was today the chief influence affecting the wheat market here. As a result of the pacific outlook, prices in the wheat market had a downward tendency. At the close the May option was off ¾c. December is down ⅝c. Corn shows a gain of ½c. Oats are off ⅛c and provisions 2½c to 7½c. The wheat market was decidedly weak at the start, initial quotations on May being off 5⅛@5¾c to 1@1¼c at 90¾@91⅜c. December was down 5⅛c to 1¼c at 89¼@89⅝c.

Sentiment in the pit was extremely bearish and a general selling movement was in evidence. For a time demand was very light. Advices regarding the situation in Russia formed the principal cause of the initial weakness. Likelihood that the tie-up of the Russian railroads resulting from political disturbances would soon be broken gave promise of continued exportation of grain from that country. This deprived the market of the main bullish factor. A report made by an English statistician concerning the conditions of foreign crops was another bearish factor. This report was to the effect that the wheat crop of Russia was in good condition, and that an official estimate placed the total yield of winter wheat at 219,000,000 bushels, against 204,000,000 bushels a year ago.

A decline of 1@1¼c in the price of wheat at Liverpool gave added force to the bearish dispatches. Weather in the winter wheat section of the United States dispelled fear of damage by drought to the newly-sown crop and gave additional reason for selling. After trading was well under way the market was steadied temporarily by active support from a leading bull. Toward the noon hour, however, fresh selling caused prices to take another downward plunge. This selling was stimulated somewhat by a large increase in the world's visible supply, Bradstreet's showing an increase of 7,500,000 bushels during the previous week, compared with only 2,891,000 bushels increase the corresponding week a year ago.

For May the lowest point of the day was reached at 90c. December sold off to 83¾c. Much of the loss was subsequently gained on covering by shorts, and on buying by the leading longs. The market closed steady with May at 90⅝@90¾c. Final quotations on December were 89@89c. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 64,000 bushels. Primary receipts were 1,461,000 bushels, against 1,041,000 bushels a year ago. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 1,262 cars, against 1,076 cars last week and 851 cars a year ago.

Early in the session the corn market was quite weak in sympathy with the break in wheat. Later the market became firm on an active general demand. A feature of trading was the heavy purchases of the May delivery by a prominent bull. Cables were steady and cash and export demands were reported of an urgent character. Numerous reports continued to come in telling of small returns from huskings. Market closed firm with prices at about the highest point of the day. December opened ¼c to ⅝@⅝c lower at 45¾@45½c to 45¾c, sold between 45½@45¾c and 46¼c and closed at 46¼c. Local receipts were 36 cars, with 40 cars of contract grade.

The oats market showed a tendency to follow the movements of the corn market. Sentiment was quite bearish at the start, but later a firmer tone developed. The leading longs added materially to their holdings and cash houses also bought freely. The market closed steady. December opened ⅜c lower at 29¼c, sold up to 29⅝c and closed at 29⅜c. Local receipts were 350 cars.

Influenced by the break in wheat the provisions market was a trifle easier. There were some wild fluctuations in the price of October pork and ribs on final settlements, shorts in ribs being compelled to pay $1 50 advance at the close. October pork ranged between $15 65 and $16 50, closing 40c a barrel under yesterday. There was little new investment buying of the January product pending the final outcome of the windup in the October delivery. At the close January pork was off 5@7½c at $12 37½@12 40. Lard and ribs were each down 2½c at $6 82½ and $6 50 respectively.

Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 140 cars; corn, 117 cars; oats, 287 cars; hogs, 55,000 head.

The Drygoods Market.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The drygoods market today was quiet and although buyers were conservative yet their interest in the nearby goods, displaying a need for supplies which could not be filled, was sufficient to influence sellers to a firmness of attitude which general apathy could not change. Local jobbers experienced on the moderate business.

SHELLABERGER IS IN FULL CHARGE

Santa Fe Passenger Territory Is Divided—Lake Erie Office Men Are Advanced.

COL. MOODY "SPINS A YARN"

Fred E. Shellaberger has been given absolute charge of the Pittsburgh territory of the Santa Fe system's passenger business. While there is no change in Mr. Shellaberger's title, which has been passenger agent, his many friends will be gratified to hear of his advancement to the jurisdiction of the territory. There will be no change in the freight department of the Santa Fe here, General Agent E. F. Lalk having had charge of this territory for several years.

For about 20 years the local territory has been under the jurisdiction of the general agent of the passenger department at Cincinnati, George K. Gunnip, who is very well known here and who will today be advanced to a similar office at Chicago. No successor has been named for the Cincinnati office, although it was reported that the place had been tendered to J. N. Basteo, passenger agent at Detroit. Mr. Gunnip has heretofore had charge of the Cincinnati and Pittsburgh territory, with Mr. Shellaberger representing the company's interest here, but this territory is now divided, the Pittsburgh territory including Ohio as far west as Columbus, south to the Baltimore & Ohio main line through West Virginia, east to Harrisburg and north to the state line.

Mr. Shellaberger came to Pittsburgh six years ago from Boston, where he was traveling passenger agent for the Santa Fe. He has been identified with railroading from boyhood, most of this time having been spent with the Santa Fe. His promotion is one of the large number of changes incident to the advancement of George T. Nicholson to the vice presidency of the company's lines.

The Santa Fe passenger department is now represented here by Mr. Shellaberger and City Passenger Agent Blair F. Davis, but it is probable that the force will be increased in the near future. The Santa Fe has always enjoyed a large patronage from Pittsburgh.

Col. Moody Scores One on Boyd.

The passenger men had been telling yarns in which Col. Samuel Moody, general passenger agent of the Pennsylvania lines west, figured pretty prominently and not always to the side that provoked seriousness. It happened that George W. Boyd, general passenger agent of the lines east, told a good one on Col. Moody, and the latter waited his opportunity to get something good to retaliate. He happened to hear a rattling good yarn and yesterday told it.

"Every one who has traveled on the Pennsylvania knows that Mr. Boyd takes great pride in the wonderful Allegheny mountain scenery," said Col. Moody, "but one time there happened to be one of Boyd's loyal passenger agents in charge of a theatrical troupe of Charles Hoyt out of New York. The agent mentioned the Horseshoe bend and the grand scenery, and some of the members of the theatrical company expressed a desire to be awakened to view the mountains in the moonlight. Accordingly when the train left Altoona the members were awakened and soon were gathered in a merry party on the observation platform. They were admiring the scenery, when one of the girls of the troupe noticed that Mr. Hoyt was not with them.

"'Why, this will never do,' said she, 'Mr. Hoyt must see this grandeur.' And she lost no time in making her way to Mr. Hoyt's drawing room door. A gruff voice, ruffled at being awakened out of a good sleep, answered her continued knocking, and her girlish voice told of the wonderful Pennsylvania scenery which Mr. Hoyt must surely come out and see.

"'Scenery be d——d,' replied Mr. Hoyt. 'I'm paying George Boyd now for two carloads of scenery up in those baggage cars. Isn't that enough?'"

N. Y. C. Lines Traffic Meeting.

W. A. Terry, general freight agent of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, and D. F. Hurd, general agent of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern and Lake Erie & Western roads, left last night for St. Louis, to attend the semi-annual meeting of the freight traffic officers and representatives of the New York Central lines today and tomorrow. The annual meeting of the agents of the Merchants' Dispatch, of which Mr. Hurd is representative in Pittsburgh, will be held at Buffalo, November 7 and 8.

Two of the New York Central lines' officers who will receive congratulations at today's meeting are Barret B. Mitchell and L. Hyde. Mr. Mitchell, who was general freight traffic manager of the Michigan Central at Detroit, will today become freight traffic manager of all New York Central lines' roads west of Buffalo, excepting the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, with headquarters at Chicago. Mr. Hyde, formerly agent of the Lake Shore-Lackawanna line at Chicago, has been appointed assistant general freight agent of the Lake Erie & Western, at Peoria.

Looking After Santa Fe Cars.

C. W. Kouns, superintendent of transportation of the Santa Fe system, is spending a couple of days in Pittsburgh looking after cars that are being built here for his company.

"We are having a wonderfully heavy movement in the west," said Mr. Kouns, "and cars are scarce, but the situation is not nearly so bad as in the Pittsburgh district. Our shortage, of course, is also in other lines than the coal cars. The wheat crop is still moving and the immense corn crop is just beginning to pour into the elevators along the western roads. The business is excellent in all lines."

One of the general agents of another large western system said that he had just received advices from the general offices that the traffic this year would be larger than for several years past. The wheat, corn and cotton crops have been excellent and the roads are having all the business they can handle.

Promotion on the P. & L. E.

E. K. Connealy, who has served as chief clerk in the office of Vice President and General Manager Schoonmaker of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie for the past two years, will today be promoted to the office of chief clerk under Purchasing Agent R. Evans. Mr. Connealy succeeds W. J. Caton, who retires from the Lake Erie, after 15 years of service, to become identified with the American Lumber Company. Mr. Connealy is succeeded in the vice president's office by W. F. Brunner, who has been with the Lake Erie for the past three years. He started as a ticket clerk in the city office and was later advanced to baggage clerk in the general passenger offices, then to voucher clerk and cashier. He is succeeded as voucher clerk by Lawrence Schnapps, who has been baggage clerk.

Railroad Notes.

A. J. Kennedy, passenger agent of the Santa Fe at Cleveland, was in the city last night.

General Manager G. L. Peck of the Pennsylvania lines west went to New York last night.

Robert O. Ferran, a West Penn division engineman, has been appointed assistant road foreman of engines.

Headmen of the railroads in the New Castle district will gather in a large social mass meeting at New Castle Friday night.

B. C. Sattley, traffic manager of the Page Woven Wire Fence Company of Monessen, was circulating among the traffic men yesterday.

C. E. Bower, superintendent of the Waynesburg & Washington railroad, was here from Waynesburg yesterday, conferring with Pennsylvania officers.

H. W. McMaster, general superintendent of the Wabash, was at Columbia Junction arranging for the transfer of the headquarters of a number of trainmen from Rook.

A Pittsburgh system time card meeting, preliminary to the general meeting in Baltimore, was held here yesterday by the general superintendent and division superintendent of the Baltimore & Ohio.

The Long Island will inaugurate electric train service between Atlantic avenue station, New York, and Jamaica next Sunday. This service will be in competition with the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company.

G. C. Stucke, chief clerk in the Pennsylvania lines' freight claim department, last evening enjoyed a gala night with a number of friends at his home in Sewickley in celebration of the fifteenth anniversary of his marriage.

W. F. Boobles, who has been identified with the Allegheny Valley for the past 20 years, and who also was freight agent at the Sixteenth street produce yards for the past 15 years, will today succeed special agent of the Pennsylvania freight department at Philadelphia in place of J. D. Remington, resigned. His successor will probably be announced by General Superintendent O'Donnell today.

Jell-O Gets Another Gold Medal.

Portland, Oregon, Oct. 31st 1905.—The International Jury has awarded the highest award Gold Medal to THE GENESEE PURE FOOD CO. of Le Roy, N. Y., manufacturers of JELL-O, known as America's Most Popular Dessert, and Jell-O ICE CREAM Powder. Both products have also been approved by the Pure Food Commissioners. This company's exhibit in the Agricultural Building was probably the most popular one at the Portland Exposition.

CHARLES A. STILLINGS IS GOVERNMENT PRINTER

A Boston Man Is Appointed to the Office by President Roosevelt.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The President has appointed Charles A. Stillings of Boston, as public printer to take effect November 1. Mr. Stillings is manager of the printers' board of trade of New York City. Senator Lodge was among those who indorsed the appointment. Mr. Stillings was connected with a Boston printing house for some years and was once secretary of the Typothetae of Washington.

The appointment of Mr. Stillings was not forecasted by any discussion of his candidacy for the place. The large printing firms of New York and Boston indorsed him as a practical printer and executive. He was also strongly indorsed by Senator Crane. He is a son of Gen. Stillings, who was adjutant general on the staff of the late Cecil Blackmar of the Grand Army of the Republic.

The position which acting Public Printer Ricketts will occupy under the new administration of the affairs of the government printing office will be determined by Mr. Stillings, whose commission was signed by the President tonight.

Celebrate Their Golden Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Doran, at their home in Duquesne, on Monday celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. Mr. Doran has been in the mail service there for 10 years. There are four daughters and seven sons. Mr. Doran is 71 and his wife is two years his junior. The wedding of the couple took place near Salisburg, Pa. Mr. Doran served in the civil war.

IF A 2 CENT STAMP WILL SAVE YOU HUNDREDS OF DOLLARS AND YEARS OF SUFFERING AND ANNOYANCE, Wouldn't it be a pretty good investment? If you are a sufferer form Catarrh or Deafness, send a 2c stamp to Pretzinger Bros., chemists, Dayton, Ohio, and they will mail you a sample of Pretzinger's Catarrh Balm, which has been proven by thousands to be the only immediate, specific cure for all forms of catarrh and its kindred affliction—deafness. Easily applied—gives instant relief, and you'll thank us for the advice. For sale by druggists. If not, a full sized jar will be sent prepaid on receipt of 50c. But send for the sample first. That'll prove the claims of Pretzinger's Catarrh Balm.

"The effects of your catarrh balm are marvelous, for I have found nothing else to touch the parts so soothingly, hence the cure. Would that every sufferer could be convinced of its merits and act accordingly."—Chas. F. Reed, 1126 North Tejon st., Colorado Springs, Colo.

NOBODY IS EXEMPT.

A New Preparation Which Everyone Will Need Sooner Or Later.

Almost everybody's digestion is disordered more or less, and the commonest thing they do for it is to take some one of the many so-called blood purifiers, which, in many cases, are merely strong cathartics. Such things are not needed if the organs are in a clogged condition, they need only a little help and they will right themselves. Cathartics irritate the sensitive linings of the stomach, and bowels and often do more harm than good.

Purging is not what is needed. The thing to do is to put the food in condition to be readily digested and assimilated. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do this perfectly. They partly digest what is eaten and give the stomach just the help it needs. They stimulate the secretion and excretion of the digestive fluids and relieve the congested condition of the glands and membranes. They put the whole digestive system in condition to do its work. When that is done you need take no more tablets, unless you eat what does not agree with you. Then take one or two tablets—give them needed help, and you will have no trouble.

It's a common-sense medicine, and a common-sense treatment, and it will cure every time. Not only cure the disease, but cure the cause. Goes about it in a perfectly sensible and scientific way.

We have testimonials enough to fill a book, but we don't publish many of them. However—Mrs. E. M. Faith, of Byrd's Creek, Wis., says:

"I have taken all the Tablets I got of you and they have done their work well in my case, for I feel like a different person altogether. I don't doubt if I had not got them I should have been at rest by this time."

H. E. Willard, Onslow, Ia., says: "Mr. White of Canton, was telling me of your Dyspepsia Tablets curing him of Dyspepsia, from which he suffered for eight years. As I am a sufferer myself I wish you to send me a package by return mail."

Phil. Brooks, Detroit, Mich., says: 'Your Dyspepsia cure has worked wonders in my case. I suffered for years from dyspepsia, but am now entirely cured and enjoy life as I never have before. I gladly recommend them."

Strongest in the World

Almost a Million and a Half

The Pittsburgh agency of the Equitable Life Assurance Society is twenty-five years old today. The anniversary will be signalized by presenting to the society new business written during the month of October to the aggregate amount of over

$1,400,000.00

Only once in the history of the agency has this record been excelled for October business. It is four times as much as was written during the entire year of 1880.

Such a business would not be possible if Equitable policies were not the Government Bonds of life assurance.

The Elusive Mr. Loose

HAS SOME EXCITING ESCAPADES.

I entered The Leader Department Store promptly at 8:40 A. M. The store was crowded, all evidently looking for me. I went up to the third floor and remained several minutes in grocery department. As several were observing me closely, I purchased some nuts and hastily made my exit by grocery elevator. Left store after spending half hour there and held conversation with clerk at St. Charles hotel relative to engaging board and room. After varied experiences of little consequence in Fourth and Third avenues and Market street, I went over Wood street to Sixth avenue, and held conversation with officer 117, incidentally inquiring for The Leader Department Store. After thanking him I made my way to that great enterprise by a circuitous route, and during my experiences there the balance of the morning, encountered a handsome lady inquiring for the Suit Department. I traced her steps, until Music Department was reached and listened to the rendition of El Trovatore. After being approached in the Suit Department by a lady wearing black raincoat, who asked, "Are you Mr. Loose?" which are not the words essential to attract my attention, I retraced my steps to the Music Department, escaping the large Millinery Department because, after observing the crowd there, I felt that I would hardly be safe from capture therein. I visited the Stationery Department, purchasing tablet for 8 cents from small lady with brown hair and gilded beads surrounding her neck. Her number was 2701. In leaving, overheard her explaining to another customer that Mr. Loose was in the store this morning. Now, feeling somewhat hungry, I went to the Club restaurant for lunch, and, although I was apparently the main subject of conversation while there, especially by the other occupants at my table, I escaped detection. At 1:30 again arrived at the store, being approached by an elderly lady who inquired if I was Mr. Loose. As she failed to use the correct sentence, which means money to the first person approaching me with same. I did not acknowledge my identity. For two hours I remained in the section bounded by Fifth and Third avenues and Wood and Market streets, observed several persons held up on account of their close resemblance to myself. In Joyce's hotel, after enjoying a cup of coffee, I entered into conversation with the lady behind the counter, and she was not at all backward in announcing that she could readily learn to love Mr. Loose if she captured him. (Doubtless she would, at least, until she received the reward, amounting to over $125 for my capture.) I remained in the Leader for about an hour, from 3:30 on, spending some time in grocery department, but the crowd there frightened me away. I felt very sorry for the young man who was caught there and almost carried off his feet in the anxiety of my would-be captors to satisfy themselves that he was Mr. Loose. I was close at hand watching all the time, but failed to attract the crowd. A lady with a brown veil followed me downstairs, and was explaining to a friend of hers that she had no opportunity to apprehend me. She had an excellent chance if she had only known it. Was about the Drug Department for considerable time, watching the demonstrator putting cold cream on customers' hands. In order to give you a still better chance to catch me, I will positively be on the first floor from 10:30 to 11 A. M. and on the second and third floors from 2:30 until 3 P. M. I will purchase a suit of clothes in the Clothing Department some time tomorrow.

THE ELUSIVE MR. LOOSE.

Be sure and remember that my capture is worth $100, $10 extra if you possess sales slip or slips amounting to 50c or over per day for each day of the search, $15 extra if my captor holds the Leader's Stockholder's check, ordinarily entitling the owner thereof to 10% discount on purchase. In approaching me be sure and use these words: "Are you the Elusive Mr. Loose of the Leader Department Store, the largest Co-Operative Store in America?"
